TOTAL ECLIPSE OF MOON TONIGHT

Darkness Will Prevail for Hour and 29 Minutes.

PARTIAL SHADOW AT 9:17

AT 10:19 IT WILL BE ENTIRELY OBSCURED AND REMAIN SO UNTIL 11:45.

Entire Spectacle Will Last a Little More Than Three Hours—Night Will Be Clear, the Forecaster Says.

Persons living in this part of the world will have an opportunity to witness tonight a total eclipse of the moon.

This free and splendid spectacle will last a little more than three hours, the limit of a theatrical performance, though the curtain will rise an hour later than in a playhouse. Darkness will prevail for an hour and 29 minutes.

The moon will enter the partial shadow at 9:17 o'clock.

At 10:19 the eclipse will be total.

The moon will emerge into the penumbra, or partial shade, at 11:48.

At 12:50 a. m. the eclipse will end, and once more Luna will shed hr unobstructed luster.

It is, however, a borrowed luster. The moon is a dead, cold body, a burnt-out world.

All her light she sheds only by reflection. Moonlight is what may be called diluted sunlight, or secondhand sunshine. The sun supplies all the illumination, which is thrown nocturnally upon the earth by the moon.

238,793 MILES AWAY.

This sub-luminous body is 238,793 miles away from the earth. It is comparatively a small affair, being only about one-eighth as heavy as the earth and having a surface 13 times smaller.

The eclipse tonight will be caused by the earth's shadow obscuring the moon. The sun, earth and moon will be in a direct line, the earth between the sun and the moon.

The orbits of the sun and the moon are not upon exactly the same plane. If they were on the same plane there would be a total eclipbse of the moon every full moon and a total eclipse of the sun every new moon.

When the moon is between the earth and the sun there is an eclipse of the sun.

MOON'S SURFACE MAPPED.

In spite of the vast distance to the moon, the geographers of the earth have been able to map the moon's surface more accurately than that of the earth. Certain portions of the earth, such as the north and south poles, are as yet inaccessible.

The entire outer surface of the moon has been visible to the astronomers on the earth, and by the aid of strong telescopes they have made accurate maps of the moon.

On a clear night, such as this promises to be, an eclipse of the moon is awe-inspiring.

Dr. Hyatt of the weather bureau predicts that tonight will be as clear as was last night.

TEN CARLOADS DELAYED MAIL

Wreck at Greencastle, Ind., Causes Greatest Grist of Mail Ever Seen at Union Station.

Ten carloads of delayed mail were piled on the mailing platform of Union Station this morning, the largest consignment which has been received in a single lump in the history of the depot. It was not a result of the baggage and mail handlers' strike, however.

A Vandalia train was wrecked at Greencastle, Ind., yesterday, and three heavy mail trains from the East were delayed. The Wabash, which should have arrived here yesterday evening at 7:40, did not pull in until about 3 o'clock this morning, consequently four full trainloads of mail overwhelmed the force of handlers.

Supt. Taft of the United States railway mail service said that the mails were all gotten out on time last night and everything would have been in excellent shape this morning had it not been for the nonarrival of these trains, which were many hours late. Hundreds of sacks and a large number of pouches were heaped up and he could not say when the distribution would be completed.

The baggage department was handled in fairly good shape last night. The men are rapidly acquiring a knowledge of their duties.

The officials state that they have nothing to arbitrate for the State Board of Arbitration, and that while matters move somewhat slowly just now and mistakes are sometimes made owing to the inexperience of the new employes, all this will be remedied in a short time.

CLEAR SKIES FOR ECLIPSE

Dr. Hyatt Promises That St. Louisans Will Get Good Vision of Tonight's Spectacle.

Dr. Hyatt promises clear skies tonight, so that the people of St. Louis and its vicinity may enjoy the spectacle of the moon's eclipse.

THIS IS A FINE DAY

"Clear tonight and Friday; moderate temperature," is the forecast.

The moderate temperature means about 58 degrees, this morning's record. That is 10 degrees warmer than Wednesday and 20 degrees above the frosty temperature of Tuesday morning.

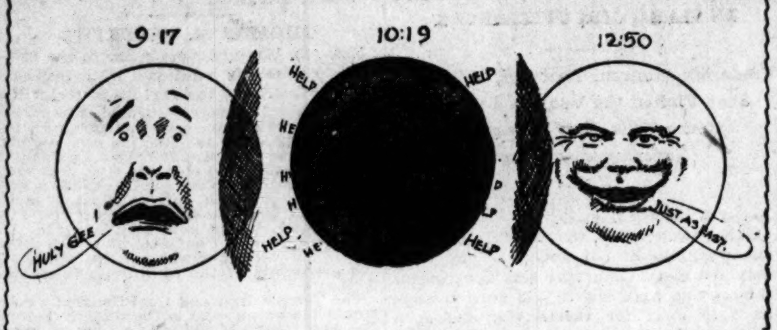
Dr. Hyatt, in his study of the weather map, has found a select bunch of "lows" and "highs," unevenly distributed.

His high barometers are over the Southeast, the Pacific states and the middle Rocky Mountains—three "highs."

The low barometers—four "lows"—are over the North Atlantic states, Illinois, Arizona and the British Northwest.

There is very little rain anywhere in the country.

The Eclipse of the Moon as It Will Appear to St. Louisans Tonight



THIS ST. LOUIS SALVATION ARMY GIRL SPENT TWO MONTHS' VACATION ABROAD

CAPT. ANNA LINDBERG.

Photographed by the Post-Dispatch.

Capt. Anna Lindberg, Champion "War Cry" Seller, Likes American Customs Better Than Those of Her Own Country.

Capt. Anna Lindberg, the St. Louis Salvation Army officer who broke the record at selling War Crys last spring, has just returned from a two months' vacation spent in Europe.

European vacations and the Salvation Army are not things that seem to fit well together and are usually impossible, but Capt. Lindberg's parents live in Sweden and before she entered the Army four years ago she had enough money saved to go back to the home that she had not seen since her childhood.

She sailed from New York July 4 on the steamer "Celtic." She was all alone, but because she wore the garb of the Salvation Army many became her friends.

When Sunday came around and services were held on board she sang some of the songs that her beautiful soprano voice has made favorites of in St. Louis. Afterwards, when the weather was stormy, one of the passengers remarked, "It is well that we have at least one good one on board."

America's Railway Service Superior.

The "Celtic" reached Liverpool after being eight days out. From Liverpool Capt. Lindberg went by train to Hull, where she took ship to Copenhagen. Capt. Lindberg does not like English trains. The flat-like arrangement of the traveling cars was not pleasing to her. She says that the railway systems of both England and Sweden are far behind those of the United States.

She spent a day in Copenhagen. In speaking of the Denmark capital she said "Copenhagen is not like St. Louis. It has many trees right in its business portion. Its downtown is like the West End of St. Louis in regard to trees and little parks which are scattered here and there. The buildings of Copenhagen are not tall."

"The highest have five stories."

From Copenhagen Capt. Lindberg went to Gothenburg, Sweden, and from there north to Ockelbo, Sweden, where her parents live. She had not seen them for 11 years. They and her brothers and sisters were glad to see the girl that had become an American and a Salvation Army worker.

"I cannot tell you how glad," said Capt. Lindberg, in speaking of her home-coming to me.

Sweden Strange After Her Absence.

But Sweden was strange to Capt. Lindberg and in saying this she paid a high compliment to the men of America in general and St. Louisans in particular. One of the first things she missed in Sweden was the politeness of men to women as she has learned to know it in America. That bothered her for a while until those whom she met learned that she was from America. Then nothing was too good for her.

She had to learn the manners of her country over again. When she was invited out she had to watch the behavior of the other guests in order that she might know how to act. They eat much in Sweden, and those who entertain try to outdo each other in presenting good things to their guests.

One day Capt. Lindberg was one of the guests at the home of a school teacher. This was the program in the words of Capt. Lindberg: "First we had small cakes. Then after a while coffee and crackers were served. Not from a large table at which we were seated, but from a small table in the center of the room. We stood. Later on when our host asked us to be seated we did so. After the coffee and meat, fish and vegetables were brought on. Dessert came afterwards."

The dress of the Swedish woman is much like that of America, but older style. They wear shirt waists, but still they do not look like the women of America, says Capt. Lindberg.

Life is far from a dream for the women who work in Sweden. Girls who work for families usually receive 80 crowns a year. Three crowns are worth about a dollar. Those who are not paid in this way are given 40 crowns, two woolen dresses, a cotton dress, shoes and stockings. For this salary they are expected to do all the housework, the weaving and much outdoor work.

They Get No Afternoons Off.

Besides, and this is the worst feature, as seen by Capt. Lindberg, they get no afternoons off and work from early morning till late at night. Nothing would induce Capt. Lindberg to be a housemaid in Sweden.

Girls who sew are paid two or crowns for good dresses and a crown for ordinary ones.

Capt. Lindberg was at home during the summer season when the sun shines most of the time day and night in Sweden. She missed the midsummer festival, which was held June 25, when the sun shone all night. During the time she was there it did not begin to get dark until 10 o'clock and was light again at 2.

She visited at Gothenburg, Slottskogen, Trollhattan and Indalselfyen during the summer.

She says that Swedish cities are much cleaner than St. Louis because cleaning is always going on. As soon as a bit of dirt drops in the street there is a cleaner ready to pick it up. I was anxious to know what would happen if one were reckless enough to drop paper in the street.

"Nothing at all," replied Capt. Lindberg, "only someone would come and pick it up."

Such is the way in Stockholm, where the royal palace is.

And yet, with all its cleanliness, Capt. Lindberg pronounces Sweden as backward in regard to progress when compared to America.

She explains this way: "You see, there is no gold in Sweden; if you want that, you must go away. Then, too, there is no speculation in Sweden. There are many rich persons, but they will not invest their money to make more. It is the same way in the royal palace. There are ever so many things that have been there so long that their very age makes them valuable. They could be sold for much money, but Sweden will never sell them."

When her vacation at the home of her father, which is in the lake country of Sweden, where are many pretty lakes and large forests, was over, Capt. Lindberg came back by way of the North Sea. That body of water was not calm on her return trip, in fact, it was rougher than a man who had crossed it 70 times had seen it. From Friday until Sunday the passengers were compelled to stay in their berths.

During that time the passengers ate no food. The steward asked Capt. Lindberg if she would eat anything and she asked for a piece of bread, but she could not eat that. When the worst was over, one of the women passengers expressed a desire to see the sea in a storm. An officer took her on deck and when she saw the high waves rolling and tossing she fainted.

The trip across the Atlantic was uneventful except for slight storms. Capt. Lindberg reached New York early in October, but remained there for the meetings conducted by Gen. Booth.

HASTY MARRIAGE HASTILY REPENTED

SEPARATION WAS A BRIEF HOUR AFTER WEDDING.

GROOM IS 46, BRIDE IS 19

Olive Cook Went With Friend of Family to Seek His Daughter and Returned as His Wife.

Miss Olive Cook, or more properly Mrs. George Bentley, is at her home in Clifton Heights, while her husband, 27 years her senior, is at his home in Springfield, Ill., the couple having separated an hour after their marriage, which took place at midnight Tuesday in Clayton.

Mrs. Bentley is 19 years of age. Her mother declares that the couple shall never live together and that the marriage must be annulled.

George Bentley, who is an electrical engineer, is a lifelong friend of the Cook family.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook knew him intimately before he was married to his first wife, about 27 years ago. The first Mrs. Bentley died two years ago.

For more than a quarter of a century the Cooks and the Bentleys have been friends and Miss Olive Cook had known Mr. Bentley all her life.

Last Tuesday Bentley came to St. Louis to look for his daughter, 15 years old, who had disappeared from home.

He sought the assistance of Miss Cook in searching for the girl. The two went out together, and returned to the Cook residence, at the terminus of Lloyd avenue, late at night, announcing that they had been married.

Justice John P. John of St. Louis County performed the ceremony just before midnight.

Mr. Bentley left his bride at her home, after a brief conference, the nature of which has not been divulged. It is said that there was an agreement not to live together.

He told a brother of Mrs. Cook that the marriage was unpremeditated. He said that he never thought of marrying Miss Cook until he went out with her to look for his daughter.

This morning Mrs. Cook and her daughter went to the residence of a neighbor, where the daughter has been employed and procured all the clothing and effects of the latter.

VIRTUAL END OF COAL MINERS' STRIKE

Both Sides Accept Roosevelt's Arbitration Commission.

MITCHELL ISSUES BULLETIN

Says He Will Recommend a Settlement.

CONVENTION TO BE CALLED

Miners Will Meet and Ratify the Action of Their Leader and Work May Be Resumed Next Monday.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 16.—At 9:55 a. m. President Mitchell issued the following statement:

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 16, 1902.—Appreciating the anxiety and impatience of the public and the mine workers for some authoritative statement from this office, I issue this bulletin to say that I was unalterably opposed to the acceptance of or acquiescence in the form of settlement proposed by the coal operators, because it restricted the President of the United States in making selection of the men who are to determine the questions involved in the coal strike.

These restrictions having been removed and representation given to organized labor as well as to organized capital, I am now prepared to give my personal approval to a settlement of the issues involved in this strike by the commission selected by the President, and shall recommend to the executive officers of districts 1, 7 and 9 in their meeting today that an immediate call be issued for a convention, whose authorization is necessary to declare the strike at an end.

In the meantime I trust that the people of our country will be as patient as possible, as we are moving as rapidly as the interests of our people will permit.

JOHN MITCHELL,

President United Mine Workers of America.

There seems to be little doubt that the joint meeting of the executive boards of the three anthracite districts will call a convention of the miners to consider the arbitration proposition and have the men return to work. There is a belief that a general resumption of coal mining will be had by Monday. The district presidents, who are now on the ground, do not share in this belief, and some of them are opposed to pushing matters. A convention could not be held before Saturday, and they feel that one day is not enough to organize the body and permit of a full discussion of the proposition that of the greatest importance to the miners.

Mr. Mitchell's public statement cleared the situation considerably. It is now for the miners to act, and not one person can be found around headquarters who is not of the opinion that the district boards will call the convention and that the convention will decide to send the men back to work immediately.

The fact that the greatest conflict between capital and labor in the history of the world has resulted in arbitration is looked upon by students of economics who are in this region studying conditions, as a tremendous step forward in the economical progress of the country. The miners feel that they have won a victory, and say that even if the award of the commission does not give them all they have asked for, it is a good thing for the future of the workingmen of the world.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR

HE IS GOING BACK TO WORK.

How the Coal Famine Will Be Relieved

According to President Mitchell, 143,000 miners can resume work on Monday, following the settlement of the strike.

Seventy-five thousand tons of coal can be mined ready for shipment in 48 hours, and the amount increased to 100,000 or 125,000 tons a day at the end of a week. It can be moved to New York and other Atlantic cities in 36 hours from the time it is brought from the mines, but St. Louis and the territory adjacent to it may not be appreciably affected for at least three months.

THREE MONTHS BEFORE COAL COMES HERE.

This means that the winter will have come before any great amount of coal will have been shipped from the anthracite region to this part of the country. This is the opinion of local dealers in fuel. The report that the shortage would be made good within two weeks of the settlement of the strike is regarded by them as untrue.

James S. Kuhn, secretary of the Devoy & Feuerborn Coal and Coke Co., made the following statement this morning:

"I believe that it will be at least ninety days before the quantity of anthracite coal will assume any considerable proportions here. The East will receive the first of the supply."

THE BOARD OF ARBITRATION

Personnel of the Commission Appointed by the President to Settle the Strike.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Following are sketches of the men whom President Roosevelt has selected to arbitrate the differences between the operators and miners out of which arose the great anthracite coal strike:

BRIG.-GEN. JOHN M. WILSON.

Chief of engineers United States army since Feb. 1, 1877, born in the District of Columbia, Oct. 18, 1837; graduated at West Point in 1860 (LL. D., Columbia University 1890).

After the war had charge of engineering works on rivers and harbors, canals, the building of the Army Medical Museum and Library, completion of Washington monument, etc. For a time superintendent United States Military Academy. He was retired in October, 1901.

EDWAR DWHEELER PARKER.

Statistician of the United States geological survey and special agent of the twelfth census of the United States; was born at Fort Deposit, Md., June 16, 1860. He is the author of the annual reports on the production of coal, coke and salt in the United States and other chapters in the annual volumes of the United States geological survey.

Mr. Parker is editor of the Engineering and Mining Journal of New York, a strong defender of the operators.

JOHN LANCASTER SPALDING.

Roman Catholic bishop of Peoria since 1877, born in Lebanon, Ky., June 2, [illegible]; secretary to bishop of Louisville, [illegible]; chancellor diocese of Louisville 1871; mentioned at the preesnt time for archbishop of Chicago; author of "Life of Most Rev. M. J. Spalding, archbishop," "Essays and Reviews," "Religious Mission of the Irish People," "Lectures and Discourses," "Education and the Higher Life," "Things of the Mind," "Means and Ends of Education," "Thoughts and Theories of Life and Education, "America" and other poems, "The Poet's Praise," songs, etc.

GEORGE GRAY.

Judge of the Circuit Court, third United States circuit, since 1889, was born in Newcastle, Del., May 4, 1840, and was graduated from Princeton in 1859. He was attorney-general of Delaware from 1879 to 1885 and United States senator from 1885 to 1899, being a Democrat. He, in 1896, affiliated with the gold standard Democrats, was a member of the peace commission in Paris in 1898 and was appointed by the President to be a member of the joint high commission at Quebec in 1898. He was a member of the international commission, The Hague commission in 1900. His home is in Wilmington, Del.

E. E. CLARK.

E. E. Clark, Cedar Rapids, Io., grand chief of the Order of Railway Conductors, is a sociologist, the President assuming that for the purposes of such a commission the term of sociologist means a man who has thought and studied deeply on social questions and has practically applied his knowledge.

CARROLL D. WRIGHT.

Carroll Davidson Wright, United States commissioner of labor, was born in Dun- [illegible] H., on July 25, 1840. He was [illegible] Bureau of Statistics of Labor in 1873-88 and, in 1880, he was appointed supervisor of the United States census in Massachusetts. In 1876 he was a Republican presidential elector. In January, 1885, he was and is the first commissioner of the bureau of labor in the interior department in Washington. He is a member of many scientific societies and has been for many years a lecturer on labor subjects. The degree of A. M. was conferred on him by Tufts College in 1883. He is the author of many works on labor questions.

JNO. A. DILLON DIES AT BAR HARBOR

Prominent Journalist Formerly of St. Louis.

HE FELL FROM A HORSE

RIB WAS FRACTURED AND DOUBLE PNEUMONIA RESULTED.

Mr. Dillon Was Born in This City 59 Years Ago and for Many Years Was Connected With the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 16.—John A. Dillon, leading editorial writer of the New York Evening World, died Wednesday afternoon at Chatwold, Mr. Pulitzer's cottage, where he had been visiting.

Mr. Dillon fell from his horse, fracturing a rib, while riding on Sunday, Sept. 14.

Though receiving the promptest and most skillful attention, pleurisy and double pneumonia developed, and his case, already serious, was further complicated by organic weaknesses.

Drs. S. Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia, Robert Abbe of New York and Prof. W. S. Thayer of Johns Hopkins were called in consultation by the local physicians, but, in spite of medical skill and careful nursing, Mr. Dillon was unable to rally. His wife, his son Arthur and daughter Ethel, were with him nearly the whole period of his illness and were at his bedside when death came.

John A. Dillon was born in St. Louis, 59 years ago. He was the son of Patrick M. Dillon, a large landowner before the war. His mother, Mrs. E. J. Dillon, survives him at the age of 84 years. Mr. Dillon was brought up under the guardianship of his brother-in-law, Capt. John B. Eads, the famous engineer. He was educated at the Christian Brothers' College in St. Louis and at Harvard University, where he was graduated in 1864, and was very popular with his classmates. He was connected with the diplomatic service in Mexico and lived some years on the continent, becoming an accomplished linguist.

Returning to the United States, Mr. Dillon, in 1876, founded the St. Louis Post, which two years later Mr. Pulitzer bought and consolidated with the Dispatch.

Mr. Dillon has since that time been associated with Mr. Pulitzer in many positions on his newspapers.

He was managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch from 1883 to 1891, when he was called to New York to be business manager of the World. He has been with the World and Evening World since, filling important desks, except for the year 1900, when he was business manager of the Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Dillon was a member of the Century Association, the University and the Harvard clubs. He had made his home in Orange, N. J., for several years.

Mr. Dillon leaves a widow, who was Miss Blanche Valle of St. Louis; two sons, John A., Jr., of Chicago and Arthur B., a New York architect, and five daughters, the eldest of whom is married to Attorney Jesse A. McDonald of St. Louis. He also leaves a sister, the Countess de la Vaulx of Paris.

MILITIA AWES A TEXAS MOB.

Three Companies Take Negro Murderer to Place of Safety.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 16.—A special train bearing three companies of militia arrived at Henderson early today, and after forming a square, with Jim Buchanan, murderer of the Hicks family, in the center, marched to the train, which at once left for the east Texas penitentiary at Rusk, where the negro was landed safely at noon.

The mob which had been seeking to lynch Buchanan sullenly fell back and made no opposition to the soldiers, who numbered about two to one. It was feared that some man with a rifle might attempt to pick off Buchanan as he passed, but precautions were taken to prevent it.

Gov. Sayres will not permit the negro to be taken to Nacogdoches for trial except under military guard. The case is set for next Thursday.

POST-DISPATCH "STICKERS" BY NO MEANS RESEMBLE THIS

Oh, little brother,
Come and look!
I have another
Sticker book!

You are no quicker,
Sis, than I.
I have three sticker
Books. Hi, hi!

Everybody is getting them!

All the children are after them!

They don't cost anything. Not a cent. They are free. Anybody who can talk can get a Post-Dispatch Sticker Book and a full set of stickers.

Now, wouldn't that stick in your cranium?

Other people may put up "No Sticker" signs, but the Post-Dispatch has stickers to give away. Stickers till you can't rest! Stickers for everybody!

How can you get them? Why, this is so easy it is a wonder you haven't guessed it already.

See somebody who is not a regular reader of the Post-Dispatch. No matter who it is—your father, your big brother, your uncle, the lady next door or Mr. Jones in the next block.

Get him or her—whoever it is—to subscribe for the Daily and Sunday Post-Dispatch for three months.

No longer—three months.

Send the name of your new subscriber to the circulation department of the Post-Dispatch, either by postal card or letter, together with your own name and address.

Don't telephone it.

The order will be investigated at once, and just as soon as the mail can carry it you will receive your Post-Dispatch Sticker Book and one full set of stickers.

Now, isn't that simple?

If you prefer to be a little more formal, either call at the Post-Dispatch office and secure an order blank, or write for one.

The Post-Dispatch Sticker Book is a beauty. The stickers are artistic and attractive. The children all like them. Everybody wants them. And just look how easy they are to get!

Five Months of Coal Strike and Efforts Made to End It

Strike began on May 12; price of anthracite coal then in eastern cities $5.45; today $25.50—370 per cent advance.

Miners thrown out of employment, 147,000; their wives and children who suffer from their idleness number 390,000.

Capital invested in the idle mines, $511,500,000; estimated loss to operators in five months, $35,732,345.

First conflict between mine guards and strikers on June 5, when Charles McCann, aged 12, was shot through the chest at Wilkesbarre.

J. Pierpont Morgan hanged in effigy on June 7 in Wilkesbarre.

Total loss to miners, other employes, operators and business men for month of strike ending June 12, $25,053,000.

First deliberate attempt at murder after strike was declared was made on T. A. Thomas, division superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., at Wilkesbarre, when strikers tried to shoot him.

First important effort of nonparticipants to end strike was made by Senators Quay and Penrose in conference with President Baer of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad in second week of July. Effort was unsuccessful.

Total loss to miners, operators, etc., for two months of strike ending July 12, $50,385,000.

First coal guard killed during strike was James Thompson, at Wilkesbarre, July 22.

Most serious riot took place on July 30 at Shenandoah, where a mob of 5000 strikers attacked nonunion men. One man was killed and scores wounded. Two regiments and the governor's troop were ordered to the scene.

Cost of strike for three months ending Aug. 12, $76,450,000.

Price of anthracite coal to consumers in New York on Aug. 12 had almost doubled.

Coal operators met on Aug. 19 in the office of President Baer, and after a four hours' conference decided to warn off politicians and let the strike go on.

"Shoot to kill; investigate afterward." Orders given to National Guardsmen at Shenandoah Aug. 3.

Senator Platt declared on Aug. 29 that strike would end in two weeks.

Gov. Stone arrived in New York on Sept. 8, and although his visit was regarded as significant, no result affecting the coal strike followed.

Gov. Stone, through P. A. B. Widener, as intermediary, asked aid of J. Pierpont Morgan on Sept. 9 in ending the strike. Mr. Morgan would not enter into the controversy.

Cost of strike for four months ending Sept. 12, $101,300,000; price of anthracite coal in New York, $16.

Senator Quay, after a conference with Senator Platt on Sept. 4, planned to have a special session of the Pennsylvania legislature called. Plan fell through.

First formal meeting of the Coal Trust, or the Temple Iron Co., since the beginning of the strike held on Sept. 16 at the office of President Baer. Operators announced they would maintain their position.

President Mitchell declined assistance of bankers who sought to end the strike on Sept. 18.

President Roosevelt called to Washington on Oct. 3 the coal operators and President Mitchell for a conference. Conference brought no relief.

J. Pierpon Morgan announced on Oct. 4 gift of 50,000 tons of coal to relieve distress of the poor.

President Roosevelt conferred on Oct. 3 with Attorney-General Knox, Secretary Root, Secretary Moody, Postmaster-General Payne and decided not to call an extra session of Congress to deliberate on the strike.

On Oct. 5 Gov. Stone ordered out the entire militia of Pennsylvania, and this was immediately followed by a call from President Mitchell for mass-meetings of the strikers.

On Oct. 7 President Mitchell rejected President Roosevelt's proposition to persuade the miners to return to work.

Oct. 13 coal barons make proposition to settle by arbitration, Presiden to appoint the board of five memzers.

Oct. 15 President Mitchell agrees to operators' proposition and President Roosevelt appointed arbitrators.

Cost of strike for five months ending Oct. 12, $126,350,000.

PREACHER OPPOSES SALOON.

Effort to Start One Next Door to Home of Rev. J. P. O'Brien.

There is much indignation among residents on Cote Brilliante avenue over the proposed establishment of a saloon next door to the residence at 5650 Cote Brilliante avenue of Rev. James P. O'Brien, formerly pastor of Hope Congregational Church and now superintendent for Missouri and Arkansas of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society.

Rev. Mr. O'Brien, who spends much of his time traveling over the two states in the interest of his work, is now in St. Louis. He has written to License Commissioner Seibert in regard to the proposed saloon and will see the commissioner today and enter a forceful protest against the issuance of a license for the place.

STABBED SISTER WITH A FORK.

William Morgan, It Is Alleged, Used a Table Weapon.

Miss May Morgan of 123 North Seventh street accuses her brother, William Morgan, of stabbing her in the back with a table fork last night.

The girl was treated at the City Hospital and sent home, the wound not being dangerous. She works in a factory and is the chief support of her family.

She says that at the supper table she asked her brother to repay some money which he had borrowed from her, and that he seized a fork and stabbed her.

A scheme for establishing distributing kitchens has been adopted in Melbourne.

VETERAN'S BOOT IS HIS BANK

Edward Kramer, Hurt by Car, Had $613 in Pension Savings in One of His Boots.

Edward Kramer, 60 years of age, and one of Gen. Grant's old soldiers, was struck by a Chouteau avenue car at Chouteau and Ewing avenues Thursday morning. His right leg was badly fractured at the ankle. He suffered internal injuries and a contusion of the head.

Dr. Ross, at the City Hospital, found $613 in the boot which covered his broken leg. The money lay on the exact spot where the ankle was fractured.

It represents Kramer's savings for many years. His sole income has been a pension of $24 a month, for a wound he suffered at Shiloh.

He had made his high-top boots his bank and kept his hoard where he could feel its presence.

Kramer was in the Twelfth Illinois infantry of the Army of the Cumberland. He followed the flag through the smoke of Corinth, the disasters of Shiloh and the triumph of Fort Donelson. He was thrice wounded. In Shiloh woods the limb of a tree cut by a Confederate shell fell and fractured his ribs.

He has a wife and six children in Illinois to whom he sent a portion of his pension money occasionally.

NEWSBOYS' THEATER PARTY

Juvenile Venders of Post-Dispatch in East St. Louis Will Enjoy Treat.

MISS MA[illegible] DEBAUE.

Tonight the Post-Dispatch newsboys of East St. Louis, through the courtesy of Manager Williams of McCasland's Opera House, will enjoy the thrilling performance of "A Man of Mystery."

The boys will form at Collinsville and Missouri avenues and march to McCasland's Opera House, accompanied by a band. It is expected that about 200 boys will be in the parade and will occupy seats in the theater. Very few of the newsboys ever miss a treat like this.

"A Man of Mystery" is sensational enough to suit the tastes of the boys, and yet it is of an elevating tone. It is a drama by Mark Swan, in which the science of hypnotism is handled very interestingly.

The character Richard Glennwood, which will be assumed by the well-known actor, Herbert O'Connor, is an original creation no less interesting than that of Svengali in "Trilby." Glennwood is a hypnotist and is known as "The Shadow."

Mr. O'Connor's handling of the difficult role is said to be equal to that of Wilton Lackaye as Svengali.

The plot of the play is calculated to please not only the newsboys, but the general theater-going public, and the engagement is hailed as one of the best that McCasland's has secured for many months.

The work of Mr. Williams as manager of the opera house is giving excellent satisfaction in East St. Louis.

READING COMPANY IS BUSY.

Activity Indicates It Expects That Strike Will End.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Greater activity was shown at the offices of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Co. today than at any time since the anthracite coal strike began more than five months ago.

It was evident that the company expected an early resumption of mining and preparations were being made for placing cars at the mines at once.

The Reading Co. owns 23,000 coal cars. One-half of this number has been in use in the bituminous trade, while the remainder are lying idle on the Reading's new belt line in this city. All of these cars will be hurried to the mining region with the utmost dispatch. When the strike began nearly 5000 car handlers were laid off and these will be re-engaged as rapidly as possible.

The company also has 30 barges lying at its wharves in Port Richmond, this city, with a capacity of 1450 tons each, which are ready for immediate use. Its tugs, which have been in use in the soft coal trade, are being hurried back to this city.

Realty Sales.

Edward K. Love reports the sale of a lot of ground 75x185 feet on the north line of Von Versen avenue, between Clara and Goodfellow, for the sum, of $3000 or $40 per front foot, from Robert Abeles to a client, who purchased as an investment. Rolla S. Watson assisted in the transaction.

John S. Blake & Bro. report the sale of South Side dwelling No. 3011 Eads avenue, a seven-room stone-front residence, with lot 25x135, between Pennsylvania and Compton avenues, from James A. Harris to M. C. Ketchum, for $4500.

Twelfth Ward Democratic Club.

The Twelfth Ward regular Democratic Club held its regular meeting last night at Texas avenue and Victor street, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: George Friday, chairman; Thomas A. Duff, vice-chairman; August Schwartz, secretary; H. C. Menne, treasurer; Owen Shannon, sergeant at arms. Seventy-two new members were enrolled. The club will give its annual reception Sunday evening, Nov. 2, at National Hall, Dolman and Allen avenues.

Made It Himself.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Every man his own automobile maker is the motto of a St. Louis engineer, who has just completed a five-horse power machine with a speed of 18 miles an hour, entirely the work of his own hands. The labor of construction took six months, because the engineer was employed in the daytime and could only work on his machine during the evenings. It is six feet four inches long and weighs 1300 pounds. The actual cost of the material was $250.

BAD INDIANS GET THE BEST CARE

Dangerous Tribes Are Looked After Tenderly.

BUT GOOD ONES ARE IGNORED

NAVAJOS, MOQUIS AND PUEBLOS IN HARD CIRCUMSTANCES.

Frederick Monsen, Lecturer, Who Has Just Visited the Various Reservations, Tells How Unequally Government's Bounty Falls.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—"By the curious workings of our Indian affairs it is only the bad Indian who gets government rations and assistance. The good Indians have to shift for themselves, and such tribes as the Navajos, Moquis and Pueblos are in very hard circumstances. The Apaches and other tribes who are always willing to go on the warpath are tenderly looked after."

Frederick I. Monsen, a traveler and lecturer, reports this on his return from a seven weeks' trip among the Navajos, Moquis and Pueblos. He has been collecting data and taking photographs, which he will use in his profession.

"The Navajo reservation in Arizona and New Mexico contains about 20,000 square miles," he said, "but not more than 200 square miles of it is arable land. It produces nothing at present. There have been drouths for the last six or seven years, and the Indians are now killing and eating their horses, so that what little pasture there is may be kept for their sheep. They have no assistance from the government, and have to shift for themselves. Water is terribly scarce.

"A great deal could be done if the federal authorities would interest themselves. The waters might easily be conserved by the building of dams, for the topography of the county lends itself readily to such a scheme. With an irrigating system the land of the Navajos would grow anything. As it is the Franciscan monks at St. Michaels, Ariz., have taught the Indians, over whom they have charge, to dig wells, canals and irrigating ditches, even going so far as to pay them wages to improve their own land.

"The results have been excellent, but a very small portion of the Navajo nation shares in the benefits. They are a people well worth preserving. Their skill in making blankets, pottery, basketware and similar articles for use or ornament is well known. Despite adverse conditions the tribe is increasing in numbers."

Mr. Monsen went to see the famous Moqui snake dance at Oroibe which has seldom been seen by white men.

He also visited the mysterious Canyon de Chelley in northern Arizona.

"The canyon is geologically an impossibility, according to the text books," he said, "but there it is. The walls rise 1000 feet sheer up in the air, but there is no 'talus,' that is, debris broken off by the weather, at the foot of the precipices. It gains its chief interest, however, from the number of cliff dwellings there are in and about it. The place has never been thoroughly explored and we visited dozens of these abodes of primitive men, which have never been entered since their original owners left them.

"Learned ethnographers differ so widely that some believe them to have been contemporary with ancient Babylon, and others think they were living when Coronado came to California. This much I know, that they belonged to a stone age, for we found any number of stone axes, chisels and arrow heads, but neither we nor anyone else ever found a scrap of metal among the relics. In some of the dwellings we discovered mats and sandals preserved from decay by the absolutely dry atmosphere. The places are difficult of access, some of them being 130 to 200 feet up the sheer side of the cliff."

MORE ABOUT FUEL BRICKS.

Some Experiments in Chicago With Oil-Soaked Terra Cotta.

From the Chicago Tribune.

Experiments made with oil-soaked bricks by the Tribune demonstrated the fact that a substitute for coal can be obtained at a minimum of cost and labor.

For a breakfast of breakfast food, eggs, steak, toast and coffee, use one brick.

For a dinner of roast meats, vegetables, boiled meats, puddings, etc., use five or six bricks in relays.

A day's washing and ironing, which at present price of fuel, threatens to be more expensive, can be done with the oiled brick fuel at a cost of 20 cents. It will take little more trouble to replenish a fire with oiled bricks every half hour or so than it does to keep up a coal fire.

To test the oiled brick as a fuel, a breakfast of medium boiled eggs, coffee, toast and steak, was prepared with on brick, taking 20 minutes to cook the food. For the purpose an ordinary terr cotta brick was used. A tin pan half the depth of the brick was used as a bath for the brick. A half inch of kerosene was poured into this.

The bricks are hollow, so that by turning one over until its four sides are wet it can be thoroughly saturated. They are grooved and porous, so they absorb the oil rapidly.

In this bath of kerosene the brick was rolled and the oil permitted to saturate it. It was then taken from the tin and placed in an ordinary cooking stove. When the match was applied the brick ignited slowly, but soon was burning strongly.

The heat was intense, and the stove was soon hot and the food rapidly cooking.

"How much kerosene have you used?" asked the housewife who had loaned her kitchen for the experiment.

"About a cent's worth,' she was told.

"I'll get a brick tomorrow and try it myself. That beats soft coal."

The eggs were bobbing around in a frothing stew pan by this time and the coffee pot was threatening an eruption. The steak was reaching a stage of juicy brownness. The brick was still burning without signs of going out.

When the breakfast was ready the brick was removed with a pair of tongs and plunged into a bucket of water. As soon as the fire had been extinguished it was redipped in the kerosene. When a match was applied the brick burned as freely as it had before its water bath.

Except that the brick comes out black, it is in as good condition as it was before it was used. When at the end of a half hour's burning the fuel begins to show signs of weakness the brick can be removed from the stove or grate and a fresh one put in. The burnt-out brick can then be put in the bath of kerosene, after precautions have been taken to make sure that the fire is extinguished, and will be ready for use when needed. The precautions should include care to see that the kerosene bath is not near the fire. The warning should not be needed, but an occasional explosion shows that it is.

The outfit of the householder who wants to secure cheap fuel and be independent of the coal dealer should include a metal receptacle in which the oil can be kept, a half dozen terra cotta bricks and a pair of tongs to handle them.

With that equipment the kitchen stove or grate is just as serviceable as if the coal bin were full. It is a cheaper fuel than gasoline burned in a gasoline stove, and it has the additional virtue of making heat. It will make a fire much cleaner than soft coal and not far inferior to anthracite. It is probable that if the brick were soaked for 10 or 15 minutes instead of as many seconds it would burn much longer than half an hour and then the work of keeping up the oiled brick fire would be less than that of replenishing a soft-coal fire.

The facts pertaining to this use of the oiled brick have been known to brickmakers. They have known that the porous, hollow, terra cotta brick would absorb oil readily, and that the brick itself would act as a radiator for the heat when the oil was ignited. The application which might be made of the bricks in a time of great scarcity of fuel, however, has not been appreciated.

HIGH PRAISE FOR PRESIDENT

Austrian Paper Likens Him to Gladstone as Special Pleader for the Oppressed.

VIENNA, Oct. 16.—Discussing the coal strike in the United States, the Zeit today makes a highly eulogistic comment on President Roosevelt's action. It says:

"The President filled the role in the world's theater of special pleader in behalf of the oppressed, vacant since the death of Mr. Gladstone.'

Praising Mr. Roosevelt's action in the coal strike, the Zeit says it thinks "his conception of the question, whether these labor wars ought to be permitted to extend to neutral territory, endangering the welfare of citizens not directly concerned, will oblige the states to intervene in these economic struggles."

THOMAS H. WATKINS.

Thos. H. Watkins, who is one of the commission, has his relations with the coal trust. Watkins is the real promoter of the Wyoming & Kingston Railroad. The building was part of concerted movement by individual operators to fight the coal barons. By this road they would have a railroad to tidewater and could compete with arbitrary prices of coal carrying roads. Morgan was forced to purchase this road at a large price. Watkins made a fortune in this transaction. He is now a director in the Temple Iron and Coal Co., of which Baer is the controlling power and in which all the presidents of the anthracite roads are directors.

The Temple Iron and Coal Co. really contracts the output and is the dummy behind the coal trust. Watkins is a man of great personal charm and his life is interesting because he has risen in the world from a miner. Today he is a multi-millionaire.

In Mexico and Arizona Watkins owns railroads and copper mines, and he is one of the largest stockholders in the new automatic telephone system in Chicago. He started life as a digger of hard coal. His family was poor. He threw away his pick for a clerkship in a miners' company store. He made money and saved it. Later he organized the firm of Simpson & Watkins and opened a company store under an agreement with the operators. In this way Watkins made a substantial start in life. He soon acquired coal lands which returned golden profits.

WHITE BOY SHOT A NEGRO YOUTH

WENT TO FOUR COURTS AND SURRENDERED AFTERWARDS.

DECLARES HE WAS ATTACKED

Lad He Injured Is but Fourteen and Was Taken to Hospital in Serious Condition.

August Heinberger, a 17-year-old boy living at 2343 Menard street, walked into police headquarters at the Four Courts this morning and said:

"I want to surrender."

"What for?" asked the sergeant at the desk.

"I've just shot a negro," said the boy, laying a revolver on the desk. "Some negroes tried to hold me up in an alley near the Wainwright brewery and I had to shoot one."

The police investigated and found that Henry Bethel, a negro boy 14 years old, of 1213 Poplar street, had been shot in the right side by Heinberger. The boy is at the City Hospital. His condition is serious.

Heinberger is held to await further investigation.

ASSESSOR TO GIVE NO BALL.

He Says Ticket Sellers Are Bleeding Candidates.

City Assessor John J. O'Brien says that tickets now being sold for a ball, purporting to be given by the clerks of the assessor's office, were issued without his sanction. He says that none of the clerks in his office, so far as he knows, is connected with the proposed ball. The tickets, he says, are being offered for sale to candidates at $2 each.

MRS. MUSLER ASKS FOR A DIVORCE

WOMAN WHO GOT CHILD BY HABEAS CORPUS CHARGES CRUELTY.

SAYS LIFE WAS THREATENED

She Alleges Also That Her Husband Told Another Woman That He Was Not Married.

Mrs. Myrtle Musler, who recovered her baby by habeas corpus proceedings a few doays ago, filed suit for divorce against her husband, Eugene Musler, this morning, through her attorneys, Rassieur & Rassieur.

The young woman states that she was married to Musler at Warrenton, Mo., where her sister resides, on Aug. 22, 1901, and separated from him Aug. 17, 1902, just one month after her baby, Burward, was born. She charges generally cruel and humiliating treatment, and specifies several of the allegations.

She claims that before the separation her husband told her he intended to keep the child and threatened her with death should she make an attempt to recover it; that he took possession of the infant and she was compelled to institute habeas corpus proceedings in order to regain its custody.

Mrs. Musler also alleges that for six months prior to the separation Musler paid marked attention to another young woman. Mrs. Musler claimed that her husband told this young woman that he was not married and that the child was not his.

She says her husband is 24 years old, is employed as a clerk by the Carleton Dry Goods Co. and lives with his mother, Mrs. Mathilda Musler, at 1502 Olive street. In the habeas corpus proceedings when the court ordered the child over to its mother, Mrs. Musler, the child's grandmother, fainted in the courtroom.

Mrs. Eugene Musler is now employed as a stenographer in the office of a religious weekly paper.

LUTHERAN SYNOD MEETS.

Annual Conference Began Session in Trinity Church Today.

The annual pastoral conference of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states began its session at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Eighth street and Lafayette avenue, this morning. About 100 ministers were present out of an expected attendance of 150.

The session was opened with devotional exercises led by the pastor of Trinity Church, Rev. Otto Hanser, which was followed by the election of the following officers: Rev. C. C. E. Brandt of Gordonville, Mo., chairman; Rev. Alfred Fiehler of near Gordonville, Mo., chaplain; Prof. E. Schode of Concordia, Mo., secretary. Prof. L. Fuerbringer of the Lutheran seminary began the reading of a paper on "Modern Criticism of the Pentateuch," and the portion read was discussed until the noon recess.

Sessions will be held daily, in the mornings from 9 to 11:30 and afternoons from 2 to 5, except Saturday afternoon, when there will be no meeting. Next Sunday the pulpits of the several churches will be filled by the visitors. All are invited to the conference, although it is of German Lutheran denomination.

MISS CABANNE WEDS AT HOME.

Became the Bride of Ned C. Link Last Night.

Miss Virginia E. Cabanne and Edwin C. Link were married yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of the bride on Vernon avenue.

Upon a recent visit to St. Paul friends the young people had almost decided to take matters into their own hands and be married at once. They were prevailed upon, however, to postpone the wedding until their return to St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Link left later in the evening for Chicago, where they will reside. Mrs. Link is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carr Cabanne of Vernon avenue, and Mr. Link is the son of Theodore C. Link, the well-known architect.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST.

Convention of Five Thousand Delegates Meets at Omaha.

OMAHA, Oct. 16.—Probably 1500 delegates to the national convention of the Disciples of Christ arrived on the morning trains, the largest delegations coming from Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska.

Chairman Payne of the general committee has been notified that the Kansas and Missouri delegations will reach the city 500 strong during the day. Several hundredo delegates registered during the morning from Illinois, Kansas, Texas, Oregon, Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming and California.

The temperance rally planned for at the convention in Minneapolis last year, which began last night, was continued today under the leadership of W. H. Boles of Alma, Ill., chairman of the temperance committee of the Christian Church.

RUMOR OF DEATH DENIED.

Russell Sage Reported "Getting Along All Right."

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A report was in circulation today, chiefly in Wall street, that Russell Sage was dead. The report was promptly denied at the office and at his residence. His physicians said: "Mr. Sage is getting along all right."

Woman to Address Labor Union.

Mrs. Sarah A. Crossfield will address the members of the Central Trades and Labor Union Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Walhalla Hall, Eleventh street and Franklin avenue. Friends of organized labor are invited to attend, and ladies will be especially welcomed.

J. H. Gilhot's Funeral.

John Henry Gilhot, a well-known coal dealer of North St. Louis, 51 years old, died suddenly at his home, 2701 North Fifteenth street, Tuesday evening, from heart disease. He was a native of Germany. A widow and three children survive him. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon at 1:30, at St. Liborius' Church, with interment in Calvary Cemetery.

NEW PENALTY FOR "FORGERY"

ONE KISS EXACTED FROM A BLUSHING BRIDE.

SIGNED HER MAIDEN NAME

Mr. Neal, at a Double Wedding in East St. Louis, Forgot She Was No Longer Mary Russell.

A new legal penalty for forgery was eseablished by Justice Moritz Oehler of East St. Louis Wednesday afternoon when he exacted a fine of one kiss from Mrs. Charles Neal, a newly wedded bride, who, in signing the certificate of a friend's marriage, had thoughtlessly written her maiden name, Mary Russell.

Mrs. Charles Schadel, the other bride in the double wedding which Justice Oehler had just performed, pleaded guilty to the same offense and asked that the same penalty be imposed. The fine was assessed and scrupulously collected by the stern justice.

Mr. Neal and his bride to be met Mr. Schadel and his intended in the office of Deupty Marriage License Clerk Caughlin in East St. Louis. Schadel asked Neal where he intended to be married and Neal replied that he was going to Justice Oehler's. The second couple then agreed to let their marriage ceremony follow that of the other, each pair witnessing the marriage of the other.

Neal and Miss Russell were married first. Schadel and his companion, Mrs. Florence Jones, signed the certificate as witnesses.

Then they stood up and were wed, and it was the turn of the Neals to sign. The groom affixed his signature. The bride wrote "Mary Russell" under the name of her husband.

"Young woman," said the justice sternly, "are you not aware that your name is not Mary Russell any longer? In signing as you have, you have cimmitted forgery, and, as an officer, I shall have to fine you."

"How much will the fine be?" asked the bride, looking poutingly at the justice.

"One kiss," said Oehler, and he proceeded to collect the fine. Then he started to bid the four good-day.

"Hold on," said Mrs. Schadel. "If I hadn't been married last I would have made the same mistake. I think I ought to be fined if she was."

The court upheld the motion and overruled a demurrer from the husband of the petitioner.

Neal, who is from St. Charles, met his bride by appointment at the Relay Depot. She was from St. Louis. Schadel also is from St. Louis.

RECEIVED $2000 TO WED AT HOME

MRS. GEORGE S. BEERS PAID THAT SUM TO DAUGHTER.

HER FIRST OFFER WAS $100

Bride-to-Be, on Advice of Fiance, "Held Out" for Twenty Times That Amount.

John Humphrey Crawford and bride are $2,000 richer by reason of the fact that their wedding took place at Hotel Beers, and not at the Lindell Avenue Methodist Church.

The bride, who was Miss Ella Beers, had planned a church wedding, but as the date for the ceremony drew near, her mother, Mrs. George S. Beers, announced her preference for a wedding at the hotel.

She offred her daughter $100 if she would agree to alter her plans. Miss Beers declined. Then her mother raised it to $200, and finally to $500.

When this price was reached, Miss Beers wired Mr. Crawford in New York. He wired back for his fiancee to "hold out."

She held out, and the offer was raised to $1,000. This news was flashed to Crawford, and again he wired Miss Beers to hold the fort.

When the $2,000 offer was made, bride and groom capitulated, and the wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at the hotel.

Hotel Vendome Raided.

The police Wednesday night raided the Hotel Vendome, at Fourteenth and Olive streets, and arrested 11 couples. All were taken to the Four Courts, where they were released with the exception of Rutger Teal, Nellie Williams and Fay Redmond, who were sent to the police court on technical charges.

TEN-HOUR DAY FOR RETAIL CLERKS

ILLINOIS FEDERATION OF LABOR INDORSES EFFORTS.

ALSO OPPOSES CHILD LABOR

Members of International Protective Union Barred From Membership.

Adam Menche was elected president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and comprehensive resolutions on subjects relating to the welfare of union labor were passed at the third day's session of the federation convention, which opened Thursday morning in the East St. Louis city hall auditorium.

The resolutions indorse the efforts of the retail clerks for a 10-hour day, promise aid to the striking boiler and machine men and the striking boot and shoe workers, thank the ladies for granting the men permission to smoke during the meetings, urge the wearing of union shoes, oppose child labor and state that the hauling for charitable institutions should be done by union teamsters.

A final clause of the resolutions, which caused an argument, declared that those connected with the International Protective Union, an organization which is considered a rival, would be barred from membership. August Lanze of Quincy spoke against this resolution, but it was adopted.

In the selection of a president Adam Menche defeated Barney Cohan by a vote of 132 to 78. The salary of the president was fixed at $150 a year, and that of the secretary and treasurer at $25 a month, the latter to devote his entire time to the work.

The meeting adjourned to 1:30 in the afternoon.

Fined for Short Weight Coal.

Jonas Ewing, a driver for the S. A. Weisenborh & Sons Coal Co. of 313 [illegible] street, was fined $50 each on two counts in the Dayton street police court this morning. He was charged with delivering short weight coal to 4425 Forest Park boulevard. It was claimed that only 92 pounds were delivered when 110½-pound tickets were presented by Ewing.

To attract custom an undertaker at Brussels is selling stamps at less than their face value.

CAWLEY'S BROTHER ARRESTED.

Brother of Boy Murderer Charged With Highway Robbery.

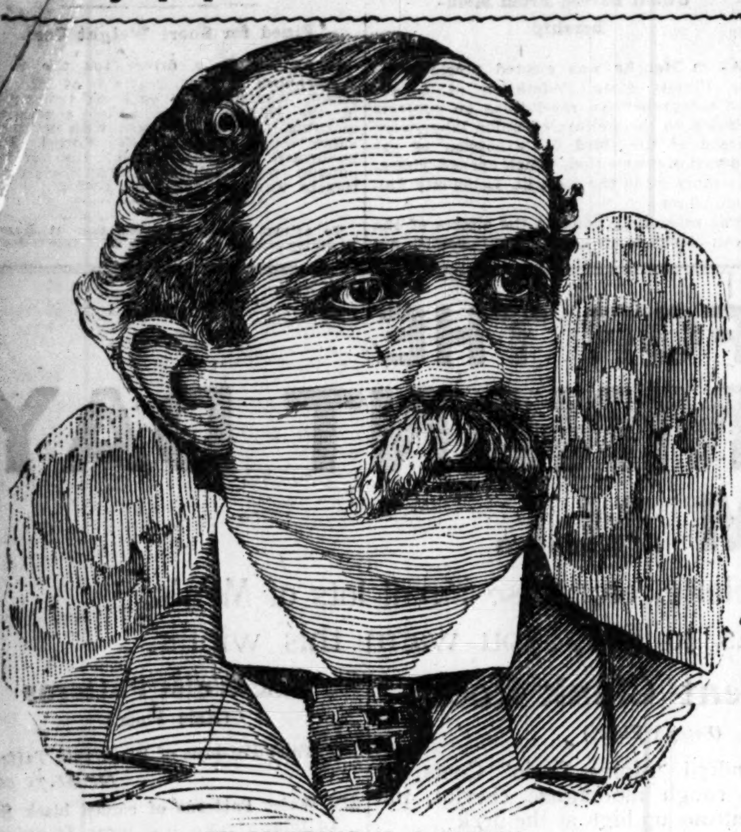
PITTSBURG, Oct. 16.—James Cawley, the elder brother of Chas. Cawley, a boy inventor who is charged with killing his mother, brother and two sisters last Friday while insane from overwork, was held today on a charge of highway robbery. With two companions, it is alleged, he robbed two men in the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad yards, and, in trying to escape, one of the victims, William Huff, was struck and killed by a shifting engine.

Charles Cawley still maintains a stolid indifference to his surroundings. The story that he had confessed has no foundation, and he persists in charging the murder to robbers.

GOVERNOR OF SOUTH CAROLINA

Recommends Pe-ru-na

For Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble.



EX-GOVERNOR M. C. BUTLER.

Ex. U. S. Senator and ex-Governor M. C. Butler of South Carolina, in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co. from Washington, D. C., says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

Catarrh of the Stomach is Generally Called Dyspepsia—Something to Produce Artificial Digestion is Generally Taken.

Hence, Pepsin, Pancreatin and a Host of Other Digestive Remedies Has Been Invented.

These Remedies Do Not Reach the Seat of the Difficulty, Which is Really Catarrh of the Stomach.

This Deranges the System So That Proper Digestion Cannot Take Place.

The only rational way to cure dyspepsia is to remove the catarrh. Peruna cures catarrh. Peruna does not produce artificial digestion. It cures catarrh and leaves the stomach to perform digestion in a natural way. This is vastly better and safer than resorting to artificial methods.

Peruna has cured more cases of dyspepsia than all other remedies combined, simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. If catarrh is located in the head, Peruna cures it. If catarrh has fastened itself in the throat or bronchial tubes, Peruna cures it. When catarrh becomes settled in the stomach, Peruna cures it, as well in this location as any other.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh.

A Most Wonderful Cure of Dyspepsia Made by Pe-ru-na.

A. C. Lockhart, corner Cottage Street and Thurston Road, Rochester, N. Y., writes:

"I am nearly forty-four years of age, was born and raised in Rochester, N. Y., and have been unlucky enough to be among the poor and obliged to work for a living.

"About fifteen years ago I commenced to be ailing, and called on a physician. He pronounced my trouble a species of dyspepsia and asked me after he had treated me about six months to get a leave of absence from the establishment by which I was employed (all told, about twenty-five years) and go into the country where I would get a change of life and fresh air. I did so and got temporary relief. I went back to work and was again taken with very distressing pains in my stomach. I seldom had a passage of the bowels without force.

"I consulted another physician with no better results. My disease kept growing on me, until I had exhausted the ability of sixteen of Rochester's best physicians. Can tell their names if necessary. The last physician recommended me to give up my work and go south, after he had practiced on me for one year. They gave me a thorough examination with the X-ray with no results. They could not even determine what my ailments were.

"I do not, nor never have taken any stock in patent medicines, but your testimonials in the Rochester papers were worthy of consideration. I told my wife I was going to try a bottle of the Peruna. The next time I went to the city I purchased a bottle, and before the bottle was half gone I noticed a change for the better.

"I am now taking the fifth bottle and have not an ache or a pain anywhere. My bowels move regularly every day and I have taken on eighteen pounds of flesh, my usual weight being 145 pounds. I was down at one time as low as one hundred and twenty-six pounds.

"I have recommended Peruna to a great many and they have recommended it very highly. I have told several people that complained of that species of catarrh that if they would purchase a bottle of Peruna and take it according to directions, and if, when the bottle was gone they could come to me and tell me candidly that they had no benefit, I would pay for the bottle of medicine. I have so far had no complaints, but all first-class recommendations."—A. C. Lockhart.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

As Patricius Bellamy Said:

"Woman came after man—and she's been after him ever since."

But woman — fickle woman—has ever been prone to look first at the outside of a man—his clothes. If they don't prepossess her, it's dollars to dumplings that she will never give that particular he a chance to prove that many a maple-syrup-spotted vest covers a big heart.

This is just a gentle hint to wooing or about-to-woo or thinking-sometimes-of-wooing young men that we still possess the knack of arraying men in clothing that will attract the admiration of the fair sex.

And an excuse to direct your attention to W. Shakspeare's words, "The heart speaks loudest when the coat fits right."

GOLDEN ARMADA FROM CLEARINGS

New York Exchanges Would Build Battleships.

WOULD BUY WORLD'S COAL

BUT WHO COULD EVER COUNT A TRILLION?

That Would Be Task of Anyone Who Tried to Handle Receipts of Big Financial Institution for Past Forty-Nine Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A fleet of 316 ships of the displacement of the battleships Alabama, Wisconsin, Kearsarge or Kentucky, wrought in pure gold, and excelling in splendor the galley in which Queen Dido sought out the youth Aenas or the barge which bore the body of Elaine down the river—this gorgeous navy might be built out of the gold which might be bought with the $1,435,161,868,993, which represents the exchanges of the New York clearing house since its establishment, 49 years ago.

Even then there would be 4349 tons of the precious metal left with which the vessels might be fitted out in a style in keeping with their golden hulls, and enough would still be left to man these craft for many years, for it has been computed that this stupendous sum of money would purchase at the prevailing market price 3,646,249 tons of the yellow metal. Or if silver were more to be desired, then in theory the sum would purchase more than 68,668,032 tons of that metal. These purchases could be made in theory only, for the amount represents many times the value of all the gold and silver in the world today.

Perhaps if a good fairy should escape from the covers of a story book, and, after tickling your ear with one of its green wings until you were wide awake, present you with this great sum, you would eschew golden vessels with silken sails and diamond port light, and turn your attention to hard coal.

Would Buy More Coal Than Exists.

There again you would be unable to gratify your wish, because there is not coal enough mined to meet the amount, for at $15 a ton the sum would buy 96,677,457,932.8 tons of anthracite; at $6.50 a ton it would purchase 220,794,133,537 tons of bituminous coal, or 159,462,429,888 tons of coke at $9 a ton. This would supply every man, woman and child in the world with nearly six tons of anthracite coal, and then the public need not care how long the miners and coal barons continue their struggle.

If your tastes ran to real estate you would have abundant opportunity for gratifying them, at $20 an acre you could purchase 71,758,093,499 acres of land, which would equal about 112,122,021 square miles, or a tract 28 times as great as the estimated area of the United States and its territorial and insular possessions.

In the event that your socialistic tendencies prevailed, and you decided to share your fortune with your fellows, you would be in a position to make most munificent distributions; were your generosity confined only to your fellow citizens, then you could give to each man, woman and child in the United States and its territories, $18,808.62, with which they could each buy 1253.9 tons of anthracite coal, should they choose, and could find the stuff in the coal yards. In the event your socialism knew no limits of country, color or social condition, then every one of the 1,487,900,000 persons who are said to inhabit the earth would receive $964.55 on an equal distribution.

There would be one great obstacle in the way of making this distribution, and that would be the counting of the money, which to be prepared for the proper making of change would need to be in silver dollars and smaller coins. Were you to get together every man, woman and child in the United States about this great pyramid of silver money, and were each able to count at the rate of $1 a second, it would take them 5 hours, 13 minutes and 28 seconds.

Here Is a Nice Loan Proposition.

Supposing that, instead of distributing the money in this way, you were to create a fund of the amount, loan it at 4 per cent interest and divide the revenue, then you would have $57,406,474,759.72 annually to distribute among the 76,303,378 residents of the United States.

In the event your patriotism extended to the body politic rather than the individual members of society, you could still meet vast obligations, and have money to spare. The public debt of the United States, according to recent statistics, was $1,213,048,111.49, and with the sum at your command you could liquidate this 1183 times. With the money left after paying off the public debt of your own country, you could hold out a helping hand to other countries of the world, and pay off the aggregate public debt of all countries of the world, $31,201,759,274, almost 50 times.

When the clearing house was started nearly 50 years ago the amount with which the good fairy endowed you would have gone much farther than it would today. At that time the population of the United States was a trifle over 23,191,876, and to each person of that number you might have given $61,882—a great fortune in those days.

Perhaps some adequate idea of the purchasing power of this sum could be presented to your wife in an estimate of the amount of cotton thread which might be purchased with it. At 5 cents you could lay in a stock of 28,703,237,379,860 spools. Experts might be able to compute how many suits of clothing could be sewed with that amount of thread.

But as the possession of this vast sum is only a dream, as is the golden fleet, a few statistics as to the possibility of a realization of this dream might not be inapt. There was mined in the United States in 1900 gold of the value of $79,171,000, and at that rate it would take 18,127.36 years to produce an amount of gold equal to the vast sum about which these computations center. The output of gold in the $225,- world in that same year was about $225,634,500, and at that rate it would take 6,614.12 years to mine gold to the amount of the fairy's gift.

MINISTER'S RACE HORSES.

Rev. Frank Moorman Watches Them Perform, but Never Bets.

HAGERSTOWN, Ind., Oct. 16.—The Rev. Frank Moorman of Wayne County is probably the only minister in Indiana who is the breeder, owner and trainer of race horses. He has a fine farm in the eastern part of the county on which he has lived for 20 years, giving much of his time to raising and training blooded horses.

While he is frequently seen watching his horses on the turf, he makes no wagers, as he does not consider speculation a necessary adjunct to racing, and he opposes betting on moral grounds. He is known to many men who follow the race course, and his influence for good is felt by them.

The Rev. Mr. Moorman not only possesses an innate love for horses, but is a skilled equestrian. He conquers the most stubborn and vicious of his horses.

One of the numerous products of the Moorman farm is Jonah Boy, 4 years old, a horse that is fast and well gaited. Jonah Boy trots and racks, and, as he does not "break," does not wear hobbles when on the track. This animal will begin his racing campaign next spring.

The Rev. Mr. Moorman is 45 years old and an ordained minister of the Christian Church. He was married in 1882 to Miss Georganna Bean, daughter of John Bean, one of Wayne County's wealthiest land owners. They have two daughters, each of whom has the father's love for horses. They are expert whips, and often take spins alone behind the wildest horses from their father's farm. They can drive a four-in-hand or break a colt.

ALL THE POLICE AFTER HER.

But the Supposed Lost Girl Was Waiting for Mother in a Depot.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 16.—For 24 hours Josephine Feldman of Glendale, aged 14, had the police force of Cincinnati scouring the city for her, all the village authorities on the lookout, and a mother almost distracted. All that time the girl sat waiting for her mother in the C., H. & D. depot, in this city, and when the mother made a second frantic appeal yesterday morning to the police the girl had become tired and returned home.

Mrs. Feldman and her daughter went to the railroad station at Glendale to come to Cincinnati early to do some shopping. They became separated at the depot and the girl boarded the train and came to this city. The mother, trying to locate her daughter, missed the train. Josephine sat from 4 a. m. to 6 p. m., waiting in the depot for her mother, who was stirring up the police in all the towns around. The girl finally cried herself to sleep and slept all night in the depot waiting room.

Yesterday morning she took a train for home, after her day in the city had turned out a miserable farce. While she was at home the mother was at police headquarters, but when the news of the return home of the girl was received matters were soon straightened out.

HE TURNS TO POESY.

Husband, Deserted by His Wife, Voices His Troubles and Determination.

YORK, Pa., Oct. 16.—Ichabod Glassmayer, a deserted husband of this city, is either of a fervid poetical fancy or takes his desertion lightly. In the advertising columns of the local ppaers he airs his grievances in these lines:

Nancy, my wife, has grown quite rude,
She has left me in a lonesome mood;
She has left my board and taken my bed,
She has given away my meat and bread;
She has left me in spite of friends and church;
She has carried with her all my shirts;
Now, ye who read this paper,
Since she has cut this luckless caper,
I will not pay one single fraction
Of any debts of her contraction.

A blue book just issued on the trade of India for the year ended March 31 shows that the imports amounted to $336,606,665, an increase of $30,000,000 over those of the preceding year. The exports were $440,000,000, an increase of $60,000,000.

SENSATION IN A SYNOD.

Rev. Mr. Littell Charged That Elder Is a Habitual Drunkard.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Oct. 16.—"Do you want a habitual drunkard on the board?" shouted the Rev. J. H. Littell of Wheeling, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, in the Ohio Synod of the denomination. Dr. Littell adopted this method of opposing the election of Elder W. J. W. Cowden, also of Wheeling, to membership on the Board of Trustees of Allegheny Seminary. Dr. Littell spoke excitedly in the midst of the balloting, and for several minutes the church was in a turmoil. The moderator rebuked the clergyman and Elder Cowden was elected almost unanimously.

The incident was the outcropping of church friction in Wheeling that culminated in a division of the First U. P. congregation, Dr. Littell being pastor of the new one. Elder Cowden is one of the most distinguished lawyers in West Virginia and a regent of the West Virginia State University. The East Liverpool matter has brought on a church sensation, and there promise to be further developments. Dr. Littell is one of the best known men of the church, and he has just returned from Dublin, where he was a general assembly representative to the world's convention of psalm singing societies.

NO PACKETS TO NEW ORLEANS

The Railroads Have Driven the Lin Out of Existence.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 16.—There will b no packet directly out of this city fo New Orleans this winter, unless it is a excursion for the Mardi Gras or som other event of that kind.

"The abandonment of this line of steam ers from this port is one of the bigges events in the history of the river in thes parts in many years. The New Orlean packets have been one of the feature of the river trade of the city since th founding of the city. "The reason for giv ing up the trade," said Capt. R. W. Wise superintendent of the Cincinnati, Memphi and New Orleans Packet Co., "is that th freight business is not great enough t sustain a line of boats between Cincinnat and New Orleans. Every year new cus tomers have to be found. When the wate gets low that trade goes back to th railroads, and then it is hard to wea them away. It is less than 20 years ag that there were at least three steamer a week out of Cincinnati for New Orleans At one time the Southern Transportatio Co. had 13 boats in the New Orleans trade They had all the business they coul handle. If the river is improved, as pro posed, the trade will revive and the glorie of the river be restored."

LECTURE ON THE USES OF ART

F. O. Sylvester's Talk a Feature of Reception by East Side Public School Art Society.

The East St. Louis Public School Art Society gave its second reception to the public Wednesday afternoon. The reception was preceded by an address by Frederick O. Sylvester of the St. Louis High School on the subject of "The Usefulness of Art," delivered in the assembly room of the High School. About the walls of the assembly room were hung the 27 pictures that are the property of the art society.

Mr. Sylvester spoke first of the ways to get a living and then of the way to live best. He illustrated his talk by reference to a St. Louis business man who handled $300,000 worth of dry goods and would be able to do much more business if he were only ableto draw designs that he might show to his customers.

After Mr. Sylvester's address the guests, who more than filled the assembly room, passed to the large corridors, where lunch on tea tables.

Mmes. Frank C. Smith, W. B. Stickney, A. P. Little, Frank Turpin, E. Coddington and Brigham, and Messrs. C. T. Jones, Spencer Ellsworth, Edwin Guy Helm, H. C. Fairbrother, C. G. Derleth, Rev. David Temple, John Richeson, A. P. Little, C. L. Manners, H. D. Sexton and John E. Miller of the society were assisted in receiving their guests by Mmes. A. L. Keechler and H. D. Sexton and a number of teachers in the schools.

At the tables six young ladies from the junior class of the High School, Misses Fredericka Scherrer, Edith Johnston, Alice Freels, Nell White, Ida Browning and Mabel Lentz, served frappe.

The art society has been organized two years, and purchased a number of pictures, which are lent to the public schools.

TWIN SKIPPERS SAIL TWIN SHIPS

Captains Wade as Much Alike as Two Peas.

VESSELS ARE DUPLICATED

ENDLESS COMPLICATIONS FOLLOW THEIR CLOSE RESEMBLANCE

Sometimes the Captains, Dressed Exactly Alike, Visit Their Native City, Where Natives Can't Tell Them Apart.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALTIMORE, Oct. 15.—Twin captains, in twin four-masted schooners, loaded with the same amount of coal—Capt. Willard Wade, of the Thomas S. Dennison, and Captain Willard Wade, of the William H. Yerkes, sailed out of Baltimore and arrived at New England coal forts last week.

The "Wade boys" are well known in Maine as the "indistinguishable twins," but this is the first time that their new sister vessels have sailed together on voyages. The ships are as like as their masters.

Both vessels arrived in Baltimore within a day or two of each other, and both were in ballast, seeking a cargo of coal for any part of the Atlantic coast. One firm of ship-brokers handled the business of both vessels. They chartered the vessels to the same firm of coal shippers, and they loaded at the same coal pier.

The vessels carried 2,500 tons coal each and both got the same freight rate.

Both the vessels were launched in Thomaston, Me., in August, by the same builders and owners, Dunn & Elliott, and both register 1,490 tons net.

The vessels are 220 feet long, 42 feet wide, and are so much alike that one cannot be distinguished from the other unless a person be close enough to read their names.

The shipping world separates the men by referring to them as Capt. Wade of the Thomas S. Dennison, and Capt. Wade of the William H. Yerkes. When both have happened to be in the same port at the same time there has always been a continuous confusion.

Intimate Friends Can't Distinguish Them.

The masters have been trading in Baltimore for years, and have many intimate friends, yet there is but one who feels sure he can tell one from the other.

Just before leaving this port the agents of the vessels were called upon by an insurance company which had become mixed in the captains, and did not know with which one of the twins they were doing business. The company carried policies on both ships and was engaged in renewing one of the policies, when one of the skippers walked in the company's office.

The captain was told that the papers were ready to be signed. He smiled as he remarked that they were talking to the wrong man. Then it dawned upon the officials that they were dealing with twins of remarkable resemblance. But they could not tell who was who. The ship broker had to be called in to straighten out the tangle.

The shipbuilder has told Capt. Wade that he has the latter's mail, only to find that he is addressing the wrong one. Sometimes one gets the other's bills, while business transactions are divulged in detail to the skipper that they are not intended for.

While one of the brothers was in Washington he invited a party of women to visit his ship in Baltimore. They inspected the craft and had a most enjoyable time, but they were entertained by the captain they did not know, as the brother who invited them had sailed and the other arrived before the invitation was accepted.

How One Eluded a Sailor's Accusation.

It happened once that the twins were in the same vessel, one as master and the other as mate. A seaman accused the mate of assaulting him and swore out a warrant for his arrest. The twins heard of the matter. At sea the captain wears shore clothes, while the mate is dressed in sailor togs.

When the patrolman and the seaman went aboard the schooner to make the arrest, both the captain and mate were dressed in their Sunday best. The seaman stood dumfounded, as he could not tell one from the other. No arrest was made.

At rare intervals the twins are both able to visit their home in Waldorborough, Me. Just before starting on a recent journey of the kind, and while both were in different southern ports, they bought a new suit of clothing each.

They appeared on the streets of their native city in clothing of the same color, cut and texture, duplicate hats; and the natives stood aghast.

An old "Down East" skipper, who has known the "Wade boys" since they were youths, states that he can only tell one from the other by asking the time of day of the one to whom he happens to be in company. One has a gold watch and the other has a silver one, and when the old salt sees the color of the timepiece he can then tell who's who.

Capt. Wade, the William H. Yerkes, three weeks ago paid a visit to W. H. Yerkes of Washington, an owner of the vessel, and after whom the craft is named. Just before the captain reached Washington Mr. Yerkes received photographs of the twins.

Mr. Yerkes and his daughter had a friendly discussion as to what one of the twins was the master of the William H. Yerkes. They chose different likenesses and wagered a dollar each on the question. The decision was to be left to Capt. Wade.

The captain found that one of the owners of the vessel did not know its skipper, as Mr. Yerkes had selected the wrong captain, and that the daughter had won the bet.

Copies of these same photographs were shown to the mate of the schooner Thomas S. Dennison, and he was asked to tell which of the two photographs was that of his captain. He, too, selected the wrong one, yet he lives aboard the ship with the captain.

GREAT AMERICAN IDEA.

In Order to Be Hospitable Simply Dine Your Victim.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

A distinguished guest was coming from abroad.

"What shall we do to entertain him?" asked the chairman of the committee of prominent citizens.

"I'll give him a dinner," said one.

"So will I," said another.

"Me, too," added a third.

"And we'll end up with a banquet, in which we will all join," suggested a fourth.

A prominent official was taking a jaunt across the country in a special train. Six places that were short distances apart had secured the promise that he would give them an hour or more as of his time.

"What kind of a celebration have you planned?" was the inquiry sent out.

"We'll give him an elaborate breakfast," was the first answer.

"We've arranged for a luncheon."

"Same here," from the third.

"A dinner," replied the fourth.

"Likewise," from the fifth.

"Two banquets," answered the sixth. "There are rival factions here, and each insists on doing honor to the great man."

A distinguished clubwoman visited a distant city.

"We must be hospitable," urged the president of the local club at a special meeting called to consider the question.

Shortly thereafter the meeting broke up in a row because 10 women couldn't feed her on the same day, and there was further trouble because six other clubs wanted to arrange dinners also.

The engagement of a popular society girl was announced.

"What shall we do?" asked society.

"Give luncheons and dinners for her," was the reply, and a committee had to be appointed to arrange the schedule.

When it comes to being hospitable this great republic has only one idea, apparently.

The beds of peas in Colorado sometimes include as many as [illegible] acres, and there is one bed [illegible].

AFTER THE SALT TRUST.

Plan to Extract the Crystals From Puget Sound Waters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—George Gunn of Monty & Gunn has interested eastern people in the proposition to establish at Tacoma a plant for extracting salt from the waters of Puget Sound. Mr. Gunn has had the salt analyzed both here and at Pullman Agricultural college. These analyses show that the waters of Commencement bay will yield a little over 2 per cent of rough salt, proving that commercial salt can be produced here at a profit, providing the fuel can be purchased fairly cheap. Negotiations for the purchase of fuel are now in progress with several local lumber mills which now burn enough slabs every day to operate a large salt plant. If these slabs can be secured cheap enough they will be bought from one or more of the mills. The mills figure that they might as well get something for their wood as to have it consumed every day by fire and are, therefore, likely to give the salt enterprise a good figure on the slabs.

It is proposed to produce only rough salt at first, but later the finer grades will likely be turned out also. There is a very large market both locally and throughout the state and Alaska for rough salt. It is used for curing fish, hides and other things. In previous years there has been a score or more of works in California devoted to the evaporation of salt from salt waters. There the water is spread out over marshes usually and the evaporation takes place through the heat of the sun. This is a long process and in some instances requires as long as three years to secure the salt in commercial form. By the use of fuel the salt can be produced in a few hours.

Mr. Gunn says that it is the operations of the Federal Salt Co., known as the salt trust, which make it possible to evaporate salt in Tacoma at a profit. Two years ago Mr. Gunn was able to buy rough salt f. o. b. San Francisco at $2.25 per ton. The trust has gradually raised prices until now the same salt costs $12.25 per ton. With the cheap fuel obtainable it is thus demonstrated that a large proportion of the salt used in this state can be produced right here at home.

TEXAS VERNACULAR.

"I Ain't Ask You Is You Ain't You—I Ask You Is You Is You."

From the Detroit Free Press.

"Speaking of Texas," said a young lawyer who once lived in the Lone Star State to the New Orleans Times-Democrat, "reminds me of a peculiar conversation I heard in a grocery store a few years ago in one of the smaller places of the state, and the story will amply illustrate the peculiarities of the vernacular in certain more remote parts of Texas. I happened to be in the grocery store in question, when a little girl came in to buy some eggs, and the following conversation was carried on between the girl and the keeper of the place:

"'Ain't you got no eggs?' asked the little girl.

"'I ain't said I ain't,' the storekeeper replied, whereupon the little girl replied after this fashion:

"'I ain't ask you is you ain't you. I ask you is you is you. Ain't you?'

"That's the way they talk in some sections of the state. The little lassie who used the expression made herself clear and she got the eggs."

FOOL AND MONEY.

Sunday School Scholar's Text Was Apt If Unexpected.

From Lippincott's Magazine.

In a Sunday school belonging to a large parish in an American city the teacher of a class which consisted of boys and girls requested each pupil to commit to memory an appropriate text and recite it on the following Sunday, when the regular contribution of a penny should be deposited in a bag kept for the purpose. The idea was a new one and pleased the children, and on the appointed day each child, as he or she dropped a penny in the bag, recited the text, which evidently had been learned with pleasure. The various texts, "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver," "Cast thy bread upon the waters," and others equally appropriate were repeated with each contributed penny, and the delighted teacher passed the bag to the boy who sat at the end of the class. Rising from his seat the little fellow dropped his penny into the bag, and in a voice which plainly revealed his satisfaction with his own selection of a text, said:

"A fool and his money are soon parted."

Drunkard's Excuses.

Among the excuses for drunkenness put forward at Southwark Police Court recently were the following:

The wet weather, three prisoners.

"Out of work and trying to borrow a bit."

"I was wrestling with a drunken man, trying to take him home."

"The water cart wetted my legs."

"Somebody stole my cat what I brought up from Sussex."

"I'm such a cripple in my feet, and I've got nine wounds besides."

"Whisky on top of beer," two prisoners.

MIDWEEK GOSSIP OF THE THEATERS

VERA KING, (Columbia.)

"Old Limerick Town" with Chauncey Olcott as the principal attraction is doing the business of the week in the theatrical world at the Century. Much of the music is better than anything heard in the musical line this year, and all of it is good. In addition to this there is the play, which is good entertainment for those who enjoy the Olcott style of piece. The stage settings are elaborate and the costumes are varied and beautiful. Mr. Olcott is rapidly becoming most popular with St. Louis audiences.

Quaintly picturesque, with its Japanese background and novel Japanese costumes, rich and delicious in its melodies and unique in its own peculiar style, Mascagni's opera "Iris" was given its first American production at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia last evening and scored a success. "Iris," save in the great second act climax and the curse scene, lacks intense dramatic effectiveness, but it is exquisitely descriptive, pictorial and expressive throughout.

A benefit performance at the Auditorium theater, Chicago, has yielded $7700 to the actors' fund. One thousand persons were compelled to stand. Among those who appeared were Joseph Jefferson, De Wolff Hopper, James J. Corbett, Miss Gertrude McKenzie, Miss Viola Gillette, Harry Bulger, Joseph Cawthorne, Will McCart, Miss Helen Bertram, Arthur Donaldson, Miss Lottie Gladstone and Miss Carroll McComas. The stage was under the direction of H. C. Cripps.

Richard Mansfield's revival of "Julius Cesar" at Chicago created a profound sensation. Mansfield surpassed his own high standard as a producer. Mansfield was given an ovation. His Brutus will occasion as much discussion as praise.

Shakspearian revivals on a most elaborate scale are the order of the day, and of those staged for this season Stuart Robson's production of "The Comedy of Errors" is in the front rank. In it the comedian who has pleased three generations of playgoers will be seen as the Dromio of Syracuse, a part which critics have declared to be the best he has ever played. This production, under the management of Daniel V. Arthur, will be seen at the Century Theater next Sunday night for a week's engagement.

The next attraction at the Olympic Theater, beginning Sunday night, will be James K. Hackett in his production of Winston Churchill's play, "The Crisis," which he found was so attractive when he presented it here last March at the inception of its prosperous career. While the complete localism of the story might have had something to do with its reception here, it surely was of no effect in Philadelphia, for instance, where Mr. Hackett opened his season this year, and where it almost equaled the great business St. Louis gave it last seson. The cast and scenery are both unchanged from the previous production here.

The tremendous success achieved by Mr. Gus Hill's comedians in Whitcomb Riley and Frank Dumont's farce, "Spotless Town," has induced Mr. Hill to almost double the population in that interesting town. The census is now 50 people, who display their versatility and genius in three sets of hilarious comedy. The most prominent of the artists engaged for "Spotless Town" are Carlin and Brown, the Electric Four, Conroy and McFarland, Adelaide Marsden, the Speck brothers, Marie Richmond, Ada Henry, the three Kelcey sisters, Ed A. Kerr, George W. Kerr, Charles D. Flynn. "Spotless Town" will be presented for the first time in this city at the next Sunday matinee at the Grand Opera House. This week Al Wilson with "The Prince of Tatters" is entertaining large and enthusiastic audiences.

The attraction of the week at Havlin's is the latest in the line of the frontier melodrama, "The Scout's Revenge." It is a play of the Texas country during the time following the civil war, when the region was infested by gangs of outlaws. "The Convict's Daughter" is to be at Havlin's with the matinee of the coming Sunday. This play has during the past two years established records of its own at Havlin's, increasing from one year to the other.

The Columbia has another bill this week which is fully up to the high standard that is being maintained all season. Al Leach and his Rosebuds are the headliners. Lewis McCord and company, who are offering a clever sketch, "Her Last Rehearsal," are finding considerable favor with the audiences, as are also Stinson and Merton, sketch artists, who keep the audience in a continuous laughter with very little effort. Coming to the Columbia next week: James J. Corbett, Meers Troupe, Permane Brothers, Adonis Trio, Raymond and Caverly, Davis and McCauley, Edward Reynard, Kennedy and Rooney, Spaulding, Tom Ripley, Lenore and St. Clair, Leonzo and Marshall and Purdy.

Elsie de Wolf in "The Way of the World" is the Olympic's bill this week. Only a fair business is reported.

The Nelson Family of marvelous and phenomenal acrobats, in an act that has never been equaled in this city, is one of the leading features of "The Merry Maidens" company, which will be the attraction at the Standard Theater next week. The burlesquers this week are drawing good houses.

"The Eleventh Hour" is doing a fair business at the Imperial this week with the strenuous action and the brilliant scenery. Next week "Devil's Island" will be the attraction.

MAUDE ADAMS' CONDITION.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1902, by the Press Publishing Co.)

PARIS, Oct. 16.—It is untrue that Maude Adams is ill. She has been staying at the Hotel d'Albe since Aug. 25. She is studying hard and has not once seen a doctor. She goes out driving every fine day and was at the Theater Francais last night.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The above cable dispatch from the Post-Dispatch's Paris correspondent sets at rest rumors which have been current at intervals during the last two months that Maude Adams, the actress, is a victim of tuberculosis and that she might never act in this country again. Charles Frohman, Miss Adams' manager and business adviser, today freely discussed Miss Adams' absence from his theater this year and gave a vigorous denial to the alarming rumors about his star's health. He said:

"In the first place, Miss Adams has not tuberculosis, nor any other disease. If she had I would be one of the first to know it. That she has been in a very nervous state is true, but she is much better in that respect than when she went abroad. For four or five years she has confined herself unremittingly to work. She would have been able to return a month ago had I sanctioned it. But we decided that it would be much better for her if she kept away from the theater until her strength was absolutely restored.

"With these rumors have been heard others, that Miss Adams and I are married. It would be proper to let the lady deny such rumors first, but as she is not here, and therefore cannot, I take it upon myself to say that such stories are both ridiculous and unqualifiedly false."

FUEL TROUBLES STEEL TRADE.

Big Contracts Held Up to Await Price Developments.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The fuel situation continues exceedingly troublesome in all parts of the country, not alone in its direct effect upon manufacturing operations, but also in its adverse moral effect upon business generally, says the Iron Age. In the Central West deliveries of coke are very unsatisfactory. From the Lehigh valley comes the report that furnaces are now getting a little anthracite, but the opinion prevails that in the most favorable cases the manufacturing industries will not be taken care of until the domestic requirements are fairly well provided for.

Fancy prices are being paid for coke for prompt delivery and $4 and upward has been paid for blast furnace coke well into next year, some furnacemen covering on sales for distant delivery of pig.

But what, after all, most interests those who are consumers of coke is prices for next year. As yet this matter has not been settled, although the feeling is that an advance of $1 to $3.25 at oven Connellsville, seems certain, if, in fact, it is not considerably higher. It is understood that a sale of Bessemer pig iron for the second and third quarters of 1903, involving several hundred thousand tons, is kept pending until the question of coke prices is settled.

There has been some movement in basic pig, Virginia furnaces having sold about 15,000 tons at $19 to $20 at furnace.

The rush for coal charters in England has so hardened freights that it is making imports of foreign pig iron a little more difficult. The difficulties over the duty on steel billets have stopped all negotiations for foreign steel for the present.

Reports from the heavy lines continue exceedingly satisfactory. There have been further large sales of steel rails, with additional business pending. Heavy transactions have taken place in plates, and a very good tonnage is coming out in structural material. In the lighter lines the sharp struggle continues. The principal outside mills are freely meeting the cuts on wire products and on sheets. It is worthy of note as bearing upon the all-important point of current consumption that the sales are reported to be heavy.

There is increasing weakness in merchant pipe, notably in the smaller sizes. The feeling prevails in the trade that an adjustment in prices cannot be far off, and this, too, is expected in the tinplate trade.

The most valuable by-product produced on the farm is the skim milk.

The eight muscles of the human jaw exert a force of about 500 pounds.

RUN DOWN BY A SLEUTH HE HIRED

Banker and Politician Trapped by His Own Detective.

COUNTY TREASURY LOST $2800

J. WEB LEWIS EMPLOYED MAN TO SOLVE MYSTERY.

Shadower Ignored Insinuation That Deputy Might Have Money and Followed Real Clews, Forcing Employer to Restore Funds.

IPSWICH, S. D., Oct. 16.—This is the story of the undoing of J. Web Lewis. It was eighteen years ago when a thousand persons came out into the prairie and built the town of Ipswich about a lumber yard. Among these was J. Web Lewis. He didn't succeed. So he went east and came back seven years later with a degree.

He soon was made deputy county treasurer, then treasurer, and lately, deputy auditor. He became one of the largest land owners here and a political leader.

The G. W. Brown Banking Co. opened the First State Bank here. J. Web Lewis was made cashier and manager. This summer the books of the county treasurer's office got into a tangle. There is no man who knows more about the books of this office than J. Web Lewis, so Lewis was called in.

The tangle in the books was straightened out, but another complication appeared when a few days later $2800 that should have been in the vault could not be found.

Lewis' tongue was unloosened. He pronounced it a dastardly crime. He drove to the homes of the county commissioners and said that immediate steps should be taken to find the guilty man. By Mr. Lewis' suggestion, a detective was brought to Ipswich and put upon the trail, and Lewis acted as chief sleuth.

"Better look into the furniture now, Ward McCafferty, deputy treasurer, has bought. I understand it's pretty good for a man with his income," suggested Lewis.

The detective found how much furniture had been given McCafferty at his wedding and how much he now has, and the difference in value was $78.

"I understand he lives high for a deputy treasurer," was Lewis' comment, when the detective reported again.

The detective found McCafferty's bills and learned the man was indeed spending $15 a month

About that time Lewis departed for the east. The detective was going to Aberdeen for clues the same day, and naturally rode with Lewis.

"I'm going to Minneapolis on land business," explained the banker.

Five minutes after the detective left the train at Aberdeen a message went over the wires to St. Laul, and when the Ipswich banker stepped from the train at Minneapolis he was observed by an unidentified man. This stranger saw him change $20 gold pieces at cigar stores and saloons, and finally he exchanged some $2,500 in gold for currency at one of the Minneapolis banks.

A day or two after Lewis returned to Ipswich the detective called at the bank.

"Well, I've found my man," he announced.

"That so?" queried J. Web Lewis. "Who is he?"

"I'm talking to him now," replied the detective. Then he told Lewis he was the worst man he had ever met; that in all his experience he had never known so deliberate an effort to convict an innocent man of an offense of which he himself was guilty.

J. Web Lewis whistled as he walked for his hat. At the jail he met the unknown man from St. Paul. He was a detective. After listening fifteen minutes, Lewis prayed for mercy, admitted his guilt and paid back the money.

Baer's Generosity.

From the Chicago Chronicle.

Mrs. William N. Appel, daughter of President Baer of the Reading railroad, was injured recently in a runaway accident and was cared for in the general hospital at Lancaster, Pa. Mr. Baer has just presented 20 tons of coal to the hospital, and the authorities of that institution consider that under the circumstances that is rather a handsome donation.

DO YOUR FRIENDS LOOK LIKE THESE?

This is the age of pretty women.

The age of pretty men is long and forever buried under the ruins of ancient Greece.

A man fights now when you call him pretty.

But a woman—O, a woman!

It used to be that every community in Greece had its statue of Apollo.

It is right now that every Middlesex village and town has its living and breathing Phyllis.

Even pretty women used to be downtrodden.

Now—O, now every man of them will lay face down in the muddy street that a pretty woman may cross on the backs of their heads.

Five artists, recognized as leaders in picturing feminine types, have drawn five ideals of American womanhood—the fireside girl, winter girl, summer girl, opera girl and the horsewoman.

These pictures will be published in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. If you have a friend who resembles any one of these pictures more than any other body's friend, you can win $15 by sending her picture to the Sunday Post-Dispatch. The prize for the second closest resemblance is $10. There are five first and five second prizes. All American women are eligible.

Watch for these pictures in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

"Owen Moore went away,
Owin' more than he could pay;
Owen Moore came back again,
Owen Moore."

Owen made his great mistake when he went away. He should have stayed in St. Louis. St. Louis is one of the places to get rich in. While the dreamer has whittled and whistled and wished he were in New York or London, the practical St. Louisan has taken off his coat and made a fortune—right here in St. Louis. A crop of new money-makers has come up. Look over the field in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. It is the best look you have ever had into the big money patch, where they spring up like mushrooms.

Put your nose down to the grindstone;
You're not in the race alone;
The world is full of ambitious folk—
Noses close to the stone.

St. Louis has its nose down to the grindstone in great shape. The St. Louisan gets right down to his work. He reads and writes at close range. He can't see very far any more. The city isn't going blind, but something is happening its eyes. An eminent oculist tells what it is in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The teacher was fond of poetry. She encouraged it in the class room. One morning she said to the Latin class:

"I will allow 10 minutes for each of you to prepare a rhyme containing the Latin words ad finitum." Of course, somebody won the prize. It was the boy who wrote this:

Big bugs have little bugs,
And these have bugs to bite 'em;
And these, in turn, have other bugs,
And so on, ad finitum.

Would you believe a bug could do $35,000,000 worth of damage? The Chicago drainage canal, which gave St. Louis the ring-tailed typhoid fever bug, cost $35,000,000. But it isn't the only $35,000,000 bug on earth. Another one will be pictured and described in a story to be published in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

It's in the frosty autumn morn
The farmer goes a-husking corn.
It's in a mood to sing a song
He liveth as he husks along.
It's in his thumb—the middle joint,
He runs the corn husk's prickly point.
It's in an hour or so or more
The farmer's hands are skinned and sore.
It's in a book—city born—
The pleasant side of husking corn.

They have a world of corn to husk this fall on the biggest farm in the world. It is in Missouri. It covers 23,000 acres, all actual farm land. An illustrated story in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Easy Papa, Chollie and Gawge, Prof. Otto and his Auto, Willie and his Grandpa, the Angel Child and the other funny people in the comic supplement of the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

ARTHUR P. FORBES' FUNERAL.

Services Will Be Held at Pilgrim Church Tomorrow Afternoon.

The funeral of Capt. Arthur P. Forbes will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Pilgrim Congregational Church. He died early Wednesday morning of apoplexy at the new Jewish Hospital.

Capt. Forbes, who was born in Alton 63 years ago, came to St. Louis in 1845, but removed to Massachusetts on the death of his father, and when the civil war occurred he enlisted his services. In 1867 the family returned to St. Louis and Capt. Forbes and his brothers founded the Forbes Brothers & Co. tea and manufacturing business, which is now located at 509 North Second street. His health began to fail three years ago, but he did not cease active participation in business until several weeks ago.

He left a brother, M. S. Forbes of 3625 Delmar avenue, and three daughters, Mrs. W. F. Funsten, with whom he lived at 5915 Cabanne avenue; Mrs. S. F. Nichols and Mrs. Thomas Ashburner of La Grange, Illinois.

The pineapple crop in Cuba for 1903 is estimated at nearly 200,000 barrels, holding an aggregate of 14,000,000.

Only 2240 bicycle licenses have been taken out this year in Montreal, as against 3755 last year and 6847 in 1900.

$200,000 KLONDIKE FORTUNE IN COURT

OWNER DIED SOON AFTER TAKING IT HOME.

MOTHER AND SISTER HEIRS

Pennsylvania Wants a Share of It Under the Law Dealing With Collateral Inheritances.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 16.—In Orphans' Court, at a hearing before Judge Vosburg, the story of Frank J. Belcher's Klondike fortune was for the first time told. Belcher, who was a native of Jerymn, Lackawanna County, returned home from the gold fields with over $200,000 in gold-dust and shortly afterward died of fever.

He left an estate the personalty of which was inventoried at $180,000, of which 5 per cent is demanded by the state of Pennsylvania, because it is claimed that this amount is due under the law that deals with the personal property of a person who dies without leaving any direct heirs.

Attorney Clarence E. Spencer, the administrator of the estate, had set up the defense that the collateral inheritance tax is due only on the legatee's life interest, and not on the whole amount of the estate.

The story of Belcher's success in the Klondike, where so many have failed and met death, reads like a romance. About three years ago he went from Jermyn to Dawson City, and after remaining there for a year and a half returned with $200,000, leaving behind interests in valuable claims. When he left Jermyn he was a poor young man, living there with a widowed mother and only sister.

Soon after arriving home he went into one of the Scranton banks, and, placing $50,000 on the counter, told the cashier his name and left the money for deposit. He was about to leave the bank without even a certificate of deposit, when the cashier called him back, and, after a great deal of persuasion, Belcher was prevailed upon to go out and get a witness to the deposit. He did so, protesting that so much trouble was all nonsense.

Three months later he returned to the Klondike, taking with him Stephen Whitmore of Jermyn, and just three months after he reached the gold fields notice of his death was received here. Clarence E. Spencer, cashier of the Miners and Merchants' Savings Bank of Carbondale, was made administrator of the estate, and so Mr. Spencer went to the Klondike, settled up his estate in a most satisfactory manner to their heirs and returned with the money realized from the claims.

Mr. Whitmore also made a large fortune in the Klondike, and so far as known Belcher and Whitmore are the only two men from Lackawanna County who ever made any money in the gold fields.

Over 750,000 acres of pasture land are in the south of Scotland, which is more than half the country's total.

RHEUMATISM

Rubbing with liniments, blistering, the application of plasters; in fact anything that will produce counter-irritation, is good for external treatment of Rheumatism, but these simple remedies do not reach the seat of the disease nor touch the real cause, and relief is therefore only temporary.

Rheumatism is due to Uric Acid and other irritant poisons in the blood, and as it circulates through the system, these acid poisons are deposited in the muscles, joints and nerves, and exposure to night air, cold east winds, or any sudden change in the weather, will bring on an attack, which may last for a few days or linger on for months. Every battle with Rheumatism leaves you weaker and the blood in poorer condition, while the corroding acids are gradually consuming the oils and fluids that lubricate the muscles and joints, and they become stiff and sometimes immovable.

Rheumatism, with its sharp, cutting pains, can never be conquered until the acid blood has been cleansed and purified, and all irritating substances neutralized and filtered out of the system, and nothing does this so promptly and effectually as S. S. S. Under the purifying and tonic effects of this vegetable remedy the blood is not only made pure and strong again, but the general health is rapidly built up and the sufferer obtains happy relief from the torturing, nagging pains of Rheumatism.

SSS Get rid of Rheumatism before it cripples you, or makes you prematurely old, peevish and unhappy.

WHEAT MAY DEPOSE CORN IN KANSAS

FARMERS HAVE INCREASED THE ACREAGE TEN PER CENT.

PROBABLY STATE'S GREATEST

Conditions for Sowing This Fall Are Favorable and Planters Have Been Tempted by Them.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ABILENE, Kas., Oct. 8.—"It is my opinion that the wheat acreage this fall will be 10 per cent greater than that of last year," said George M. Randall, of Wichita, secretary of the State Millers' Association.

"I have traveled quite extensively during the past few months over what are considered the large wheat-growing counties, and I have come to this conclusion. The reason for this is that the summer has been a suitable one and that there have been plenty of rains, so that the farmers have been able to prepare their ground suitably for fall seeding. This is the main reason for the increased acreage."

It is the opinion of farmers and millers that there will be a much greater acreage of wheat this year than ever before, both for the reason given by Mr. Randall and because there is a well-grounded feeling on the part of the farmers that there is much clear money in the crop. The large profit of the four crops preceding this year have paid off many a mortgage and have encouraged the farmers in the sowing of large acreages.

With the modest increase mentioned—and most men place it higher—there will be approximately 6,000,000 acres of wheat this fall in the state. It will be the greatest acreage ever placed in the ground by any state in the union in a single year.

The rising tide of wheat popularity always follows a series of good years, or it may come as the successor of bad corn years. The last great wheat acreage were in the early '90s.

Following are the recent wheat yields and acreage:

	Acres.	Bushels.	Value.
1898	4,624,731	60,790,661	$32,937,042
1899	4,988,952	43,697,000	22,406,410
1900	4,378,533	77,839,091	41,971,000
1901	5,816,482	90,333,095	50,610,000

The crop of the present year will be not far from 40,000,000 bushels, and the logic of the figures of the past would be that there should be a falling off in the acreage to be sowed this fall. The fact that it is not so and that there will probably be at least 6,000,000 acres in the ground shows the secondary influence that has come to the farmers of the big wheat counties of the state.

The corn crop is good this year. The The time was when to be without corn years used to produce so many million bushels, missed some of the early rains, and are not harvesting the bumper crop that other parts of the state boast of.

The itme was when to be without corn was to be without possible food for the stock. Now there is so much kaffir corn, millet, alfalfa and kindred crops procured and even a small crop is sufficient to pinch through the winter. Last year the farmers of many counties went through without a bushel of corn.

The conditions for wheat sowing this fall are far different from those of one year ago. Then the subsoil was so dry that the outlook was very gloomy for a fall growth. The dry weather of summer had made the lower strata of the soil powderlike, and the plows reached down into the unfavorable portion as the farmers prepared for the seeding. Light rains in the fall gave wheat a start, but there was a drouth in the spring that made the larger portion of the state exceedingly dubious about the prospect for a crop. Tens of thousands of acres were plowed up and the area greatly curtailed on this account. However, the rains that came during May and June gave the wheat a good start, and the crop was better than expected, though not half that of last year. The rains of summer and early autumn have given a wonderfully well-soaked subsoil for this season, and the prospect could scarcely be better for a good growth in preparation for winter. The old settlers say that a wet subsoil in the fall means a great crop the following year, and the belief in this proverb is to some extent the cause of the large amount of wheat sowed.

The thrashing is not nearly over in the wheat counties of central Kansas, and the novelty of wheat sowing and thrashing going on in the same community is a common one. The wet weather has delayed the work and the managers of the machines have been unable to secure help to utilize the dry days. The visiting laborers have long ago gone home, and there must be dependence on the home help. But that is needed to put in the new crop and to gather the corn, which is now nearly ready for cribbing. It is one of the most vexatious years in the history of Kansas farming, and seeding is much behind on this account. It will be the middle of October before the work is completed at the present rate.

PAID OFF A $20,000 DEBT.

County Lost It in Bank That Failed When He Was County Treasurer.

ANDERSON, Ind., Oct. 16.—There was a happy gathering at the home of Weems Heagy today. Mr. Heagy is a farmer, and it was for the first time in thirty years that the family had gathered about the Sunday dinner table, with the satisfaction of knowing that the last note of a mortgage on the old home place had been lifted.

Since 1873, when Mr. Heagy was treasurer of Madison County, he has been paying by installments $20,000 and interest to Madison County to make good the loss of the county when the Stilwell Bank failed and caught that amount of the funds of the county treasurer. His bondsmen were ready to back him, but Mr. Heagy gave notes and mortgages with approved security and set to work to pay off the debt.

He returned to farming and has been at it steadily, paying off the deft to the county and gradually building up a home for his family. Late Saturday afternoon he walked into the county treasurer's office and paid $300. That canceled the last note.

Mr. Heagy was given a receipt in full. He was congratulated by everybody about the courthouse, but while he modestly accepted the expressions, he stated that he did not see that he was to be so complimented.

He felt that he had mere fulfilled his obligation to the county and to himself and family. In the quietude of their home, however, the Sunday dinner was the best one for over a score of years.

AN ERRATIC HUSBAND.

Took His Wife Into the Mountains and Nearly Starved Her.

ZANESVILLE, O., Oct. 16.—A story with few parallels was revealed by the filing of a suit for divorce and alimony in the common pleas court yesterday. In her petition for divorce from her husband, Elmer Cochran, Mrs. Cochran tells a tale of cruelty and misguided affection.

The couple became engaged in June, 1900. Before the marriage Cochran tired of the betrothal, made a pretended sale of his property for $8000 and fled the country. Cochran's brother told the abandoned sweetheart that her fiance was waiting at Atlantic City to marry her. Instead of going to Atlantic City she went to court and began action for breach of promise. This brought the young man back home and with tears in his eyes he implored her forgiveness. Womanlike she forgave and married him.

Telling his bride he had purchased a farm near Zanesville they went southward until Cincinnati was reached. Then he proposed a trip to Alabama. They brought up in the woods of Etowah County and he took her to a log cabin at the foot of the mountains in a wild and desolate spot. Within a week he took her far into the mountains, where they lived on cornmeal and bacon and slept on straw and cotton, wholly without bed clothing.

Her husband's inhumanity increased until at last she begged for money to take her home. He gave her $[illegible] and she returned and brought suit for alimony, but service could not be secured on Cochran. She withdrew the suit and waited for him to return, which he has just done, and the [illegible]

BATTLE RAGING IN VENEZUELA

REVOLUTIONISTS PRESSING ON GOVERNMENT FORCES.

La Victoria Crowded With the Wounded and No Provisions for Soldiers or Citizens.

WILLEMSTAD, Island of Curacoa, Wednesday, Oct. 15.—The battle near La Victoria, Venezuela, between the army commanded by President Castro and the revolutionary forces, which began Monday morning, and resulted in the retirement of President Castro to La Victoria Tuesday afternoon, was resumed again fiercely at 5 o'clock Thursday morning.

At that time the President had received reinforcements and had 6000 men engaged against 7000 revolutionists.

The artillery played a part never before seen in Venezuela. Shortly before 5 o'clock Wdnesday afternoon the revolutionists appeared to have gained a slight advantage. The President's artillery, which numbers 15 guns, had been reduced to four guns. La Victoria was crowded with wounded, and there were no provisions in the town.

WILL INTEREST EVERYBODY.

Or at Least Everyone Who Suffers From Catarrh.

Catarrh in its various forms is a national disease, and the fact that nearly everybody suffers from it more or less leads many to neglect its proper treatment.

Nasal catarrh is a common cause of headaches, destroys sense of smell and if neglected reaches the throat, causing impairment and sometimes total loss of voice. Bronchial catarrh leads easily to consumption. Catarrh of stomach and liver are very serious and obstinate troubles, while it is now generally admitted that catarrh is the most common of all causes of deafness.

All of the more serious forms of catarrh begin with nasal catarrh, the local symptoms being a profuse discharge, stoppage of nostrils, irritation and frequent clearing of the throat, sneezing, coughing and gagging.

The old style of treatment with douches, inhalers, sprays, salves, etc., simply give temporary relief and everyone who has used any of them knows how useless they are and their inconvenience is such that very few have the time or patience to continue their use.

A radical cure of catarrh can only be obtained from a treatment which removes the catarrhal taint from the blood, because no one will now dispute that catarrh is a constitutional or blood disease, and local applications can have no effect except to temporarily relieve local symptoms.

A new remedy which has been remarkably successful in curing catarrh is a pleasant tasting tablet which is taken internally and acts upon the blood and mucous membranes.

It is composed of antiseptic remedies like Red Gum Bloodroot and similar cleansing specifics which eliminate the catarrhal poison from the system.

The tablets being pleasant to the taste are dissolved in the mouth and thus reach the throat, trachea and finally the stomach and entire alimentary canal. They are sold by druggists everywhere under the name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

If desired, when there is much stoppage of the nose, the tablets may be dissolved in warm water and used as a douche in addition to internal use, but a douche is not at all necessary. A few dissolved in the mouth daily will be sufficient. Dr. Ainslee says: "The regular daily use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets taken internally will cure the whole catarrhal trouble without resorting to the inconvenience of a douche or an inhaler."

They seem to give a healthy tone to the whole mucous membrane and it is really remarkable how soon they will clear the head and throat of the unnatural and poisonous catarrhal secretion.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is undoubtedly the safest, most palatable and certainly the most efficient and convenient remedy for any form of catarrh.

ELOPED WITH HIS OWN WIFE

Erring Husband Did Not Recognize Her in Disguise.

MISTOOK HER FOR A WIDOW

STUNNED WHEN HE LIFTED VEIL TO CARESS HER.

When She Heard of His Fascination for Another Woman She Shadowed Him and Learned Their Runaway Plans.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 16.—Tete-a-tete at a table in the dining room of the Allen House sat a young man and woman, whose face was concealed by a black veil. She carried a big bunch of white chrysanthemums. The man reached over and touched her gloved left hand. She drew it away and lifted her veil.

The man leaped from his chair as though somebody had caressed him with a live third rail. His face became as white as the bosom of his shirt.

"So good of you to take me out, dear," said the woman, sweetly.

The man picked up his hat and coat, ran all the way to the railroad station and bought a ticket for New Orleans. As he boarded the train he was heard to ejaculate one word:

"Stung!"

Never had a man more right to say it, for he had eloped from Meriden with his wife, thinking her a widow to whom he had been paying attentions.

Wife Is Her Owne Detective.

It came to the ears of Mrs. Harriet Falkner of Yalesville, a few weeks ago, that her husband was spending time and money on a certain fascinating widow in Meriden.

Mrs. Falkner played detective. She shadowed her husband and the widow while they sat on a bench in a park and arranged for an elopement.

"I will wear a black veil and carry a bunch of white chrysanthemums," said the widow.

"Oh, you will?" muttered the wife from a secure hiding place in the shrubbery. "Well, so will I."

And so it came to pass that, as the widow waited at the specified railroad station in Meriden, wearing a black veil and carrying a bunch of white chrysanthemums, she was approached by another woman wearing a black veil.

Other Woman Was Decoyed From Scene.

"A gentleman from Yalesville is waiting for you at the Tracy depot," said the woman in the black veil to the widow.

Away went the widow to the Tracy depot. The wife in the black veil bought a bunch of white chrysanthemums and took the place of the widow.

Along came the husband. He beckoned the woman with the black veil and the chrysanthemums to board a train to this city. The cars were crowded and they did not sit together. On arriving here they walked up Asylum street together to the Allen House without speaking.

"My husband was very tender," relates Mrs. Falkner, "squeezing my arm as we walked along. When we were seated in the Allen House, after he had suggested supper, he said:

"Just a glance at your sweet face, my darling."

"He got it, and I haven't heard from him since. He hasn't even sent home for his clothes."

Trial Was Docketed for Yesterday, but Was Postponed Until Oct. 23.

The hearing of Emil A. Meysenburg before the Supreme Court at Jefferson City, which was docketed for yesterday, was continued until Oct. 23, on motion of Attorney-General Crow, who pleaded that the case should be redocketed in order to permit Circuit Attorney Folk an opportunity to argue.

The attorneys for the defense, Morton Jourdan and Fred W. Lehman, sought to have the case argued immediately on the ground that they were ready for trial, but the court sustained the motion of the attorney-general.

Meysenburg was sentenced to imprisonment for two years by the St. Louis Circuit Court for complicity in the bribery cases.

Democratic Ticket Ratified.

The nominees of the city Democratic convention, held at the West End Coliseum on October 8, were ratified at a meeting last night at the Jefferson Club of over 3,000 Democrats. There was a great deal of enthusiasm, and with the exception of Candidates Jesse A. McDonald, Robert M. Foster and Patrick J. Clifford, all of the nominees made speeches.

GIRL FOUND IN A YARD.

Servant in Skrainka Family Seriously Injured.

Miss Erna Heeger, 20 years old, a servant in the home of M. Skrainka, 4235 Lindell boulevard, was found unconscious in the back yard of the Skrainka residence about 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. Haverstick was summoned and pronounced her injuries serious. She was removed to the City Hospital, where it was found that her right leg was broken and she had sustained internal injuries. The physicians believe that the young woman is subject to epilepsy.

The members of the Skrainka family are unable to tell just how the accident occurred. Mrs. Skrainka says that she came there last night and was employed as a servant. She said that her home was in Jefferson City. She was assigned to her apartment and passed the night. About 5:30 this morning she was conducted to the kitchen by another servant and told what her duties were. A little while afterwards, while the other servant returned to the kitchen, she found Miss Heeger lying in the back yard in convulsions. Mr. and Mrs. Skrainka were aroused and a physician was sent for. Mr. Skrainka believes that the girl was overcome by her supposed malady and fell out at the back door.

VETERANS WILL MEET.

Members of St. Louis Camp, No. 731, of the United Confederate Veterans, will meet at the Southern Hotel at 6:30 Thursday night for an informal dinner.

Eight members of the Daughters of the Confederacy are now in Kansas City, attending the state reunion of the order. They are delegates from the Margaret A. E. McLure chapter. They will return Friday evening. They are: Mrs. P. G. Robert, Mrs. Frank Galennie, Mrs. A. U. Rapley, Mrs. J. C. Jannopoulo, Mrs. Tom L. Cannon, Mrs. O'Bannon, Mrs. Seawell and Mrs. Clenson.

CONVICTED AFTER 31 YEARS.

Negro Murderer Is Finally Brought to Justice.

EVERGREEN, Ala., Oct. 16.—In the Circuit Court Albert Brown, a negro, has been found guilty of killing Levi Brown in this town in 1871 and sentenced to prison for life. The accused is 66 years old. Although it is now 31 years since the crime was committed, when Brown faced the court this morning there were three eyewitnesses to the killing, who were prepared to swear that he inflicted the fatal knife wound.

Brown declared that he was not present when the killing was done, but had no witnesses to support his statement. The jury returned a verdict of guilty with life imprisonment.

SANTOS PLANS LONG FLIGHT

Wants to Make Airship Flight From Paris to San Francisco for $200,000.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Santos-Dumont is trying to induce former Mayor Phelan of San Francisco to get a purse of $200,000 as a prize for a successful flight by airship from Paris to San Francisco.

"Santos-Dumont," said Mr. Phelan, "asks that a prize of $200,000 be put up. This sum, however, will only be paid over in case the trip is successful. The aeronaut will undertake it at his own expense and he is already at work building a new arship for this purpose.

"He seems entirely confident of achieving his object. He pooh-poohs the difficulties of such a trip, and not only believes he has got a chance of completing this transoceanic and transcontinental air journey, but that there will be found a sufficient number of contributors to make up the purse he asks as a reward."

MERMOD & JACCARD'S,
On Broadway, cor. Locust.

Sues Again for River Land.—Mrs. Mary Swearingen, through her attorney, E. P. Johnson, has filed a motion for a rehearing in the United States Supreme Court of her claim to the title to a strip of land 90 feet wide which lies across the city wharf between Dock and Buchanan streets. The motion is based on the ground that on the day the court decided it had no jurisdiction, it rendered an opinion in another case embodying a principle contrary to that ruling.

I could not rise to my feet without fainting.

"I had suffered for three years or more at monthly periods," writes Miss Ella Sapp, of Jamestown, Guilford Co., N. C. "It seemed as though I would die with pains in my back and stomach. I could not rise to my feet at all without fainting; had given up all hope of ever being cured, when one of my friends insisted upon my trying Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. With but little faith I tried it, and before I had taken half a bottle I felt better, had better appetite and slept better. Now I have taken two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and am happy to say I am entirely cured, and all done in two months' time when all other medicines had failed to do any good at all."

TERRORIZED BY A KU-KLUX BAND

Kentucky Counties Afflicted With Desperate Organization.

MEMBERS TAKE AWFUL OATH

SOME OFFICIALS ARE SAID TO BELONG TO IT.

"Bad John" Wright, Feared by Outlaws, Has Been Employed to Bring Members of the Gang to Justice.

◆ ◆ ◆

> AWFUL OATH OF THE KU-KLUX BAND.
>
> I swear by God Almighty; by heaven his home; by the earth, his footrest, and by hell, his prison house, to befriend and hold in the sacred bonds of brotherhood all members of the band. I swear that I will lie for them, steal for them, die for them. I will be burned in oil, cut to pieces and salted rather than inform on them. I swear to obey my captain in all things, even to the killing of my kinfolk. And if in any way I break this oath, I hope God may strike me dead in my tracks. And if he lets me live, may I be cut to pieces by the members of the band, and may my whole life be damned.

◆ ◆ ◆

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HINDMAN, Ky., Oct. 16.—Kentucky, or this part of it, no sooner had ridded itself of the tollgate raiders and the enthusiasts who were against Goebel and in favor of those who took his life than there sprung up a band of Ku-Kluxers that is more to be feared than any band of outlaws that has been together since the end of the civil war.

In the heart of the Cumberland and Stone mountains in Knott and Letcher counties 1200 men have secretly banded together and have taken one of the most bloody oaths on record of any organization known to modern history.

Knott county adjoins Letcher and Breathitt. No railroads penetrate these precincts. Instead of the screeching of railway engines at nights there are heard the shrill sound of the nighthawk, the shivering cry of the owl, the barking of terrified dogs, the swift, keen clanking of spurs upon the highways—a shot here and there, the sounds of frightened feet scampering over the rocky roads and an occasional cry for help from some unfortunate who has incurred the enmity of these oath-bound lawbreakers.

This part of the Bluegrass State needs assistance; it requires the help of the law; it beckons to the goddess of justice; the reckless taking of human blood seeks a physical antiseptic. Never in the wilds of Syria, on the plateaus of Russia, the valleys of Austria, the hills of Italy, the towns of France was anarchy more in evidence than in this vicinity.

Leader Is of Good Family.

The leader of this newly organized band is Morgan Reynolds, a singular character of more than ordinarily good antecedents, himself a soldier in the Spanish war, a former school teacher and now a notorious outlaw.

The Ku-Klux movement, that has now assumed such remarkable proportions, was started two and a half years ago. It is said that, as originally planned, the purpose of the organization was, in a sense, a good one, the intention being to drive out of the country such persons as deserved but did not receive the penalties of the law for evil-doing. There is always an appreciable amount of lawlessness in the Kentucky mountains that the authorities are either powerless or unwilling to reach, and it was to eradicate this that the Ku-Klux leaders originally declared they had devoted themselves. But their purpose, if it was ever a sincere one, never bore fruit that aided in the well-being of the community. On the contrary, the whole movement, from first to last, became a growing menace to the law it pretended to serve, and was speedily turned into an organized system of shameful whippings, highway robbery and finally murder that won for the two counties involved a reputation that has resulted in making travelers give the entire section a wide berth.

County Officials Members of Band.

In Knott County very little has been done to fight the Ku-Klux organization, and it is said that the opposition to it there is restricted from the fact that a number of the county officials are either members of the band or secretly favor it. In Letcher County the war commenced in earnest a year ago under the leadership of John Wright, and although the Ku-Klux still holds its own, still terrorizes the neighborhood with its depredations and mruders, it is believed that this famous detective of the Kentucky mountains will finally succeed in putting an end to this formidable demonstration of outlawry.

Whatever his fame may be elsewhere, there are few persons in Virgina, West Virginia or Tennessee, and certainly none in Kentucky, who have not heard of John Wright. "Bad John" he is sometimes called, but this is by those who have had reason to fear him. The law-abiding persons of the mountains pin their faith to him and dread the time when some encounter with the Knights of the Woods, with whom he is continually at war, may prove his last.

Generally John Wright has borne the title and exercised the powers of a deputy sheriff of Lecher County. Whether in this capacity or as a private detective, he admits that he has killed as many as 18 outlaws among his native mountains. So sanguinary a record is far from being a matter for reproach among his neighbors. Indeed, the stautes governing the killing of outlaws in the mountains of Kentucky are altogether peculiar and characteristic. A somewhat eccentric judge, in giving his instructions recently to a grandjury assembled in the Whitesburg courthouse, summed the matter up as folows:

"If a civil citizen kills another and it is clearly in self-defense, don't indict him. If a civil citizen kills an outlaw, don't indict him, no matter whether he killed in self-defense or not. If one outlaw kills another outlaw indict him without questioning the motive for killing. In such a case it would be well to sentence the outlaw for life and so get rid of him as well as of his victim. If a civil citizen takes a bag of provisions on his back and pursues an outlaw all week, and even into the next week, and then kills him as he would wild game, don't indict him. If you want to do anything give him a better gun and more ammunition so that he can get the next outlaw more easily. If you do indict such a man, be sure that I will file the indictment away as soon as I reach it."

Never in the history of the mountain counties of Kentucky has a more dangerous organization been formed than this "Letcher Ku-Klux band" that John Wright is at present fighting. Like most of the mountain regions in Kentucky, there are very few houses to be seen along the road and not half a dozen travelers during a day's walk. Those carry long army revolvers attached to well-filled cartridge belts at their waists, and appear to be on the alert for hidden dangers.

It resembles a trip through some region where martial law has been declared and hostilities are expected to break out at any moment. Very few greetings are exchanged along the road.

LD ALMANAC WAS WINNING WITNESS

ITS CONTENTS OVERTHREW DIRECT TESTIMONY.

HOUR OF DAWN WAS DECIDED

Woman's Suit for Son's Death Depended on Proof That Accident Was Not in Daylight.

An almanac with information eight months out of date proved to be worth $1000 to Mrs. Anna Koch of Breese, Ill., in the Circuit Court at Belleville yesterday.

The evidence of the almanac, offsetting direct testimony of several living witnesses, decided a damage suit in Mrs. Koch's favor and the jury awarded her $1000.

Mrs. Koch sued for $2000, the Consolidated Coal Co. being defendant. She alleged that the death of her son, George Koch, had occurred through the negligence of the company, which employed him.

Koch was a coal miner at Breese, in one of the Consolidated Coal Co.'s mines. He was not quite 21 years of age.

Early on the morning of Feb. 5, 1902, Koch was instantly killed by falling down a shaft. He had been hoisted to the surface with two other men and in stepping from the cage missed his footing and was hurled to the bottom.

Attorney A. H. Baer, for Mrs. Koch, sought to show that the company was negligent in not providing a light at the top of the shaft, holding that Koch would not have made the misstep if there had been a proper light.

M. W. Borders, the company's counsel, placed on the stand seevral witnesses who testified that the accident happened in daylight. It was also brought out in evidence that the time of the accident was between 6:10 and 6:15 a. m.

Then Attorney Borders dealt his winning card. He produced an almanac for the current year and turned to the February page. It showed that the sun rose at 7:06 on Feb. 5 and that the dawn preceded the sun by 40 minutes.

This gave 6:26 as the hour of dawn, showing that it must have been before daylight that the accident took place.

The attorneys argued the point, but Judge Schaefer admitted the almanac as a witness, deciding that it was scientific or expert testimony and as such superseded that of direct witnesses.

The jury retired with the almanac, and returned in an hour and a half with a verdict for the plaintiff.

3000 BOERS TO SETTLE IN WEST

DR. DE THOMPSEN IN ST. LOUIS TO FIND SUITABLE PLACE.

HE WILL START A COLONY

Burghers Who Were Not Born in South Africa Cannot Return There.

Rev. Dr. Otto de Thompsen, ex-field cornet of the Boer army, is in St. Louis for the purpose of locating a suitable place for the colonization of exiled Boers. He is staying with Rev. William F. Horstmeier of 1317 Sullivan avenue, who is pastor of the Salem Reformed Church, Fourteenth street and Sullivan avenue.

Dr. de Thompsen delivered an address last Sunday in Salem Church and will address the congregation again next Sunday. He has made arrangements with several railroads to tour the territory along their line which touches Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory, and immediately upon finding what he deems a good location he will remain there and notify Secretary Reitz of the Transvaal Republic, who is in Washington.

The visiting clergyman states that there are about 3000 Boers, who, having been born on other soil than South Africa, will not be permitted to return to their native land. Many of them held property interests there which were confiscated by the British government and are now practically penniless.

Dr. de Thompson was imprisoned on the Island of Bermuda, and when released was furnished means to come to America by the Red Cross Society. He will establish a church wherever the location is satisfactory and it is expected that all of the burghers will settle around it. He will leave on his tour of inspection next Monday.

CITY NEWS.

The superb PIANOS in the CRAWFORD STORE (fifth floor) are going these days like a house on fire. The Piano-buying public is having its eyes opened when it finds a $300.00 Piano store instrument in the CRAWFORD Salon for $145.00; $5.00 down and $5.00 a month until paid.

WATCHING COURT METHODS.

Members of Grandjury Sit in Judge Clark's Tribunal.

Three members of the grandjury occupied spectators' seats in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday, unknown at first to Judge Clark and his court officers.

It is said the jurymen were sent there as a committee to observe the procedure of the court and report upon it.

Light for Maplewood.

Maplewood, west of the St. Louis city limits, is to be lighted by voluntary subscriptions of citizens. A meeting was held last night to take definite steps in the matter.

A committee reported that the proposition had been received with favor by the people, and that sufficient funds would be in the hands of those having the lighting movement in charge to pay the cost of illumination by the first of next week.

WOULD NOT LIVE IN OFFICE

Wife's Desire for a Home Caused Trouble Which Landed Physician in Jail.

Because they cannot agree where they shall live, Dr. G. W. Chapman and wife of Belleville have fallen out, and there does not seem to be any likelihood of a reconciliation.

A few days ago the grandjury indicted Dr. Chapman on the charge of wife abandonment. He could not give bond, and was locked up.

His wife was sorry when she learned that he was an inmate of the county jail, and there were indications that she would obtain his release, but the prospect of a reconciliation seems to have vanished.

Charles Rowland went on the doctor's bond Wednesday afternoon and he was released. After he had left the jail he said that there had been a likelihood of a reconciliation, but that it had failed because she insisted that he should provide a home for her apart from his office and he insisted she should live with him in apartments connected with his office.

He said that he was not able to keep up a separate establishment, and as she was not disposed to share the expense he could not gratify her wish.

Mrs. Chapman says the doctor has not treated her kindly and wants her to let him have her money.

The couple were married in the early part of June. The parents of Mrs. Chapman reside at Ravenna, O.

WOMAN WANTED TO SAW WOOD

Offered to Take Place of Husband to Get Aid From the Poormaster.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 16.—Forty-seven men, under direction of Poormaster Barck of Hoboken, began the work yesterday of breaking up a score or more of abandoned canal boat hulks lying in the basin at Fifteenth street, Hoboken.

It is expected the boats will yield several hundred cords of oak. The wood is to be applied to the relief of the poor.

Among those whom the poormaster sent for to report to him and obtain work was John Lockran, who was a charge on the city at times. Instead of the man, his wife appeared and explained that her husband was dead and that she stood ready to take his place and do whatever was wanted.

The poormaster explained he had intended setting her husband at work with a saw. The woman then wanted to do this work, but the poormaster refused to allow it, and promised she would receive as much wood as if she worked and that he would find something for her to do later.

A body weighing 1 pound on earth would weigh 27½ pounds upon the sun.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN

IGNORING DYNAMITE THREAT

ROUTED A THIEF

Miss Watkins Proved Herself Heroine in New York.

MAN DEMANDED JEWELS

THREATENED TO DROP EXPLOSIVE UPON A REFUSAL.

She Screamed for Help and Delayed Frightened Visitor Until Police Arrived—"Dynamite" Was Only Waste Paper.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—"Henry Dawson," who said he lived in St. Louis and who is believed to be a thief, new at the business, attempted to rob Mrs. Watkins and her daughter, Mabel Eloise, both of St. Louis.

His method was almost entirely new here, for his threat was to drop a satchel of dynamite that he held in his hand. The last time this was tried was when Narcross threatened Russell Sage and was killed by his own agent of destruction.

But this time, the threat had far different results. It developed a heroine of Miss Watkins, who screamed lustily and chased "Dawson" down the steps plump into the hands of a policeman.

Then it was discovered that the satchel did not contain dynamite, but was filled with waste paper.

Miss Watkins did not know this, however.

Mother and daughter were alone together in their apartment at 874 Seventh avenue, near Central Park. The doorbell rang. Mrs. Watkins opened the door and saw a slender, pallid youth, with black hair, deep blue eyes and a low, musical voice. He raised his hat politely and said:

"Is this Mrs. Watkins. I should like to see you for a moment. I am a lawyer's clerk and am instructed to confer with you as to some St. Louis property."

His Introduction Sounded Right.

It sounded all right, for Mrs. Watkins has real estate interests in St. Louis and had been expecting news from that city. She invited her visitor into the parlor, where she noticed for the first time that he carried a small satchel in one gloved hand and what appeared to be a legal document in the other.

"I will first ask you to read this over carefully. It will explain my business fully," he said, handing her the paper.

Mrs. Watkins opened it and felt for her eyeglasses. Then her daughter entered the room.

"Don't bother to get your glasses, mother," interposed the girl, bowing to the stranger. "I'll read it for you."

Rising from his chair, the young man smiled and advanced the hand that held the little satchel. Miss Watkins opened the paper. As her eyes traveled along the first lines the color fled from her face. This is what she read:

"It has come to my knowledge that you have several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry in this house. I want it at once. If you do not give it all to me I shall drop the bag. It contains a high explosive—enough to wreck the premises and to kill us all."

Girl Unnerved by the Letter.

There was much more—four closely written pages in all—but the words became blurred and indistinct under the eyes of the terrified girl.

"For an instant I thought I should fall dead," said Miss Watkins later in telling the story. "Right upon me was the emergency I had dreaded all my life. In an instant everything I had done in my life flashed across my mind, as they say happens with a drowning man. Then I caught sight of the bag in the man's hand. There was a sneering smile on his face.

"Like a flash, my nerve came back. My one thought was how best to save mamma. The jewels never came into my head, or the idea of giving them up."

What occurred proved that Miss Watkins is a remarkably plucky girl. Standing erect in front of supposed dynamiter, she raised her eyes languidly from the paper, glanced over her shoulder at her mother who stood just behind her, and said:

Miss Watkins' Great Presence of Mind.

"I suppose that I had better read this interesting communication aloud."

Her eyes met her mother's. Something in the glance of the younger woman conveyed a danger signal. Mrs. Watkins edged toward the door opening into the outer hall and was within a foot or two of it when her daughter, in a firm voice, read the first paragraph of the message and shouted:

"Run, mother, for your life."

Mrs. Watkins ran shrieking into the hall, and, an instant later, was pounding on the door of Mrs. Groffet's adjoining apartment.

At the daughter's warning cry the young man produced a revolver. He leveled the weapon at Mrs. Watkins, but she was out of range before he could press the trigger.

Miss Watkins fled into the hall, calling for help at the top of her voice. She knew that Mrs. Groffet, who was in fear of burglars, had bought a revolver only a day or two before.

But the emergency was too much for Mrs. Groffet. She managed to open the door, then fell fainting across the sill.

Pluckily Bars Thief's Way.

The desperate thief realized that his plan had failed and started to escape.

Miss Mabel Watkins barred the way.

He tried to rush past her, but she sprang straight at him. They grappled and he pressed his revolver to her forehead. She felt it there and sprang to one side.

The robber jumped down the stairs, brushing aside groups of shrieking women and children in the halls.

The uproar had drawn a crowd in front of the house and, as the fugitive charged into it, a dozen hands caught him. He fought like mad, yielding only when a policeman threw him prostrate. Miss Watkins, hatless and dishevelled, struggled into the thick of the crowd, crying:

"Look out. That man has a revolver."

Once a captive, the thief regained his composure. His bag was opened. There was no dynamite in it.

In the police station the prisoner was searched. He had $30 in cash, a penknife, a bottle of morphine tablets, a silver pencil case and a newspaper clipping that gave the clew to his selection of Mrs. Watkins as a victim.

Less than a week ago the Watkins apartment was robbed, but the thieves overlooked a book containing valuable jewelry. The clipping found on the prisoner bore the caption:

"Took false teeth but left the jewels."

"My name is Henry Dawson," was all he would say, when he was committed.

"How long did it take you to prepare this remarkable document?" asked the magistrate.

"You really excuse me, judge," drawled the prisoner, "but I decline to answer."

WATCHING THE ECLIPSE.

A Forecast of What May Happen Tonight.

As he was led to a cell he remarked:

"Well, it was a desperate act and it failed. I shall make no defense, and thank God my family and friends will never know the truth.

"My new name—Dawson—will do me this service."

The police believe the prisoner is an amateur at robbery and a stranger in New York, coming probably from the West. His letter to Mrs. Watkins, written on legal cap paper in a firm, large hand, shows careful preparation.

The police theory is that Dawson is a degenerate member of some respectable family and probably a morphine fiend.

The raid upon the Watkins flat, coupled with the robbery of last week, was too much for Mrs. Groffet. When she recovered from her faint she packed up her belongings and announced that she would leave the city immediately.

"No more New York for me," she said in bidding Mrs. and Miss Watkins good-by. "I won't risk even another night here."

HUNTING ROMANCE IS ENDED

Bailey, Whose Marriage to a Rich Woman Followed Accidental Shooting of Both, Wants Divorce.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—Application has been made by Charles W. Bailey for a divorce from his wife, who was Mrs. Selina Coe Kerr before her romantic marriage to Mr. Bailey, little more than two years ago. The action is brought on the ground of wilful desertion.

They were guests of her brother at his hunting lodge in the Adirondacks in September, 1900. Dr. Charles T. Dade was also a member of the party. Mr. Bailey and Mrs. Kerr were out together during the day's hunt. The former wore a tan-colored shooting coat and was mistaken by Dr. Dade for a deer.

The doctor fired and the bullet, striking Mr. Bailey in the back, was deflected and entered Mrs. Kerr's left thigh, shattering the bone. Amputation was necessary. Following the accident, Mr. Bailey was very attentive to Mrs. Kerr and they were married. Mrs. Bailey has $1,000,000 in her own right.

GRANDJURY'S PARTIAL REPORT

Indictment by October Body Against J. J. Eagan, Who Is Charged With Forgery.

The October grandjury made a partial report Thursday morning in Judge Douglas' division of the Criminial Court. Two indictments and four ignored bills were returned.

One of the true bills was directed against Joseph J. Egan. The offense is alleged to have been cimitted Jan 4 last. He took a check for $302.50, purporting to be signed by L. E. Anderson, and it is alleged, forged the signature of E. S. Strauss as an endorsement on the back. The check was duly cashed, and Eagan left the city the same night.

Eagan was arrested in Houston, Tex., and Detective Harrington was sent for him.

The other indictments was not made public.

Ignored bills were returned in the cases of William Holt, George Stewart, Louis Jackson, charged with assault to kill, and Louis Sewing, charged with embezzlement.

WANT TO GET BACK TO WORK.

Miners Are Impatient, Now That Agreement Has Been Reached.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Oct. 16.—The news of the settlement of the strike was received very quietly here. Now that a definite agreement has been reported all the men are impatient to get back to work.

Nearly all the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co.'s mines can resume at once. The company's normal output is 8500 tons per day, the greater part of which is shipped to New York.

At the headquarters of the brigade today the belief was expressed that the troops would remain in the field until after the mines have resumed.

STONE TO WITHDRAW TROOPS.

Governor Will Lose No Time After Mitchell Speaks Officially.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—Gov. Stone will probably withdraw the troops in the mining regions as soon as the strike is officially declared off by President Mitchell and the miners indicate their willingness to go to work.

The cost to the state of keeping its entire military force on duty in the mining regions is enormous and the governor is very anxious for a speedy settlement.

HERE'S TO BRONCHO—JUST A HORSE

FIRE DEPARTMENT FAVORITE KILLED ONE YEAR AGO.

ANNIVERSARY MEMORIAL POEM

Broncho Was a Faithful Puller of No. 6 Engine and Worthy of Heroic Memorials.

BRONCHO.

(Contributed to the Post-Dispatch.)

Let bard with hand more cunning than is mine
Sing of the death of hero or of knight;
I would not strive to reach a height sublime,
I do not seek the eagle's lofty flight.
But in a saddened moment I would pen
These humble lines of pity and remorse,
For one, a faithful servitor of men,
Who died in serving: Broncho—just a horse.

Ay, just a horse—but what a noble steed!
No human hero of most high degree
Was ever readier in time of need,
Nor yet more steadfast nor more true than he.
PaPtient he waited in his narrow stall,
Guiltless of fretting or of vain desire,
Waiting through day and night for one dread call,
His call to arms—the warning of the fire.

How he responded when the hour came!
Quick to the harness and the waiting work,
With ears grown tense and nostrils all aflame—
His not the soul to hesitate or shirk.
The rein is drawn; with thundering hoof he leaps;
A race is on for Broncho and for Jim;
With head hung low a wondrous pace he keeps—
The curb and not the lash needs follow him.

With straining muscle and with nerve of steel
He minds the hand that marks the way to go;
The red fiend's menace he is quick to feel—
It is his foe, because his master's foe.
The fainting heat of noon, the winter's blast—
They change him not, whatever he may feel;
Simple in duty, faithful to the last,
He has no thought but for his master's weal.

I know not what the hand above us all
May write as things most worthy on our earth;
Which of the deeds that day by day befall
May seem most cherished, or of nothing wroth.
But if the faithfulness that does not fail
Shall be set down in words that ne'er grow dim,
The life of just a horse might here avail
To make men better, were they more like him.

One year ago today "Broncho," one of the oldest, most faithful and sagacious horses of the fire department, was killed in a collision with a stret car.

A contributor of the Post-Dispatch has written the foregoing verses appropriate to the anniversary of the death of an animal, whose loss is still regreted by those whose loyal servant he was.

Members of engine company No. 6, whose property Broncho was, talked of the dead horse Thursday as they groomed "Baldy," formerly the running mate of the faithful animal.

Baldy was in the harness with Broncho on the night when a street car crashed at full force into the plunging team and wrecked the fuel wagon, which they were drawing.

The driver, Robert Russell, as thrown to the pavement and his arm was broken. The two horses lay limp, each with a great gash in his side.

The clanging gong of the truck wagon, halting directly behind the wreck, aroused Broncho. He made a quick start to his feet to resume his journey to the fire, then fell back dead.

Baldy was patched up by the department surgeon so well that he has since gone "on the track," but the mefbers of the company say that he never has recovered from the effects of the accident, and that ho will not last much longer in the department's service.

"Broncho was as good a smoke-eater as any fireman ever was," said Fireman Tom Fitzpatrick of No. 6. "He possessed the keenest scent for fire of any horse I ever had, and a night call simply made him crazy. When the call was for some place out of our district, it was all his driver could do to keep him from dashing out at the door."

CASTRO MAKING LAST STAND.

Washington News Indicates That Fate Hangs on Victoria Battle.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—A cablegram received at the state department this morning from United States Minister Bowen at Caracas, dated last night, reads: "Battle Victoria continuing."

It is believed here that Castro is making his last stand at this point and that the fate of the revolution will be dettermined by this engagement.

"PRINCE CUPID" FOR CONGRESS

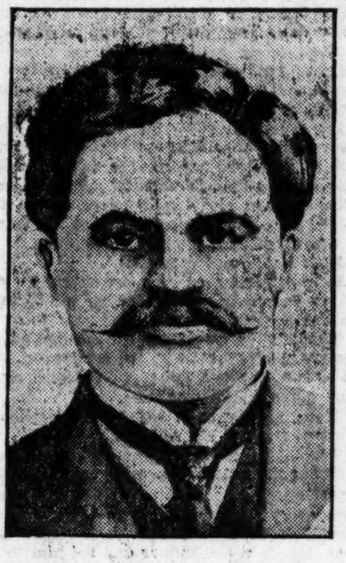
Carroll Purman Tells of the Hawaiian's Aspirations.

THINKS HE WOULD DO WELL

NOBLEMAN WAS NAMED CUPID BECAUSE OF CHUBBY APPEARANCE.

Mr. Purman, Secretary to Senator Thurston, Who Is Now in St. Louis, Is Enthusiastic in His Praise of Hawaii.

"Prince Cupid," Hawaiian Candidate for Congress



The picture was made from a likeness of "Prince Cupid," which is portrayed on a yellow silk handkerchief, one of the candidate's political souvenirs.

Carroll Purman of Washington, brother-in-law and secretary of John M. Thurston, former United States senator from Nebraska and member of the national World's Fair commission, is at the Southern with Senator and Mrs. Thurston en route home from the Hawaiian Islands.

While in Honolulu Mr. Purman met "Prince Cupid," the blue-blooded native who is a candidate for Congress from the Hawaiian territory.

"I would like very much to see Prince Cupid come to Washington," said Mr. Purman. "Not only because I am a Republican and he is running on the Republican platform, but because he is the best type of the Hawaiian gentleman.

"His real name is Prince Kalanianaole, but everybody on the island calls him Prince Cupid. He acquired the name while at college in California and it stuck after his return home.

So Named Because of His Chubby Build.

"It was given him because of chubby physical build. He does not look now like the familiar pictures of the little god. His complexion is dark and he has a black moustache. But he is good-looking, athletic, broad-shouldered and polished and courteous to a degree. He is about 32 years old.

"While he is most courteous to all ladies, he has already fallen a victim to the shafts of the little god after whom he is named. He married a Hawaiian princess.

"Prince Cupid is making a strenuous campaign in the islands of the Hawaiian group. I have some souvenirs of his political campaign.

"One of them is a large silk handkerchief of a bright yellow shade with 'Cupid's' likeness photographed in one corner. These he is distributing among the natives, yellow being the national color.

"Prince Cupid is keen and intelligent, and would reperesent the islands splendidly if elected.

"But he has a contest on his hands. Wilcox, the present delegate to Congress, is out for re-election. He is the candidate of a party known as the Home Rule party. Wilcox has a hold on the natives and is a resourceful politician. He tells the natives, I am informed, that if he is elected again he will try to restore the monarchy for them and makes other extravagant claims.

"Cupid" Only Man Who Could Defeat Wilcox.

"His hold on them is strong and Cupid is about the only man on the island who could defeat him."

Mr. Purman brought back with him many other souvenirs of Hawaii in addition to Prince Cupid's handkerchief. Notable among this collection are a number of leis (pronounced lays).

These are wreaths of paper of bright colors, or of feathers, with which the natives decorate visitors to the islands as a mark of esteem. Photographs which Mr. Purman has show the Thurston party liberally laden with these leis.

He also has photographs of several "louaus," or native feasts. At these feasts the table is invariably spread on the floor and the guests are not provided with chairs. They eat and drink sitting on the floor and the host usually covers them plentifully with leis, while the natives sing the native love songs, or "aloha" songs, as they are called. Mullet cooked in tea leaves and served at these "louaus" is, he says, a dish for the gods.

Mr. Purman is most extravagant in his praise of the natural beauty of the islands. He says Hawaii is also supplied with fine hotels and other conveniences for tourists.

Says Labor Problem Is a Serious One in Hawaii.

Mr. Purman says the labor problem is becoming serious in Hawaii owing to the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws since the islands passed under the dominion of the stars and stripes.

They are the only men on earth, he says, who can work in the Hawaiian cane fields. The Porto Ricans imported there have proved a failure, Mr. Purman declares, and many of them are in jail for theft.

In Honolulu Mr. Purman says there is a splendid colony of Americans, English and Germans and a most delightful society of educated ladies and gentlemen.

The Thurston party was royally entertained while there.

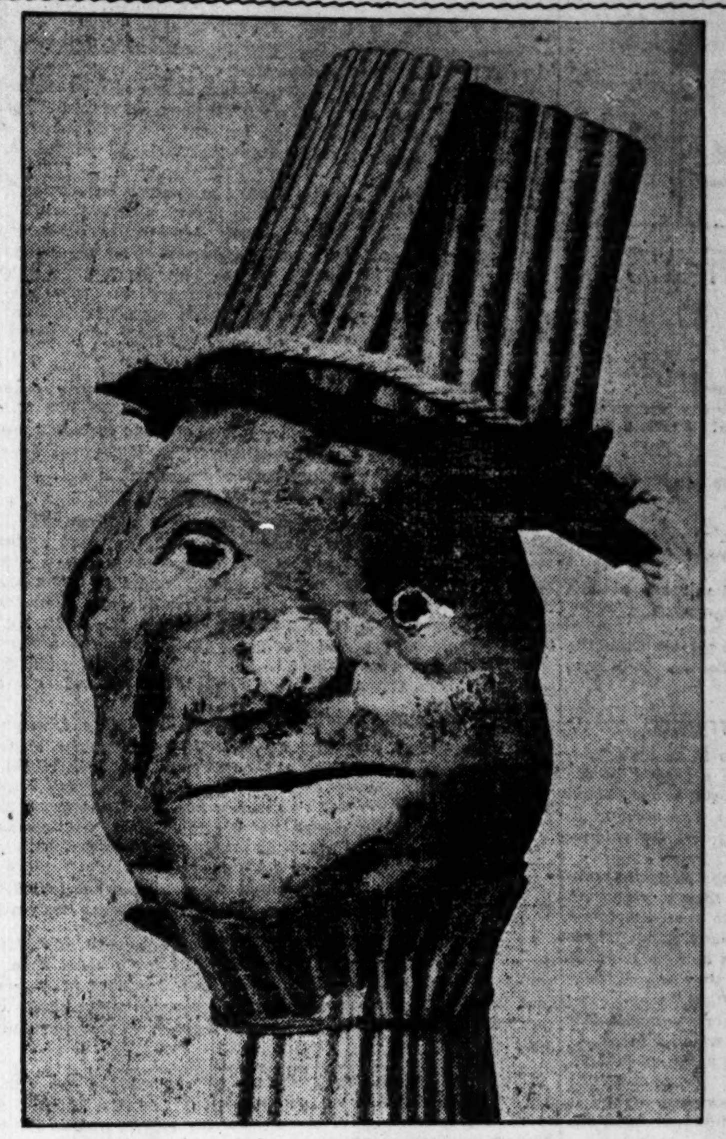
IRISH POTATOE WITH A REAL FACE SENT FOR EXHIBITION AT BIG FAIR



This is a real Irish potato of the "Mike Magoon" variety. He was captured near Jacksonville, Fla., and shipped to the St. Louis Fair and in his present disordered and entirely reprehensible condition is the property of M. F. Helery at 112 North Third street.

In appearance "Mike" gives ocular proof of a great time at the Fair. His nose is skinned and swollen, one jaw is swollen, while the other has several inches of cuticle knocked from it. His eye is blackened and the darkness thereof extends way down his cheek. On his beneath the Donnybrook hat are several bumps of size more or less prodigious. He is a typical rounder and justly deserves his fate, says the talent.

The fact that "Mike" is only a potato after all does not rob him of his just virtues. He really weighs 2¼ pounds and his facial formations are natural. After a season of exhibition the unfortunate Irishman is destined to the rapacious dinner-pot of Mr. Helery.

ARTISTIC MENU FOR PRESIDENT

SOUVENIR OF PREVENTED VISIT SENT TO ROOSEVELT.

ENCLOSED IN A GOLDEN CASE

Patriotic Designs Appropriate to the San Juan Colonel's Career Adorn the Cover.

The beautiful and artistic menu arranged by Mermod & Jaccard for the Business Men's League of St. Louis as a souvenir for President Roosevelt wil be sent to the President in a few days. The souvenir wa sto have been presented to the Presidnt at th dinnr which th Business Men's League was to give him at the Mercantile Club, Oct. 11, the visit of the President being prevented by his lameness.

The menu is inclosed in a case, the outer covering of which is made of white moire silk ribbon and which is lined with puffed silk. On the cover appears, in gold lettering, the words: "Our Guest, President Roosevelt, Business Men's League of St. Louis, Oct. 1, 1902."

The case is made of silver, covered with gold plate in order that the engraving may show the silver beneath. This makes the words of the lettering, which are similar to those of the cover of the case, stand out with brightness. Above the lettering are a United States flag and the President's flag, raised from the plate and enameled in colors. The President's flag is of dark blue, with an eagle emblazoned upon it. The flags are held together by a wreath, also raised.

On the first page of the menu is the President's flag, embossed and illuminated. Above the menu are the notes of the mess call, through which is the word "Menu" embossed in gold. The program is printed below the word "Music," through which pass a pen and a sword in gold, emblematic of the civil and military life of the President. The names of the 100 guests and the 225 members of the Business Men's Club are printed on the other pages.

While there is much original work about the menu, which was planned by Goodman King of Mermod & Jaccard, the under cover probably will please President Roosevelt more than any other part of the costly creation.

From the gold surface rises a silver tent made in imitation of tenting cloth, with little cords of silver holding back the opening in order to show the following lettering enameled in black: San Juan, July 1, 1898."

PEARY OPERATION SUCCESSFUL

Will Improve Explorer's Health, Though It Will Affect Walking.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—The following statement in reference to Lieut. Peary's operation and general condition was given out to-day

"The operation itself was simple and successful. A speedy recovery is anticipated, and it is thought that it will not be long before he will be able to resume his official duties in the navy.

"The operation does not in any way affect his physical condition, saving that, as it will facilitate his walking, it will contribute to even better health. He is in first-class condition physically, in spite of his prolonged and necessarily trying experience for the last few years in the Arctic regions."

PATIENT QUAKES WITH HICCOUGHS

Physicians Cannot Check Frank Finney's Attack.

SUCH SEIZURES OFTEN FATAL

CHILDREN STOP THEM BY HOLDING BREATH.

But Tis Simple Remedy Is Not Sufficient to Stop Palpitating Glottis of Adult, Hospital Physicians Say.

FROM WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY.

Hiccough—A modified respiratory movement; a spasmodic inspiration, consisting of a sudden contraction of the diaphragm, accompanied by the closure of the glottis, so that further entrance of air is prevented, while the impulse of the column of air entering and striking upon the closed glottis produces a sound, or hiccough.

Frank Finney of 1933 Franklin avenue has been representing the Latin hic-haec-hoc at the City Hospital for two days. He has suffered from hiccough since Sunday morning.

Throughout the day and part of the night he suffers from hiccough. The malady is wearing his strength. He was a strong man Sunday morning when the first hic slipped through his glottis, and a very weak one while he was hic-hicking Thursday morning. The pesky hiccough has prevented him from taking much food or drink. The attack is aggravated at meal times.

The City Hospital physicians hope to save Finney, but there are cases of hiccough on record at the hospital which have proved fatal.

Last year a farmer died from hiccough in Marion County, Missouri. He hiccoughed for four days and the effort literally shook the life from him.

Four years ago Finney was stricken with hiccough and was a patient at the hospital at Lynn, Mass., for seven days before he recovered. He does not know the cause of his plight.

Dr. Neitert takes great interest in Finney's case. He said:

"Hiccough is a common affliction, but it is rare that the attack lasts long enough to require medical atention. Few cases are serious, but some are fatal.

"The definition in Webster's Unabridged dictionary describes the disease accurately.

"Hiccough is caused by some disturbance of the stomach, indigestion or irritation by drink. In some cases the patient hiccoughs 100 times a minute. Finney will probably recover.

"The treatment for hiccough is to restore the stomach to normal condition and to use sedatives to enable the patient to sleep."

Little children, who are not as wise as Dr. Neitert, says that one may cure "hiccups" by holding the breath or holding a mouthful of water as long as possible.

Has Worn the Vail Fifty Years.

Sister Agatha, superior of the convent of the Sisters of St. Joseph in Carondelet, last night celebrated the golden jubilee of her entrance into the order.

The celebration was of a quiet, religious nature, in accordance with Sister Agatha's desire for no ceremony or display.

Sister Agatha is at the head of all the convents of the order in the West.

Tower Grove lodge No. 43, Ancient Order of United Workmen, will celebrate the 34th anniversary of the order by giving a ball Saturday evening at Owens & Haney's Hall, Dalton avenue and Old Manchester road.

"BEST CITIZENS"

AS JURYMEN

FOR BUTLER TRIAL

Judge Wants Those of "Highest Intelligence and Most Upright Integrity."

VENIRE OF FORTY ORDERED

CASE POSTPONED BY JUDGE HOCKADAY UNTIL NOV. 10.

Defense Claimed Trial Could Not Proceed Satisfactorily to Them Without the Presence of John McCarthy.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 16.—"I would have been better pleased had a continuance not been granted," said Ed Butler to the Post-Dispatch today.

"In the first place," said he, "I was eager to go trial, confident of complete vindication when the merits of my case were brought out.

"As matters now stand, it means that much more suspense; I won't say worry, because I am not worrying over this charge against me.

"Dr. Chapman or Dr. Merrell or anybody else cannot prove that I ever offered either a dollar as bribe to vote for the garbage contract.

"As to the request made for a continuance, of course, that matter rested entirely with my attorneys. I placed the case in their hands and decided the best thing to do was to let them handle it."

As told in late editions of Wednesday's Post-Dispatch, the Butler trial was continued to Nov. 10. It seems that Judge Hockaday had practically made up his mind not to grant a postponement.

DECISION CAME QUICKLY.

While about to make this announcement Mr. Rowe, senior counsel for the defendant, arose and stated that he had further arguments to offer in support of the affidavit, alleging that his chief witness, John McCarthy, was not present and that upon his testimony rested a material part of the defendant's case.

Mr. Folk replied to Mr. Rowe and while the two were at verbal cross-fires the court interrupted, saying:

"Gentlemen, you needn't prolong this argument. I have already made up my mind. The case will be continued to Nov. 10."

Court was reminded by Attorney Carter of the local bar that this date would interfere with another case pending, but Judge Hockaday dismissed him with the remark:

"The other case can wait until the end of the month."

This latter remark caused an outburst of laughter on the part of the spectators and Judge Hockaday said in his sternest manner:

"If this occurs again I will put everyone who is guilty in jail."

This caution soon quieted the audience and the formal proceedings setting the date of the trial of Col. Butler for Nov. 10, before a special jury, were concluded.

VENIRE OF FORTY ORDERED.

Sheriff Bradford was ordered to summon a special venire of 40 of the best citizens of Boone County—men of the "highest intelligence and most upright integrity," according to the judge's instructions, from which the jury will be chosen.

The defense will bear all the expenses of the continuance, amounting to about $2000.

All of the St. Louisans, including Mayor Wells, Circuit Attorney Folk, the attorneys for the defense and Col. Butler and his family left on the afternoon train at 1:40 o'clock.

Columbia is a model city, so believe the St. Louisans who have spent the past few days here, but the hotel accommodations are rather slim.

A crowd of 200 taxes the hostelries.

HOCKADAY STUDIED CHARTER

Judge's Exhaustive Opinion in Butler Case Was Result of Two Months' Application.

Judge John A. Hockaday's thorough familiarity with the city charter of St. Louis, shown in his exhaustive opinion overruling the demurrer in the Butler case, was not gained from listening to the arguments of attorneys nor from a few hours' reading. He had made a study of the charter for two months before the opening of the trial.

"I anticipated," said Judge Hockaday to the Post-Dispatch, "that questions relating to the charter might be raised by the state or the defense in the Butler case, and I thought it best to be prepared to meet such a situation from my own knowledge of the instrument. So I sent for a copy of the charter two months ago, and became familiar with the charter and with the most important decisions relating to it."

In his opinion, Judge Hockaday went far beyond the arguments of the counsel for either side and laid down points which, lawyers say, will be permanent authority in the interpretation of the charter. Of most importance to the city was his liberal and sweeping definition of the powers of the Board of Health, which, he says, is authorized by the public welfare clause to do things not expressly authorized by the laws governing it.

G. D. REYNOLDS FOR CONGRESS

Election Commissioners Place His Name on Twelfth District Ticket as Regular Republican Nominee.

In view of the withdrawal of E. H. Loffhagen, it has been decided by the Board of Election Commissioners to recognize Col. George D. Reynolds as the regular Republican nominee for Congress in the Twelfth district.

The board held a session Thursday, at which Charles Nagel and other Republicans were heard.

The fact that Mr. Loffhagen concluded to retire from the race eliminated the contest pending.

It is also stated that the board will place the Republican candidates for the legislature on the Public Ownership ticket—that is, those who have been indorsed by the Public Ownership people.

The Twelfth has been considered usually a Democratic district. The Democratic nominee is James J. Butler, who was unseated by Congress following the election two years ago.

Butler's friends declare that he will be elected by a bigger majority than ever at the November election.

Mr. Nagel, discussing the situation, said: "The Republicans are determined to conduct a most vigorous campaign in the Twelfth. With a united party we are certain to win. At all events, I am sure the fight will be made more aggressively [illegible] it was two years ago."

ATTORNEY GENERAL KNOX ON TRUSTS.

Attorney-General Knox's speech on the trusts is an exposition of the subject from the legal point of view by a master of the law, but it is so clear that any layman can readily understand it. Brushing aside all artificial complications, he goes straight to the underlying principle governing the treatment of monopolies, which he finds in the common law.

"The time never was," said Mr. Knox, "when the English-speaking people permitted the articles necessary for their existence to be monopolized or controlled, and all devices to that end found condemnation in the body of their laws. The great English judges pronounced that such manifestations of human avarice required no statute to declare their unlawfulness; that they were crimes against common law—that is, against common right."

Mr. Knox seems to think that this well-known common law principle may be embodied in federal statutes which will be effective against monopolies. "Congress," said the attorney-general, "can, if it sees fit, adopt the scheme of that law." Then it will be a question "whether under the particular circumstances of the case and the nature of the particular contract involved in it, the contract is or is not reasonable."

This is one of the most hopeful utterances ever heard on the legal side of the trust question. Contracts of combination, merger and consolidation must be reasonable, that is, they must not be monopolistic and unless they can endure the scrutiny of the court in the light of the common law principles involved, will be declared unlawful.

The law always responds to public necessity. It needs only faithful public servants to find and apply it.

MISSOURI MULES AMD MEN.

Warring nations have long depended upon Missouri mules to aid them in their fighting, and now they are sending for Missouri men.

A few weeks ago the rebel forces in the United States of Colombia offered Capt. Marmaduke a commission in their navy to fight against the Colombian government.

About the same time, Capt. Pierre B. Ladd, a young St. Louisan with military experience, went to Colombia and is now in command of the Colombian marines, supporting the government.

The Missourian is pre-eminently a lover of peace, but when he takes a notion to fight, he is a fighter for keeps. He never lets up "till the last armed foe expires." That is why he is in such demand abroad.

The great Missouri mule, whose ability as a warrior is known and respected wherever the martial trump has sounded, is the mainstay of those nations that have grievances to settle, foes to fight or lands to conquer.

It would be a sorry time for the armies and navies of the world if Missouri men and Missouri mules should suddenly be stricken from the map.

SAUCE FOR GOOSE AND GANDER.

Gen. Torrence, the retiring commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, said in his farewell address:

"We have never had a President who deserved to be caricatured, and we never will have one that a self-respecting press or people can afford to hold up to public ridicule."

This was said with reference to the assassination of President McKinley and referred only to acts, words and caricatures by so-called anarchists inciting violence.

But what of insults to the President and other chosen servants of the people by those who prate of law and order and cry out for troops?

All accounts agree that during the conference between President Roosevelt and the anthracite mine operators he was sneered at, and his magnanimous effort to end the strike treated with contempt.

Moreover, in the subsequent conference between the operators and Gov. Odell of New York, Mr. Baer contemptuously called the governor a "politician" and told him the operators wouldn't tolerate any interference from politicians.

Now, what is sauce for the goose—is it not also sauce for the gander? If it is reprehensible, vulgar and anarchistic for Johan Most to insult the President, governor and other public servants, why is it not reprehensible, vulgar and anarchistic for George F. Baer to insult them?

The other ox is gored again. It's a pity he can't be better protected.

BRIBERY A DETESTABLE CRIME.

A Post-Dispatch correspondent, in the "Letters From the People," writes as follows:

> The Post-Dispatch deserves the thanks of every right-minded person for its efforts to bring the boodler to the bar of justice. Mr. Folk has done and is doing nobly, but he needs the moral (and financial if necessary) support of this entire city. I therefore urge you to call upon the entire clergy of this city to preach from their pulpits on Sunday, Oct. 26, from the texts Psalms xxvi.—10 or Isaiah xxxiii.—14 and 15. Then will some of our learned limbs of the law learn that bribery is something more than "only a conventional offense."

The scriptural verses referred to, and many others, not only show that bribery has not, in past ages, been looked upon as "only a conventional offense," but that the ancient peoples considered it one of the most detestable of crimes.

The psalmist, for example, in Psalms xxiv.—9 and 10, says: "Gather not my soul with sinners, nor my life with bloody men: In whose hands is mischief, and their right hand is full of bribes."

And Isaiah, chapter xxxiii, verse 15, "He that walketh righteously and speaketh uprightly; he that despiseth the gain of oppressions, that shaketh his hands from holding of bribes * * * he shall dwell on high."

In the days when the writers of these biblical denunciations [illegible] occurred, the people had no representatives in the mak[illegible] the laws. They were ruled by edict, and the monarch was usually too far removed from the masses to be controlled through bribery. Bribes were used to influence the decisions of judges and petty rulers, and the result, though evil, seldom injured all the people of a community or state.

Now that we have popular government, bribery of lawmakers works to the injury of every man, woman and child in the community. Franchises obtained through bribery and laws passed by corruption must be paid for in money and suffering. If bribery was detestable when it wronged an individual or a family, how much more is it detestable when it wrongs an entire community.

THE STRIKE NEARING THE END.

The country hears the news that the strike is in course of settlement with unmixed satisfaction.

The arbitrators named by the President are men of character, who not only meet the requirements insisted upon by the operators, but are broad-minded and impartial. Their findings will, no doubt, be accepted without question by both parties to the controversy.

Although some preliminary details are yet to be arranged, resumption of work may be expected in a few days.

President Roosevelt has succeeded. Beset on all sides by discouragement, treated with marked disrespect by the operators, and uncertain of his ground at the best, he has yet labored faithfully and with good effect to end the great crisis. He has performed a great public service which should earn him the respect of the American people without regard to partisan affiliations.

JOHN A. DILLON'S DEATH.

The death of John A. Dillon at Bar Harbor, Wednesday, cut off in the full vigor of his powers one of the best and brightest members of the newspaper profession and caused deep sorrow in the hearts of a large circle of friends, many of whom are in St. Louis. St. Louis was Mr. Dillon's home city and it was here that he entered upon his journalistic career and proved his capacity and usefulness. He was finely equipped for the profession which he adorned and which honored him, by his sterling character and scholarship, knowledge of the world, keen wit and sense of humor.

For twenty-three years with brief interruption Mr. Dillon was closely associated with Mr. Pulitzer, holding positions of trust and responsibility on the Post-Dispatch and New York World. A strong friendship existed between them. Mr. Dillon was a guest of Mr. Pulitzer at the latter's summer home in Bar Harbor when the accident which caused his death occurred. He remained there until the end, the object of tender solicitude and daily personal attention on the part of Mr. Pulitzer.

Mr. Dillon's admirable qualities of mind and heart endeared him to all his professional associates, who deeply lament his death.

WITH THE POST-DISPATCH
POET AND PHILOSOPHER.

WHICH WILL IT BE?

What will you burn this winter,
To keep your dwelling bright,
Since there is hardly left a ton
Of good old anthracite?

Will it be country cordwood,
Or will you purchase peat
To keep the kitchen fire alive
And furnish daily heat?

Will it be common soft coal,
Or semi-anthracite,
Or coke, or these new-fangled bricks,
That makes such pleasing light?

Or, if by chance you're peatless,
As well as coal and cokeless,
Will you consume the sort of stuff
They sell as "Eastern smokeless?"

It must be one or the other
Unless the fate that stares
You in the face shall force you yet
To burn the parlor chairs.

The Lazy Liver.

"The tongue is an unruly member," said St. James, the apostle, but he neglected to say a word about the liver.

What is more unruly than the liver?

The eyes may lose their sight; the tongue may lose the power to speak, good or ill; the ears may be unable to hear; the legs may refuse to walk, and even the right hand may forget its cunning, and still a human being may live and be tolerably happy, but only let the liver refuse to work, and how woeful does the human state become!

The sunshine fades out of the day; hope flies into outer darkness; the world becomes a barren waste; the day is leaden and night a time of torture; mirth becomes mockery and music mummery; the past is deplorable, the present dark and the future a black morass.

How unattractive life is!

It is a Sahara without an oasis. It is a Black Forest, unpenetrated by the faintest ray of hope.

The only way to clear up the mental atmosphere and restore to life its natural hues is to induce the liver to go to work again and make up for lost time.

If an idle brain is the devil's workshop, an idle liver is the finished product.

Torpid livers have produced a greater amount of unhappiness than any other human agency. They have blighted more lives and broken up more happy homes than any other form of evil. A torpid liver put Cain in a bad humor and led him to become the first murderer, and ever since that fateful time the indolent, unruly, balky and good-for-nothing liver has gone upon its way through the world, urging men on to despair and destruction.

The venerable joke—a thousand years old, if it is a day—is still good because it contains a great truth, namely:

"Is life worth living?"

"That depends upon the liver."

AN ILLUSTRATED PHRASE.

A WOMAN'S CLUB.

When the ladies succeed in having "obey" stricken from the marriage ritual, they may insist on having it said that "Mr. Smith was married to Miss Jones," instead of vice versa, as now.

St. Louis has the best detective force in the world. It never captures anything but "one of the best all-around crooks in the country."

Every man is the architect of his own fortune, but some of us never learn to do more than wield a hammer.

WOMEN IN COLORADO.

Helen Marsh Nixon pleads valiantly and effectively for woman suffrage in an article in the Era Magazine. She concludes with:

It is just beginning to dawn on the political managers that there is a woman vote in this country, with which they must reckon. In former years they devoted their energies to capturing the different foreign votes, now they must look after a new element in American politics—the woman vote.

To sum up the net results of suffrage in Colorado it may be said that the pessimist has failed in his prediction, for the ballot in the hands of woman has neither unsexed her nor degenerated the world. As for the woman who neglects her home for political work, would she be less likely to do so were politics eliminated? Let us not take the extremes nor the isolated cases to base an opinion upon, but rather take the large class of women who have awakened—through their civic rights—to a greater practical interest in the problem of social life, and who are learning that patriotism includes the small things of life, as well as its tragedies, and that it not only expresses itself but acts as well. "But patriotism is not politics," a lady from Ohio, on a brief visit to Colorado, said. It is just that, and the women of the state, having taken it so, have worked to make political methods better and candidates cleaner.

The women of Colorado are voting at every election; they are not confounding liberty with license; they are doing their duty from the standpoint, not of "the eternal feminine," but of citizens. The man who gets a safe distance from Colorado and proclaims from the house tops that "Woman's suffrage is a failure," is probably the man who will not allow his wife to vote, and who forgets to register before an important election.

An impartial examination will prove that suffrage has accomplished good in Colorado through the quickening of the civic conscience among women, which means a distinct progress toward higher civic life.

OMNIPRESENT GERMS.

Some persons are susceptible to contagion, others are not, and it is not difficult to determine who are and who are not, says the Wisconsin Medical Recorder. Fire will not burn where there is no fuel. Fermentation will not take place in pure water; but stagnant water becomes impure and may then ferment. Every plant, germ and insect has its natural habital and its natural conditions of life. Without these conditions it cannot live or propagate. Germs of lower forms of life are always present; sooner or later, wherever conditions favor, and it is impossible to exclude them unless we exclude at the same time atmospheric air or oxygen, which is equally necessary to the existence of man. So contagion or infection may hasten disease in the susceptible, but cannot impart it to those whose bodies are clean within and without.

Contribution for Baby Gould.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As thousands of Post-Dispatch readers will recall, the "Iron Mountain baby," since christened William Moses Gould, was found in a telescope-valise lying beside the Iron Mountain Railroad tracks in a deep cut three miles north of Irondale, Mo. The little fellow had been thrown or dropped from a passing train by some soulless person. Farmer Helms is a very poor man, but he and his daughter have done what they could for the helpless babe which Providence brought to their care. Farmer Helms now needs assistance to buy a cow from which to provide Baby Gould nourishing milk. He has $10, but $30 are needed. I herewith inclose $1 to be applied toward purchasing that cow. Baby Gould will need other things also. And a little extra assistance to Farmer Helms will not be amiss.

I feel assured there are hundreds of other readers of the Post-Dispatch who will contribute— a dollar, half, quarter, dime or even a penny.

I make this contribution (I wish it were more) from a wish to help out the kindly old farmer who pitied and cared for the forlorn babe, and because I have babies of my own and a soft spot in my heart for all unfortunate little ones.

Will not the good people of St. Louis, of Missouri and of the West join generously in this movement?

Weather Prophets.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am glad to see "Old Hunter" back prophesying once more. I was afraid he was dead. He fell down hard in trying to predict the weather several years ago, and now that he has come back from his exile in Alaska, with a prediction that the coming winter is to be like the weather up there, we may hope to see more of him. Should his present awful prophecy prove true, I shall be the first to acknowledge its truth. A Brutal Policeman.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I witnessed on Jefferson avenue, between Ann and Armour avenues, Sunday evening a brutal attack by a policeman who must have weighed over 200 pounds upon an inoffensive citizen weighing about 125 pounds. The trouble originated by the conductor of a Jefferson avenue car knocking a man off his car for, as he claimed, non-payment of fare, leaving the man lying on his back in the middle of the street. The policeman placed the man under arrest, but as soon as he started to explain things to the officer, this brute in human form abused the man in a most outrageous manner without any provocation whatever, first by strangling him; then knocking him down he knelt on his prostrate form and beat his head on the brick pavement; then turning him over on his face he pounded the man on the back of the head with his fist while the man lay for some time as though unconscious. After getting on his feet again this brute hit the half-conscious man in the face with his clenched fist, laying open his cheek and knocking him to the pavement, where he lay bleeding. This brutality was done in the presence of ladies and little children, who cried shame upon this shocking scene.

Reunion of Veterans at World's Fair.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I was in a group of civil war veterans a few days since, where both sides were represented, the Blue and the Gray, when the suggestion was made that the annual meeting of both organizations be held in St. Louis during the World's Fair in 1904. This suggestion met with unanimous consent and indorsement. The issues of the war were settled on the battlefield by the arbitrament of the sword, and the enmity has died out and with those who did the fighting long since forgotten. We are citizens of one country and one flag and all loyal to our government.

A reunion of the Blue and the Gray would be desirable in many respects. A grand street parade of the best soldiers in history would attract the attention of the civilized world. A collection and exhibition of the arms and munitions of war would be an educational feature, especially in comparison with modern weapons. The old soldiers themselves desire to visit the World's Fair, and this would be a good opportunity to meet their comrades of 40 years ago.

The World's Fair management and the public press of the country can do much to bring about this reunion of the Blue and the Gray. G. W. HARRIS.

UNDER THE HAWTHORN BOWER.

The tardy steps of the woodman homeward turn
Long ago the songbird wing'd home to its mate,
I anxiously wait, wondering why you do not come,
For the old village bells have just chimed eight

Down in the verdant meadow,
Love, I am waiting for you;
List'ning for sounds of your footsteps,
Sweetheart, I know you'll be true!
Faithful and true to your promise
To come when the clock chimes the hour,
Down in the verdant meadow,
Under the hawthorn bower.

Love, have you forgotten how you lingered with a kiss,
Ere we parted last night at the meadow gate?
Do you not remember whilst amid your joy and bliss
That you promised you would meet me at eight?

Down in the verdant meadow,
Love, I am waiting for you;
List'ning for sounds of your footsteps,
Sweetheart, I know you'll be true!
Faithful and true to your promise
To come when the clock chimes the hour,
Down in the verdant meadow,
Under the hawthorn bower.

O'Brien of Kansas City, an old pastor of the family, officiated, and was assisted by Rev. Martin B. Bird of Hope Church.

Miss Mable White was maid of honor and Mr. Theodore Briell best man. The church had been very prettily decorated for the occasion with palms and cut flowers. After the ceremony at the church there was a reception at the home of the bride, 1485 Arlington avenue. The young couple received a large number of valuable and beautiful presents.

The wedding of Miss Martha Boyd and Dr. Samuel Taylor Bassett was solemnized Wednesday evening at the Lafayette Park Methodist Episcopal Church. Miss Boyd was attended by Miss Anne Ittner as maid of honor; by Misses Elizabeth Hall, Marian Hall and Dorothy Hall. The bridegroom was served as best man by Dr. J. W. Hull of Kansas City, and Messrs. Bruce Cameron, Carl Minch, William Tate and Edgar Broomhall as groomsmen and ushers. The bride, a charming and attractive young girl, looked beautiful in her bridal robe of crepe de chine. She entered the church with her father, who gave her away.

The ceremony was followed by a small reception, to which only intimate friends and relatives had been invited.

The wedding of Miss Emily Peale and Mr. Arthur B. Brockman, both of the South Side, took place at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Lafayette Park Presbyterian Church. Only relatives and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weinert have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Ineta, to Nicholas Martin. The ceremony is to take place Oct. 22, at St. Agnes' Church, Sidney and Salena streets. Miss Weinert has chosen as her attendants Miss Isabel Myerson, maid of honor, and Misses Emma Milintz and Sylvia Albers bridesmaids.

Miss Corinne Shewell, one of this season's buds, will give a tea Friday afternoon for Miss Campbell of Webster Groves, in honor of her approaching nuptials and for Miss Edna Stramche of Lexington, Mo. Among young ladies invited are Misses Gregg, Stannard, La Prelle, Harrison, Kupferle, Riddle, Juliet Sharp, Salveter and the younger society set of Wbester.

Mrs. Theodore de Forest has as her guest Miss de Forest of Davenport, Io. They will be at home to their friends Monday at the residence of Mrs. C. H. Sawyer, 3846 Delmar boulevard.

Mrs. George Bruce Fuller of Detroit is visiting her sister, Mrs. Otto Edsal Rugg of 327 Whittier street.

Mrs. Ferdinand Weinert entertained the Martin-Weinert bridal party Friday evening at her beautiful home on Russell avenue.

Mrs. Jerome Hegnemburg of Purdue University has been visiting the family of his aunt, Mrs. Charles Hegnemburg.

Mrs. Bullock, 5333 Maple avenue, entertained the Fountain Park Busy Bee Charity Club Tuesday. Miss Brimfield of the Bethesda home was a guest.

The opening of the Columbia Club social season will be on Saturday, Oct. 25, when they will give a dancing party.

The Every Other Saturday will give their first party at Mahler's Saturday evening.

The Colonial Club has arranged to give it first dancing party of the season the evening of Nov. 14 at Mahler's.

The wedding of Miss Kutner and Prof. A. J. Epstein will take place Nov. 18 at Mahler's.

Miss Rosalind Mahler of 3545 Olive street departed Monday evening with her uncle for a two weeks' trip to New York and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Salisbury state that their daughter, Mercy, is not engaged to Mr. Benjamin Van Cleave, as was announced last Sunday.

MISS JULIA F. WILSON WEDS

Her Marriage to Francis J. Baker Surprise to Many Friends of Couple.

One of the quiet weddings this week, which came as a surprice to the many friends of the couple, was that yesterday morning of Miss Julia F. Wilson, 4389 Forest Park boulevard, and Francis J. Baker, 4318 West Belle place.

The ceremony took place in the early morning, with Rev. Father McGlynn officiating, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride is the daughter of Hunt P. Wilson and the groom a son of Col. John P. Baker, U. S. army. The young couple left at once for a brief trip East and will later reside in St. Louis.

Mr. Baker has only recently returned from an extended trip to the Philippines.

MRS. FRANCIS J. BAKER.

GOSSIP.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Nickel are at the Southern waiting the completion of their new home on Forty-third and Forest Park boulevard.

Mrs. George H. Boynton of Cedar Rapids, Io., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Alice Denning Willis, of 5218 Delmar boulevard.

Miss Bessie Squier has returned to her home in Clifton Heights after spending a delightful summer with friends in the Ozarks.

Mr. and Mrs. Golden of North St. Louis are entertaining their nephew, James P. Dailey, of San Francisco, whose marriage to Miss Josie O'Connell of Pacific, Mo., takes place Oct. 21 at Pacific, Mo.

Mrs. Marshall Lydik of Washington boulevard has as her guest Mrs. Bolling of Texas.

Mrs. Thomas Needham and son, Edgar, of 2905 Lafayette avenue have gone to Virginia, where they will spend two months with relatives.

Miss Sue Bearden, daughter of Judge Bearden, of Shelbyville, Tenn., who has been spending the summer with Mrs. W. G. Hager at her cottage on Lake Champlain, near Plattsburg, N. Y., returned with Mrs. Hagar last Friday and is now stopping at her home at 5598 Bartmer avenue, for a few weeks.

Mrs. George M. Hearne and family are at Hotel Berlin for a few days before going to Shreveport, La., where they will spend the winter.

Mrs. Charles Ross of Baltimore, Md., is visiting her parents, Lieutenant and Mrs. Ernst Zschokke.

Miss Katherine Weldon of Plymouth avenue has returned, having spent the last part of the summer in the North.

Mrs. John Paul Chew of Cook avenue has returned from a delightful visit of two months among relatives at Omaha.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Cragg gave a box party at the Century to her guests, Miss Vana Callahan, Miss Lou Rix and Misses Clara and Lou Degenheart.

One of the most enjoyable events of the past week was a birthday dinner given Tuesday by Mrs. Mary Johnston of 1018 North Leonard avenue, which was followed by a musicale in the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle of Buffalo, N. Y.; Dr. and Mrs. H. A. West of Cincinnati, Mrs. A. Langdon of Denver, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ernst, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Leon Leu, Miss Catherine Berling, Miss Josephine Berling, Miss Nathaline Wilson, Messrs. WEDNESDAY CLUB OFFICERS.

The Wednesday Club installed new officers yesterday and started the new year with a full membership for the first time since the club was organized. At yesterday's meeting the whole waiting list of 100, voted in since June, was present. Mrs. George Shields, the retiring president, introduced her successor, Mrs. A. H. Blaisdell, with a felicitous address. Other officers inducted into office were:

Mrs. E. C. Sterling, first vice-president; Mrs. Edward Taussig, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles L. Harris, third vice-president; Mrs. Nellie Richards, recording secretary; Mrs. Simeon Ray, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edwin A. de Wolf, treasurer; directors, Mrs. Julius Pitzman, Mrs. George H. Shields, Mrs. William Trelease, Mrs. W. W. Boyd and Miss Susan Beeson.

At the conclusion of the club meeting tea was served. Mmes. A. L. Shapleigh and E. W. Pattison presided at the tables.

MANY PUPILS' EYES DISEASED

Eighteen Per Cent, in New York Public Schools Have Trachoma, Which May Cause Blindness.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Commissioner Lederle of the health department told the board of estimate today that 18 per cent of the pupils attending the public schools were afflicted with trachoma, a contagious disease of the eyes. Dr. Lederle made this statement in telling why he wanted an appropriation of $21,800 for an additional staff of physicians to make regular examinations of the eyes of the school children.

At Mayor Low's request Dr. Lederle explained that the disease was more commonly known as granulation of the eyelids and that, in many cases, it resulted in blindness. Dr. Lederle is likely to get the appropriation.

Reconsignment Charge Adjusted.

As a result of the protest of the commission men against the reconsignment order, it was announced yesterday that the word "elevator" had been inserted in the original order issued by the state railroad and warehouse commission of Missouri.

At the regular meeting of the General Managers' Association, held yesterday, it was decided to place a regular switching or reconsigning charge on all commodities reconsigned within the switching limits of St. Louis, Mo., East St. Louis, Madison and Granite City, Ill., the minimum to be $2 a car.

This will put the reconsignment charge on the east side the same as on the west, and it is believed by the managers that this action will overcome yard congestion and the objections to the discriminating Missouri side charge.

When He Was Quiet.

From the Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Grimes: Didn't I see your husband with you the other day?

Mrs. Burns: Possibly. He might be with me for hours and I not notice it, he's so very quiet, don't you know.

Mrs. Grimes: Why, I have always found him a most interesting talker.

Mrs. Burns: I know, but you are not his wife.

OXNARD REBUKED BY SUGAR BEET VOTERS

REPUBLICANS OF THIS COUNTY INDORSE CUBAN RECIPROCITY.

HE PROTESTED VEHEMENTLY

Plank Also Indorsed President's Course and Demanded a Revision of the Tariff.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 16.—Henry T. Oxnard, the beet-sugar king has been rebuked in his own county, where his largest beet-sugar factory is located.

The affair, although proceeding from a county convention, is considered of a national significance, because it shows a decided change of front on the question of Cuban reciprocity in a district which is most directly affected by the legislation which President Roosevelt sought to put through during the last session of Congress.

The county convention was called last week by the Republicans to nominate a county ticket. The delegates, who are mainly farmers, were foremost in the fight at the last session against any tariff concessions to Cuba. They looked upon a reduction of the Cuban duties as injurious to one of the industries in which they are most deely interested. This is beet sugar production, Hall County being the largest producer of sugar beets in the state.

Henry T. Oxnard was present with a corps of lieutenants to aid him in securing the nomination of a favorable legislative ticket. He succeeded in this, and was about to leave the convention hall, when he paused to hear a speech of one of the delegates upon the platform to be adopted.

Then came the fireworks. The convention, against the most vehement protests of Oxnard and his assistants, adopted a platform not only declaring in favor of tariff revision, but presenting a strong indorsement of President Roosevelt's plea for reduction of the Cuban duties.

BENNY YANGER BEATS A PAIR

Defeated Tony Moran and Jimmy Ritter in One Night at Dubuque, Iowa.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Oct. 16.—Benny Yanger, aspirant for the featherweight championship, contracted to dispose of Tony Moran and Jimmy Ritter in 20 rounds for the pair and barely managed to accomplished his contract here last night.

Tony Moran went the full ten rounds with Yanger and made the latter extend himself to win. In the second bout, Yanger had a much easier time of it and Referee Siler stopped the bout, giving the Chicagoan the decision.

St. Louis Tommy Sullivan figured in one of the preliminary bouts. Sullivan's opponent was Kid Farmer of Chicago and the latter got the decision over the Mound City man after the affair had gone the limit of eight rounds.

John McVickers of Chicago knocked out Johnny Clark also of Chicago in the sixth round of what was to have been an eight-round bout.

Johnny Hogan of Chicago beat Charles Miller in eight rounds.

Tonight the feature event of the carnival will be the bout between Jack Beauscholte and Jack Root.

Kid Abel of Chicago and an unknown will meet in a preliminary.

ATTELL DEFEATS AURELIA HERERA

Mexican Went 15 Rounds at Oakland, but Suffered Much Punishment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 16—Abe Attell of San Francisco was given the decision over Aurelia Herera here last night after the pair had gone the limit of the fight, 15 rounds.

Attell's wonderful cleverness kept his Mexican opponent at safe distance all through the contest.

U. S. TROTTING RECORD BROKEN

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 16.—Onward Silver lowered the American trotting record for two miles here yesterday, covering the distance in 4:29. The former record which was beaten by the son of Onward, was 2:32, held by Greenlander and made in 1893.

The race was a paced affair, with Scott Hudson driving. The first mile was covered in 2:14 and his slowest quarter of the race was :34½.

CROAKS CHATS WITH THE GOOD DRESSER

Clothing Department.

The Three Buttoned.

With the passing of the warm weather the two buttoned double-breasted sack coat is numbered with the rounded, padded shoulder, the balloon trousers and other relics of back seasons and cannot be worn by the Good Dresser.

The colder weather naturally has a tendency to raise the coat front, so now the three-buttoned double-breasted is in vogue for this Fall and Winter.

Every suit I turn out will have the new Croak square shoulder made without padding, the new Croak collar, the trace-the-form-back, the straight front coat, the single-breasted vest, the straight cut trousers.

This three-buttoned double-breasted will be one of this season's most stylish and well-appearing garments.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Yesterday's football results in the East complicate the race for first honors there. The most notable showing was that of Harvard in the first half of its game with Wesleyan, when the crimson scored 35 points against the enemy in the 20 minutes of play.

Yale rolled up a big score against the same team when they met and the disparity in strength between the Cambridge and New Havens does not now appear so great as it seemed earlier in the season, when Harvard displayed disheartening weakness.

Perhaps the most noteworthy part of Harvard's performance was its showing in the second half of the game, when Wesleyan scored. In this half Harvard had an entire team of substitutes in the field, with the sole exception of Stillman. The crimson subs not only were scored on, but failed to make any impression on the Wesleyan eleven.

Even subs should do better than that and the inference may be drawn that Harvard is desirous of keeping dark her real strength.

Harvard will probably be forced to show her real hand next Saturday, when the eleven faces the Cadets at West Point. Last season this game was one of the hardest in the crimson schedule and accounts of West Point's strength this year indicate that it is able to make Harvard do its best.

Games of Other Big Colleges.

Princeton, Yale, Pennsylvania and Columbia all rolled up big scores against opponents, and all, with the possible exception of Pennsylvania, are entitled to consideration at championship factors. Columbia against Swartmore, rolled up a larger score than did either Princeton or Pennsylvania in their games with that eleven.

With Cornell, another strong competitor, the situation in the East is a matter of some uncertainty. Yale has made the best showing of all through the season, but the other teams are developing rapidly. Two more weeks of play may clear the situation.

Practice of the Washington University Team.

Washington's football aggregation went through its customary short-handed practice yesterday, not enough men being present to make up an extra eleven for scrimmage work. Tolson and Lehmann were absent among others. White's task is anything but a sinecure. To make a team from Washington material is about as easy as trying to get a kaleidoscope to show the same design 10 times running.

Each day sees a different set of men out for work and each day the coach is compelled to go over the instruction of the day before for the benefit of the newcomers.

Washington is eager to have a good football team. The team's management has raised considerable sum of money for the conduct of the schedule, has provided the team with a first-class coach, and given it all the accessories commonly supposed to be necessary to fitting an eleven for first-class work.

The efforts of the management, however, appear to have made a small impression on the appreciation of the players. Work does not make players at other institutions fail in their studies. Washington's men surely have no more cause to urge hard study as an excuse for nonappearance.

The T. D. Cannons and the St. Louis University third team played one of the hotest games of the season at Athletic Park, on Grand avenue, Wednesday afternoon. Several of the teachers and a number of the scholars of the Wayman Crow School, where nearly all of the Cannons are pupils, were present at the game. The result was a victory for the Cannons and it was a very creditable victory in view of the skill and heavy weight of their opponents. The score was 5 to 0, Hensgen of the Cannons scoring a touchdown. The T. D. Cannons want to hear from any and all teams in the 105-pound class. Address Jules Hensgen, 3420 Bell avenue.

The Cannons will play the Marquette team Thursday and the Sherman School team Saturday.

"Matty" Mathewson is a gridiron warrior now. He is playing with the Pittsburg eleven. Mathewson is full back for the aggregation and considered a great punter. In recent practice he repeatedly punted 65 yards.

SERIES OF MATCHES PLANNED

Middleweights and Light Heavyweights Will Battle at St. Louis Rowing Club.

Following next Sunday's 20-round battle between Australian Tim Murphy and Jim Driscoll at the St. Louis Rowing Club, the club's management announces that it will endeavor to put on a series of matches between light heavyweights or middleweights.

Al Weinig and Dick O'Brien are mentioned for the Sunday following Oct. 19, and other matches are being arranged.

Sunday's affair at the Rowing club will be at the middleweight limit. Cotton Billiter and Jack Winsby will box an eight-round preliminary to the event of the afternoon.

Bob Douglass will referee.

By PROF. HINKY DINK, Bowling Expert Extraordinary.

In bowling it is highly important that the pupil learn how to bowl without getting bowled up.

This is the first step.

Paradoxical as it may see, no bowler can "bowl 'em up" properly if he is all bowled up himself.

Therefore, while he may go in with all his might for the championship cup, which is always covered with foam, he should content himself with the cup merely, ignoring its contents. In fact, if he is real wise he will stipulate before the game commences that the cup be empty. Thus there will be no temptation to bowl up, and he can proceed with his bowling.

It is also well to have the keg rolled outside before commencing to play.

The correct position for the beginner is easy. The pupil should square himself off, fix his eye firmly upon the king pin—that is, figuratively speaking—at the same time picking up the ball and moving his arm steadily backward, keeping in mind the relative position of the ball to the king pin.

Then, after carefully calculating the distance and the effort required to land the ball—a mental operation familiar to all shuffleboard players—take a run of several feet, then three steps over the line, and slide half way down the allay, at the same time letting drive with the ball.

If you are anything of a Sandow, prepare to dodge the rebound, if the ball does not tear its way through the wall and smash the delivery wagon standing outside or break a couple of legs for some pedestrian.

Repeat these rushing tactics just as often as your opponent will permit, and if the pins hold out you are likely to win your first game.

When stars are visible to the naked eye and the boy who sets up the pins sets up a howl and is seen in a state of total eclipse, this is a sure sign that you have made a hit. Unless the boy's parents sue you for damages, you may say to yourself that you ar progressing. Otherwise you may have to go to jail.

You must also pay attention to the matter of facial expression, for there is an art about this, the same as about all other forms of recreation. There is "the bowling face," just as there is the "golf face," "the fighting face" and other faces developed by stressful circumstances.

Before you can be considered an expert bowler you must cultivate "the gutter face" and "the strike face," excellent likenesses of which are here provided by the observant cartoonist. It will pay you to study these before going further.

The beginner must also pay attention to the condition of his bowling arm, remembering that no bowler can be considered the real thing until his right arm is 18 inches longer than his left, compelling him to have all his sweaters, as well as all his other clothing, made to order.

Above all things, the beginner at bowling shold not fail to provide himself with a bottle of alcohol, witch hazel or some other liquid that affords relief for stiff joints. Otherwise, upon waking up "in the cold gray dawn of the morning after" he may find himself in such a position that he will have to summon a blacksmith to pry his sockets apart so that he can get out of bed.

My next lesson on bowling—in case anything shall happen to me after the foregoing instructions are put into practice—will be published the first day after I get out of the hospital.

HART WILL FIGHT KID CARTER TONIGHT

Louisville and Brooklyn Boxers to Clash in Six-Round Bout.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 16.—Marvin Hart of this city and "Kid" Carter of Brooklyn meet in a six-round fistic argument in Philadelphia tonight, and the result of the clash will be awaited with interest by Hart's Louisville admirers as well as pugilistic followers all over the country.

The fact that Hart recently knocked out Carter in nine rounds in this city, while a splendid performance, is not calculated to make Hart favorite over Carter, as the Auditorium bout was so even that it was a case of take your pick up to the time the decisive punch was landed. Carter will be fighting near his home and among friends, while Hart will labor in pastures new. In this way the Brooklynite will probably be the favorite in the betting.

◆ ◆ ◆

PUGILISTIC GOSSIP.

◆ ◆ ◆

Marvin Hart has contracted to meet other men in the East during his trip—Jack O'Brien and Kid McCoy. Carter, whom he meets first, appears the least dangerous of these, as the Louisville fighter has whipped him once. McCoy and O'Brien are really dangerous factors, however. If Hart whips them all, he will be at the end of his string as far as first-class opponents are concerned, there being no others of note in his department.

Jack O'Brien is doing some rather rapid figuring as regards the middleweight championship. According to the shifty Quaker's calculations, Tommy Ryan has already forfeited his title, and the laurels are resting gracefully on O'Brien's marble brow. O'Brien recently gave utterance to the following:

"I don't want to accept the title without a contest, and I am ready and willing to meet him, but after having challenged him repeatedly without getting him to sign articles I am still hoping that he will see his way clear to give me the chance I so much desire. In the face of all my challenges, his claim to the championship is at least a doubtful one."

O'Brien need not worry himself about the title. It will not be forced on him. In fact, no one will ever accuse him of being champion until the referee has announced that the Quaker has had the better of an argument with Ryan in a 20-foot ring. Therefore, Mr. O'Brien may blushingly accept the congratulations of his friends.

If a championship changed hands every time the holder of a title failed to accept a challenge, the honors would flop back and forth with great rapidity.

Mr. O'Brien is too fast, much too fast.

Win or lose in Milwaukee on Friday, when he goes against Art Simms of Akron, O., Otto Sieloff will meet Frank Erne at Detroit Oct. 28, and the battle promises to be one of the greatest at the weight this season. Sieloff is the legitimate opponent for Erne, having defeated Duffy and won the right to fight in the front rank for whatever honors are going. Duffy will come to Milwaukee Friday with Sieloff.

WEST END AFFAIRS.

[illegible] in front of the West End [illegible] have been trying to put [illegible] tween Eddy Lenny and Young Mowatt.

Lenny is the lad who went through six hard rounds with Young Corbett and then danced for joy because he had not been knocked out. He is the same whose manager, on his behalf, challenged Terry McGovern to a bout for the featherweight championship of the world at 122 pounds.

Lenny is a clever fighter. Young Mowatt, "the fighting conductor," is the opposite type. He is rough and a match between the pair at 20 rounds would show up Lenny as to whether he really has the backbone he is said by some to be wanting.

Lenny has several good fights to his credit, however, and if Haughton gets the attraction for next Thursday night, it should prove a good card.

The new Kansas ballot law is wonderfully and fearfully constructed. It provides so many ways by which the voter can be misled it is certain that thousands of ballots will be found defective and have to be rejected. This is given as the simplest guide to the voter:

"If you want to vote a straight ticket put a cross in the circle and then refrain from making any other mark of any kind on the ballot. If you wish to vote a mixed ticket, or even to refrain from voting for a single name on your party ballot, keep out of the circle altogether and mark the squares opposite the names that you wish to vote for, as was done under the old ballot law."

FAMOUS REFEREE ADJUDGED INSANE

"Billy" Tate, Well-Known Sporting Man, Committed to an Asylum.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 16.—"Billy" Tate, a few years ago one of the best known sporting men of the country, was yesterday committed to the state insane asylum, apparently hopelessly demented.

Of late years Tate (whose full name is William C. Tate) has lived quietly at home with his wife, but it was not long ago that his name was known the country over, as he was a recognized authority on sporting matters, especially boxing. He was while in his prime an athlete himself and a boxer of reputation. For a long time he was an express messenger on the Wabash and later kept a restaurant and a gymnasium in this city.

He also traveled over the country refereeing matches and pulling off bouts. He was referee in many famous fights, one of which was the John L. Sullivan-Dominick McCaffrey fight at Cincinnati Aug. 29, 1885. Tate rendered his decision in favor of Sullivan two days later, at Bolan's saloon in this city, the fight having broken up in a row, Tate escaping by a rear door.

For a number of years he has lived at home very quietly for he has not been himself. He did not even recognize his old friend, Judge Millard, yesterday when he was brought into probate court to be examined. The judge spoke very highly of "Billy" and said he had always stood for clean sport and made a most enviable reputation for himself, not only in Toledo but throughout the country.

Dr. McVety examined him and found he was insane through gradual degeneration and is now suffering with hallucinations. He has violent spells at times also. He is 63 years old and the first evidence of his insanity was noticed two years ago. Sheriff Newton and Deputy Joe Dumar found him at his residence and brought him to the court house in a closed cab, and he was almost immediately taken to the asylum.

BASKET BALL HAS COME TO STAY

St. Louis League and College Teams Contemplate Many Games This Winter.

Basket-ball has apparently come to stay as a local winter sport. Plans of the St. Louis League and college teams contemplate not only a local league, but match games with any out-of-towns organizations which can be induced to accept challenges.

So far but one date with outside college teams has been arranged—that between a five from the St. Louis Amateur Basket-Ball League and one representing the Haskell Indians.

The Lawrence, Kan., team will be here with the football eleven from the same institution, which meets Washington Thanksgiving afternoon. The arrangement of this match was announced last night at the meeting held by the basketball league members.

The secretary of the organization also announced that the organization would this season be composed of six teams; Triple A.'s, Monarchs, Drummond Guards, High School Alumni, South Sides and Washington University.

The following officers were elected for the coming seeason: Will Ehrhardt, president; Al Schaeffering, vice-president; Harold Baker, secreary, and H. A. Vorhers, treasurer. All games of the league will be played at Louisiana Hall.

Next Sunday a practice game will be played by the Monarchs and the Triple A.'s on the latter's practice court at Forest Park. A meeting will be held next Tuesday at Company D's quarters in the armory to approve a schedule for the season's matches.

WEST PITTED AGAINST EAST

Turfmen Trying to Arrange Match Race Between McChesney and Hermis.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—In order to decide whether the championship of the American turf for 3-year-olds shall go to the East or the West, the management of the Worth Jockey Club last night offered to hang up a $5000 purse for a match race between McChesney, representing the West, and Hermiss, the pride of the East.

In order to secure the consent of the eastern owners to enter their horses in the event, the owners of McChesney, Durnell and Herz, have offered to pay all expenses incurred in bringing the eastern crack to Chicago for the proposed race.

The match, if arranged, will be run on Worth track. No response to the proposition has been received from L. V. Bell owner of Hermis.

DIVORCE PARTY IS LATEST FAD

FREAKISH ITEMS OF NEWS

NEWEST SOCIAL FUNCTION IN ARISTOCRATIC BALTIMORE.

Pancakes for Breakfast for 25 Years—Washboard Made of Gold—A Patented Grave.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 16.—A "divorce party" is the newest social function, and one was held the other night at Lloyd Hall, on Towson street, Locust Point, with Mrs. Marie W. Vitt as the hostess. It was an occasion of great jubilation, and all Locust Point took the keenest interest therein.

As Mrs. Vitt says, the "divorce party" was one of the happiest events of her life, and the congratulations of her friends upon her freedom were so sweet that she intends never to shatter the pleasing memory of her "divorce party' by an assumption of marriage bonds, which, in her case, proved galling and irksome. Mrs. Vitt, with her five children by a former marriage, lives at 1103 Cooksie street, and is a vivacious woman of middle age. Her union with Mr. Vitt lasted not quite two and a half years. She applied for an absolute divorce in one of the city courts on July 12 last, and the marital bond was severed by judicial degree a month later. She said last night:

"My divorce party came about in this way: I had told many of my friends that I would give them an entertainment when I got my divorce, and after it was granted they came to me and reminded me of what I had said. Being a woman of my word of course I had to keep it."

"Did your ex-husband participate in the festivities?"

"No, indeed. I would have liked to see him come around. He knows I'm through with him. I was glad everything passed off pleasantly. You don't think there was anything wrong about such a celebration, do you?"

25 YEARS OF PANCAKES.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—"Will you serve pancakes for breakfast?"

This was the question put to Clerk L. McHenry of the Victoria Hotel today by an old man who registered as W. B. Wilson of Rolling Prairie, Ind.

"We've had pancakes for breakfast every day for 25 years," continued Mr. Wilson, "and my wife and I will not stay here unless we can have them."

They were assured that they could have all the pancakes they wanted for breakfast, and registered and took a room. According to figures made by the clerk the Wilsons have eaten 9125 pancakes during each year if as they said, they had eaten 25 each day. In the 25 years the number reached 228,125.

A PATENTED GRAVE.

VIENNA, Oct. 16.—Count Karnic-Karnici, a chamberlain to the Czar of Russia, has invented a hermetically sealed iron box which is placed upon a grave. A hollow, removable tube connects it with the coffin below. Inside the tube is a spring. One end of the spring is connected with the iron box. At the other end within the coffin is affixed a glass ball which touches the chest of the buried body. The faintest movement of the ball, such as breathing, causes the spring to vibrate. Then the lid of the iron box opens and a flag is lifted out of it four feet above the ground. At the same time an alarm bell rings from the box and an electric lamp shines out of it. When the box lid rises the tube admits to the coffine sufficient air to sustain life, and the light from the electric lamp shines through it. The tube also serves to convey the voice in speaking.

WASHBOARD OF GOLD.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 16.—A golden washboard, with a golden bar of soap, is in possession of Mrs. L. J. Horn, who, with her husband, arrived from Skagway on the last voyage of the Humboldt, en route to southern California. Mrs. Horn is wealthy now, but there was a time, and not so very long ago, when gold was a stranger to her purse. Now that it is all over she laughs at her hardships.

In 1896 she went to Skagway, and, by washing clothes, earned enough money to grubstake her husband, who went to the Klondike in the rush of that year. She followed him later to a claim on the Bonanza, which made them rich after it had been developed. She had a washboard made of their gold as a symbol of her struggles to help her husband. They have bought an orange grove at Colton Terrace, near San Bernardino.

LEARNS WAR IS OVER.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENWOOD, W. Va., Oct. 16.—The familiar expression, "don't know the war is over," was exemplified today by William Wiley, of the backwoods of Wetzel County, who took his first ride on the "cars" and came up here to visit relatives. He had not been away from his habitation on the headwaters of Fishing Creek since Lee's army surrendered, and still thought the "Yanks" and "Johnnies" were firing away as he sang to a delighted street crowd the song "Secession Rebels," with a spirit that recalled the days of '61.

Before returning to his mountain abode Mr. Wiley will be shown the sights of the city, although he has served notice on all that he refuses to ride on "them there keers that hainst got no engine or no hosses to pull them."

DOG ENDS HIS DAYS.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 16.—Driven to desperation by ill-health, Jess, a fox terrier, owned by William Gardner of Jersey City, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas.

Jess had been ill for several days. His appetite was gone, and he was constantly whining. Mrs. Gardner left the kitchen for a few moments yesterday, and when she returned she found the gas stove upset and the tube connecting it with the gas jet detached from the stove. With nose close to the loose end of the tube lay Jess dead.

Gardner is sure it was a case of suicide, as he says the dog would certainly have raised an alarm by barking if it had not wanted to die. The official police report made it a suicide.

FUNERAL OF MRS. EVA HAMM.

Services Will Be Held at Home of Her Son-in-Law This Afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Eva Hamm will be held from the residence of her son-in-law, License Collector P. J. Clifford, 6165 Washington boulevard, this afternoon.

Mrs. Hamm, who was in her seventy-third year, died Tuesday night, after being confined to her bed for only a few hours. She had suffered for several years from the infirmities of old age, but had no direct illness. She was the widow of the late John Jacob Hamm, a wealthy brewer of this city.

Mrs. Clifford, her daughter, and her son, Louis E. Hamm, survive her.

Republicans Held Rally.

The Republicans of South St. Louis held a rally in the Turner hall Wednesday night and the auditorium was crowded. The stage was decorated in the national colors and an American flag draped the speakers' table. Vollrath's band rendered music. Judge Gustave A. Finkelnburg presided. Congressman Bartholdt, the first speaker, was presented with a beautiful floral gift by the letter carriers of St. Louis. Congressman Bartholdt denounced the Nesbit law and predicted a great Republican victory in St. Louis this fall. Other speakers were Judges Zachritz, Talty, Eugene McQuillin, Harry Clover, Archibald Carr, Fred H. Greer, Dr. E. O. Green and Judge W. W. Henderson.

ARRANGING A BROOM COMBINE.

Purpose Is Said to Be to Develop Export Trade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Manufacturers of brooms are preparing to form a combination of the trade in this country. They have been asked to assemble early next month in this city to decide on the details of the organization. It is stated by those interested in the proposed company that capital amounting to about $5,000,000 will be engaged. Options on a number of plants already have been secured. The motive of the consolidation is declared to be the development of export trade to Europe and South America.

BOERS' EYES ARE ON MEXICO.

Commandant Snyman May Secure Land for Colony There.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 16.—Commandant J. Snyman, a noted Boer fighter, is here en route to Mexico City, to confer with President Diaz relative to a large tract of land in the southern republic to be colonized by Boer refugees. He was accompanied by E. Reeve Merritt, secretary of the Union Trust Co. of New York, and Marshall Bond of the same city. Gen Snyman said he was going to Mexico at the suggestion of Dr. Muller, envoy of the Orange Free State, who visited Mexico about five months ago.

PAULIST FATHERS' MISSION.

Two Weeks Meeting to Be Heeld, Beginning Next Sunday.

Commencing Sunday, Oct. 19, a two weeks mission, first for men, second for women, will be held at St. Michael's Church, Eleventh and Clinton streets, by the Paulist Fathers. These fathers are eloquent expounders of the tenets of the Catholic faith, and the public, particularly non-Catholics, are invited to attend the services.

COUNTRY GIRL SAVED T

Swam Creek on Horseback to Flag Upon Discovering Great Log on Track.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 16.—A country girl at Minnie, a station between here and New Martinsville, on the Short Line, saved a passenger train today from being wrecked.

She discovered a large log on the track that had rolled down a bank, and, hurriedly procuring a horse, jumped on its back, swam a creek and flagged the train just in time to save it. The girl's name is Minnie Martin, daughter of a farmer of that section. It is said that she will be liberally rewarded.

Read What Mrs. Roberts Says and Go to an Oculist.

To Oliver Abel, Jefferson City, Mo.
Optician and Expert Frame Fitter:

Dear Sir—I wish to express my sincere thanks for the honest way you treated me when in St. Louis about getting my glasses. I had my eyes tested free by all the opticians and so-called doctors in your city for the past five years. I thought I would give you a trial, but you REFUSED TO TEST THEM AND SENT ME TO A WELL-KNOWN OCULIST to have it done. The glasses and frame fit me perfectly. They are the only ones that ever did. If people would only take your advice and consult a GOOD oculist, they would save their eyes and money too. Sincerely Yours,

MRS. S. I. ROBERTS.

GIRL DISAPPEARS.

Had Been Worried Because Father and Mother Had Separated.

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 16.—Miss Leila Coalwell, a beautiful and accomplished society girl of 21, is at present missing and her father, a well-known citizen, engaged in the piano business, is almost distracted. The police have tried to trace the girl, but without success.

Before leaving she drew $900 which she had in a local bank. She also wore three valuable diamond rings. Mr. Coalwell and his wife have been separated for about seven years, and the girl is said to have felt this very keenly. She lived with her mother, but her father always provided lavishly for his daughter, who is a skillful musician.

On Sunday, Sept. 28, Miss Coalwell left home, saying she intended to visit friends in Cincinnati. Her father received a letter toward the end of the week saying she was going West as companion to a wealthy woman, but gave no address. It is learned that she called on her Cincinnati friends, but did not remain with them.

Bees Did Trick.

From Pearson's Weekly.

At an inn near Magdeburg the landlord was unable to persuade his customers to leave the place at closing time. Going out of the place he said:

"Good; remain sitting as long as you like."

In a few minutes he returned with a beehive and shook out all the bees in the bar parlor. The place was quickly cleared.

No true woman's heart is happy which does not ring with the echo of childish laughter, which fails to thrill at the touch of a soft dimpled hand which is flesh of her flesh.

To those who crave motherhood, and through terror at the thought of so much suffering, deprive themselves of it, we say "Be of good cheer—help is here." MOTHER'S FRIEND has made child bearing easy for thousands of women in the last forty years, and receives their hearty endorsement, not only on account of its efficacy but also because it is a pleasant balm for external application only, and not a bitter dose of drugs to be swallowed. By its use you may escape morning sickness, swelling breasts and many of the usual discomforts of pregnancy. MOTHER'S FRIEND eases the nerves, relaxes the muscles, and softens the abdominal tissues, so that they give with the pressure from the expanding organ.

All druggists keep it. It costs $1.00 per bottle.

"IN SUNNY ITALY."

This Brings to Mind Leisure, Songs, Laughter and Blue Sky.
Every Purchaser of Next

SUNDAY'S POST-DISPATCH

Will receive free a copy of an exquisite painting entitled "In Sunny Italy." The following cut is but a mere suggestion of this beautiful art gem.

"IN SUNNY ITALY."

Four fair maids of sunny Italy are seated in an open court discussing some coming social event. One is seated on a chair, while a companion is combing her long flaxen hair. A beautiful brunette is facing them, telling them some interesting bit of news. In the background a child and another young woman are seated at a table. The young woman is busy making fancy trinkets, and the child is intently watching her.

The picture is rich in colors, as all Italian subjects are. This picture will make a beautiful ornament for the home when framed.

RESISTED COURT OFFICERS

Henry Lorenzen Fined for Trying to Release His Father, Arrested for Disobeying Summons.

Neal Lorenzen, a coal dealer at 313 Walnut street, unsuccessfully resisted an order of a police judge to appear in court and his son, Henry, is the only man thus far who has physically attempted to restrain the deputy marshals from doing their duty. The son was fined $10 this morning by Judge Sidener for resisting and interfering with an officer.

Neal Lorenzen was charged with obstructing an alley Oct. 9. He failed to appear in court and was fined by default. Two days ago Deputy Marshal Joseph Scheer went to tell him he must appear before the court and received a volley of abuse in exchange for the information. Lorenzen said he would not obey the mandate of any court that ever existed, and this was reported to Judge Sidener, who ordered that he be brought in by any and all means.

Yesterday noon Deputy Marshals Scheer and Ed Ratchford went after Lorenzen and found him unloading a wagon of coal at Second and Walnut streets. He whipped up his horses and fled up the street. Scheer and Ratchford followed, joined by Officer Joplin. They looked about Lornezen's apartments and could find him nowhere. Then they searched the stable, which was pitch dark.

Scheer thought he detected the sound of breathing. Striking matches, they discovered Lorenzen huddled under a manger hidden in the fodder. He was pulled out and forced to accompany the officers to the sidewalk, where his son, Henry, who is about 20 years old, attempted a rescue by trying to drag his father from Scheer's clutch and striking at the deputy.

Both men were taken to the First District Police Court rooom, where the elder Lorenzen was released on payment of his fine, with a severe reprimand by Judge Sidener, and the young man was held over until this morning, when he was fined $0.

HOLDINGS HAVE INCREASED $53,766,522 SINCE JAN. 1.

RUSSIA HOLDS THE RECORD

Had Four Million Dollars More Than Uncle Sam When It Was Changing Fiscal System.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The amount of gold held by the treasury today reached a total of $594,564,125, or within $4,000,000 of the greatest amount ever held by one government, by Russia in 1896, when she was making a change in her fiscal policy.

The increase since Jan. 1 has aggregated $53,766,522, but there was a corresponding gain of $48,226,000 in the volume of gold certificates issued. In the same period silver certificates increased $10,000,000, treasury certificates decreased $12,000,000, and deposits of public funds in national banks increased $28,043,651.

Applications by national banks to substitute state and municipal bonds for government bonds deposited against public funds have reached a total of $10,000,000, of which $4,100,000 have already been exchanged. The disbursements of anticipated interests today amounted to $10,443, making the total to date $3,082,703.

The Manor National Bank of Manor, Pa., was today authorized by the comptroller of the treasury to begin business with a capital of $25,000.

MITCHELL'S ORDERLY MIND

President Roosevelt Much Impressed by the High Intellect of the Labor Leader.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—John Mitchell has made a lasting impression on President Roosevelt. The strike leader has shown himself to be cool, keen and the possessor of what Mr. Roosevelt is pleased to call "a remarkably well-ordered mind." Mitchell, the President says, sees into things with the trained intellect of a logician.

In the conference yesterday at the White House Mitchell at the start assured the President that his deliberation did not mean any lack of sympathy with the efforts to end the strike. The President assured him that he appreciated his desire to get all the facts before he came to any conclusion, and he felt that the best thing to do was to sit down and talk things over man to man.

"The last time you were here each man stood up and read an essay like a boy at the last day of school," remarked the President after Mr. Mitchell had explained why he wanted a talk with him, "and yet the vital thing of that meeting was when you arose and extemporaneously offered to leave the entire dispute to an arbitration commission to be appointed by the President of the United States. That was of more account than all the typewritten statements put together. The two hours' informal talk which I had with Mr. Morgan gave me a better insight into the position of the capitalists than all the other time I have put in on the question."

"We object to two things," said Mr. Mitchell. "In the first place, when I met the representatives of the coal operators at the White House in the last conference they presented statements signed as presidents of coal-carrying railroads, one signature being by a large individual operator. Now, these same men, with the exception of Mr. Markle, send to me through you a statement signed as presidents of coal-owning corporations. They are entirely different institutions. The individual operators are also left out."

"The fact that this has been done had escaped my attention," replied the President.

"It may make little or no difference, but I must consider it," said Mr. Mitchell. "In the next place we naturally do not like to submit to a board of arbitration when the other party to the dispute attempts to dictate the membership of that board. I was entirely willing to leave the selection of that commission to you. I would be remiss in my duty to the United Mine Workers if I did not inquire into a board which is partly arranged for by the men we have been fighting.

"This struggle has lasted six months. It has cost the miners' union and its friends throughout the United States a great deal of money. It has been as serious to the general public as a real war. Naturally at the moment of victory we do not care to submit to terms which we do not understand."

The President assured Mr. Mitchell that he thought there was no trap in the fact that the capitalists had signed the first time as railroad men and the second time as owners. He said that if, through the arbitration commission, the miners did not get their deserts he (the President) would be held responsible and that he was as anxious to have everything straight and above board as Mr. Mitchell.

POST-DISPATCH DAILY RECORD OF FINANCIAL AND MARKET DOINGS

STRONGER TONE IN LOCAL SECURITIES

NEW YORK'S RALLY REFLECTED ON ST. LOUIS EXCHANGE.

COLONIAL ALONE WAS WEAK

Some Bank and Trust Stocks Were Raised $3 Per Share—American Central and Germania Were Features.

The strong tone in the St. Louis stock market Thursday was a reflection from that on the New York bourse. The features were the advances made by Mississippi Valley Trust, National Bank of Commerce, and Mechanics' Bank, each advancing over $3 per share from last sales.

American Central Trust and Germania showed much strength, 171 being bid for the former at the close and 221 for the latter issue.

All locals were in demand at the highest quotations of the week and it only takes easier money to further strengthen the market.

There was little activity in tractions. Transit sold at 29⅜, the preferred at 82 and bonds at 85⅛@85¼.

Granite showed some strength on limited buying, mounting to $1.55 on sales of 500 shares. Lincoln Trust registered an advance of $2 per share, but on liberal offerings lost all its gain, the last sales being made at Wednesday's high price, $255. The initial sales in this stock were made at $257. Colonial Trust was the only exception in a bull market, selling at the lowest record for some months.

A Voracious Spider.

It is a curious study to watch the little white, brown-specked spiders which hover among plants seeking what they may devour. It seems almost incredible that they will conquer and carry off to their dens insects twice their size, but this is just what they do, capturing flies of the largest kind. They will hide under the petals of the flowers, and when Mr. Fly comes buzzing along will spring out at him, and the next thing he knows he is being dragged off to be served up at a spider luncheon. They grip the fly by the neck, if he has a neck, and dart down the leaves, skip to the grass, and away, sometimes taking flying leaps of a foot and a half, then disappearing, no one knows where. It's the old story of the spider and the fly, only the spider doesn't stop to coax, but boldly carries off his booty without saying "By your leave."

Two Early Birds.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

An English nobleman in ill health was out one morning early, wearily taking a constitutional. Walking along his game preserves he turned a sharp corner and came face to face with an Irishman who had the reputation of being an inveterate poacher.

Putting his hands and what they held behind him, he preserved a perfectly virtuous aspect, while the gentleman hailed him cordially with "Good morning, Pat!"

"Good mornin,' yer haner, an' phwat brings yer haner out so airly this mornin'?"

"I'm just walking around, Pat, to see if I can't get an appetite for my breakfast. And what brings you out so early, Pat?"

"Och, be jabbers, Oi'm jest a-walkin' around to see if Oi can't get a breakfast for me appetite."

Imagine This in Denver.

From the Philadelphia Telegraph.

A Roxborough shopkeeper has complained to the water department that the goldfish in his show window have died since that section of the city has been supplied with filtered water and he jumped to the conclusion that the fish had been poisoned by the clear fluid. In truth, they had simply starved to death, since the water had been so effectually purged from impurities that it was practically sterile. As the purified water gradually finds its way into different sections of the city the aquarium pets must be fed or they will perish. This is a less serious matter than letting the people themselves perish from using water filled with death-dealing germs.

BULLS CONTINUE IN CONTROL

AFTER A SOFT OPENING THE GRAIN MARKETS ADVANCE.

THE CLOSE WAS FIRM

Usual Market Influences Do Not Influence—Speculation Banking on Higher Prices.

Grain.

After a soft spot during the opening hour, which caused some of the smaller fry, who had gone long on the advance, to part with their holdings, the big bulls stepped in and took the helm. After that everything else was off except rising markets. In Chicago corn was featured as the star attraction and between judicious manipulation and scared shorts December passed the 50-cent limit, closing tight as a drum. All other grains were hitting the high places also and they wound up mighty near the top. It appears to be a case of how high the people who control the speculative situation will put prices on the unfortunates who are short on speculative grounds or against cash holdings. And almost any day a shake-out of the "tailers" may be seen.

WHEAT—The speculative pressure this morning was on the opposite side of the market from that of yesterday. Then nearly all the desire appeared to be to buy. Today at the opening the greatest effort appeared to be to sell. Yet the cables gave a better response by Liverpool to an American advance than had been seen in some time, that market having advanced ⅜@½d, and Paris was all the way from ¼c to 1½c higher. But Chicago, which has been the whole thing as a dictator of the market for some time past, did not show strong enough bullish tendencies, and that caused a number of longs to get out. A considerable increase in the public stock of contract grade here probably had some effect, also outside the stronger cables there was nothing really bullish in sight. Fine weather for seeding, the Cincinnati Price Current reporting the early-sown wheat fine and liberal receipts continued. The postings for St. Louis were 87,000 bu, against 45,500 bu one year ago, and for the Northwest 853 cars, against 623 last year.

December opened at 70⅝, where it closed yesterday, and sold off to 70@70⅛c, May selling at 71⅛c to 71⅝c and was offered at 71½@71⅝c.

There was no large selling at any time, the best by Hubbard Moffitt, which credited to elevator account, and the small longs said to be the only sellers otherwise, but during the decline the buying light, the late conspicuous purchasers holding off. But a pretty stiff reaction in Chicago, where Armour and Patten reported large buyers, the latter covering shorts, at once jacked the St. Louis market up, quite an advance taking place.

December sold off to 69⅞, up to 70½c, and before noon was back to 70¼c. May sold at 71½c to 72c off to 71⅞c.

Closing cables reported advances for the day of ⅛@½d at Liverpool, ¼@1¼c at Paris and ⅝c at Antwerp. Primary receipts were 1,241,000 bu, against 1,052,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 479,00 bu, against 557,000 bu last year. Clearances of flour and wheat were 407000 bu for the day and 3,869,000 bu for week, latter against 2,266,000 bu last week and 3,917,000 bu for corresponding week last year.

It was a get-in-and-buy-it market during the balance of the session. Nothing figured except the belief that much higher prices were certain and no one cared whether foreign and domestic demands were nil or big. They certainly were far from being latter. No export sales were heard of. It was also notable that Minneapolis, which has been a strong market, did not respond well, closing only ⅛@¼c better for the day. The close at St. Louis was firm, with buyers of December ⅜@½c above yesterday's asking rate.

December sold at 70¼@70⅞c, closing at 70⅝@70⅞c bid; May at 71⅞@72c to 72¼c and latter asked.

Cash market—Received 1483 sacks and 82 cars local and 11 cars through. Stronger for the best qualities of soft winter, the No. 3 and No. 2 red being wanted by the elevators. Demand otherwise, both for milling and shipment, limited and the low grades as dull as ever. For shipment 35,000 bu No. 3 red sold from private stock, but nothing from public houses. No. 2 red held there at 1c over and No. 3 red at December price loaded. By sample delivered—No. 2 red at 70½@71c west and 71@71½c east side; No. 3 red at 69c for thin, 69¼@69½c for good, 69¾@70c for choice, both west and east side; No. 4 at 64c to 67½c for poor to choice. Sacked in elevator—No. 2 red at 70⅝c; No. 3 red at 67⅝c; No. 4 at 64⅝c. Hard winter dull, as no demand save from elevators. No. 2 at 70c and Turkey worth 72c; No. 3 at 64c to 67c. No. 4 quotable at 60@63c. No. 3 mixed at 64c for poor.

CORN—An extremely bullish state report on the Iowa weather and crop conditions for September was on file Thursday morning, but did not excite bullish enthusiasm and buying. In fact, as was the case with wheat, there was apparent more desire to sell than buy, and that because the Chicago market did not display the bullish characteristics it had for some time previously. The weather continued simply superb for maturing the crop, as the Cincinnati Price Current also stated. Receipts kept very small, 11,700 bu arriving, against 25,600 bu one year ago, and Liverpool had advanced ⅜d.

December opened ½c lower at 40⅛c and sold down to 40¼c. May was offered at 39⅛c and unsold.

The principal selling it was said continued to be for Cleage, the offerings otherwise small, but no further decline in price took place and when wheat began to climb upward again corn at once tied on. December sold up to 40⅝c and May at 39⅝c to 39¾c.

Primary receipts were 280,000 bu, against 262,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 248,000 bu, against 594,000 bu last year. Clearances only 6400 bu.

The buying was first rate, a large line of December being bought by Chris Martin for Kansas City account, and though freely met only on an advancing scale of prices. The close was ⅝c higher for the day, December not selling above 4c, at which it closed, though at one time 41⅛c bid. May dragged behind, not selling above 39⅝c and at close offered at 39⅝@¾c, which was ⅜@½c above close of day before.

Cash market—Received 12 cars local and 1 car through. Firmer. Current offerings small and so was the demand. A lot of No. 2 sold from elevator at 57¼c loaded west side, this for shipment. By sample delivered—No. 2 at 58@58¼c, and No. 3 at 58c east side; No. 2 yellow at 59c west side; No. 3 yellow at 58c east side; No. 3 white at 62c west side. No. 2 white quotable at 62c.

OATS—The easier markets for corn and wheat weakened oats and December sold at 28¾@29c, and May at 29⅛c, with latter then offered at 29⅝@¾c. Receipts were 33,100 bu, against 30,600 bu one year ago.

May sold as low as 29⅜c, but market firmer later and 29c bid then for December. Primary receipts were 274,000 bu, against 335,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 165,000 bu, against 234,000 bu last year. Clearances, 12,000 bu.

The only trading subsequently was in December at 29⅛c and for May 29⅝c bid. The cash market was strong and higher, but it was corn that was the principal factor.

Cash market—Received 200 sacks and 43 cars local and 3 cars through. Higher and stronger. Buying good on local and shipping account and offerings well taken. Some sales made to go to elevator. By sample delivered—No. 2 at 31¼c; No. 3 at 30¼@30½c and choice 31@31¼c; No. 4 at 29½@30c; no grade rust proof at 31c; No. 3 white at 33¼@34½c; No. 4 white at 30@32¼c.

Trade Topics.

Director Sage of the Iowa Weather Bureau makes the following report on last month's weather and crop conditions: The month of September was a fitting close of the most unfavorable crop season in Iowa since 18[illegible]. Daily average temperature for month was 5.2 degrees below normal, and average rainfall was 1.36 inches above normal, with a large percentage of cloudiness. Field work was much retarded by saturated condition of soil, and corn and other unripened crops made very slow progress toward maturity. Reports indicate that the amount of soft corn, that will possess but little value, except for immediate feeding, will be much greater than usual, ranging from 25 per cent in southern section to above 60 per cent in northern section. In bulk all field crops have been much above average, but quality has been much impaired and a very large percentage of small grain was practically destroyed.

The week's export of flour and wheat from American ports promises to be unusually large, probably reaching 6,000,000 bu again. If Russia and Roumania keep up their shipments at same rate as for some time past, the total world's shipments for this week will be about 12,000,000 bu.

The Cincinnati Price Current says: It has been a favorable week for wheat seeding and corn curing. Early sown wheat is fine. Hog packing for week, 305,000 head, against 390,000 last year.

Private Liverpool cable reports corn stocks practically exhausted and market strong and higher.

Beerbohm cables that the official Italian wheat crop report shows 24,800,000 bu less than last year. The yield for 1901 was 125,600,000 bu.

An increase in past 24 hours of over 70,000 bu in the public stock of contract wheat in St. Louis elevators indicates the December shorts are getting ready to make some deliveries when that month arrives.

Broomhall on the Liverpool market: A firm undertone with better outside bidding characterized the wheat market this morning, the opening prices ⅜d to ½d higher. During early session the tone continued very steady and no change occurred in quotations. Shorts covering on the small American receipts and poor grading, together with a good spot demand here, caused a steady opening in corn at advances of ⅜d. Later the nearby option gained ½d further, but this was lost later.

Advices from southern Illinois are that farmers' deliveries of wheat are increasing at many stations. Where they had been bringing in 200 to 300 bushels, receipts have run as high as 1300 bushels. This indicates these farmers are through seeding.

Kansas City wired: Only 20 cars corn today; much less than expected. All commission houses here report about 200 cars new corn in transit.

Minneapolis wires: Movement of wheat in the country will be moderate until it freezes up, as farmers are completing their fall work.

FLOUR AND FEED.

FLOUR—Market quiet. The only export business is in filling orders from outside countries other than Europe, and these only occasionally and small in amount. The leading foreign buyers are entirely out at prices asked. This also has checked domestic buying.

Soft winter flour—Patent, $3.35@3.50; straights, $3.20@3.30; extra fancy, $3.05@3.15; clears, $2.90@3; low grades, $2.40@2.70; hard winter flours—patents, $3.15@3.25; straights, $2.95@3.05; clear, $2.50@2.75. Spring wheat patent, $3.40@3.60, bulk. Foregoing prices for lots from first hands, track or at depot this side. Orders higher.

RYE FLOUR—In a jobbing way at $2.90 in jute sacks and $3.15 in wood for new. Mixed and inferior less.

CORNMEAL, ETC.—F. o. b.: City meal at $2.90; grits, hominy and pearl meal at $3.20.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Eastern jobs at $6.50 per bbl.

MILLFEED—Very strong on good demand and inadequate supplies. Buyers will pay east track basis 71c for bran in large and 72@73c in small sacks and 67c in bulk; 74@75c for mixed feed and 90c in 200s to 95c for ships in 100s. On direct orders in large sacks, bran at 72c and mids at 92c. In 100s West Side bran at 72c and mids at 90c. At mill bran sells at 72c and ships at $1.

HAY.

Received 475 tons local and 110 tons through; shipped 199 tons. A firm market for good feeding timothy, which meets ready sale and as choice scarce an occasional car extra nice commands $13. The low grades continue dull. Prairie strong, as it is in scant supply. The best clover is in demand.

GRAIN MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Higher cables had a good effect on the wheat market today and the opening was strong, especially for May, and a large trade was done in the latter month. On the advance there were liberal offerings and a decline in both December and May followed. December opened a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher, at 71⅛c to 71⅜c, and sold down to 71⅛@71⅜c on the decline. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 853 cars, which, with local receipts of 115 cars—seven of contract grade—made total receipts for the three points of 968 cars, against 819 cars last week and 744 cars a year ago.

Later more strength was manifested, influenced mainly by the advance in corn. After selling down to 71⅛@71¼c there was a rally to 71⅞@72c for December and the close was at the high point, with a gain of ⅝c.

Corn opened strong on higher cables. Considerable liquidation of December stuff took place the first hour, but the offerings were well taken, principally by shorts, although there was a good demand from scattered sources. December opened unchanged to ⅛c lower, at 49⅜c to 49½c. On shorts covering, induced by predictions of more unfavorable weather, the market advanced to 49⅞c, but reacted again to 49⅝c. Local receipts were 208 cars, with 25 of contract grade.

Later in the day an active demand for December developed, led by a prominent long and the market was strong, December closing 1½@1⅝c higher, at 51@51¼c after selling at 51¼c.

There was no feature to trading in oats and the opening was strong, in sympathy with corn. Very little business transacted the first hour. December opened ⅛c higher, at 31⅛c, and fluctuated but slightly the first part of the day.

Provisions opened firm on steady prices for hogs and moderate receipts. There was a fair demand for pork, which helped to maintain prices, but there was no special feature to trading. January opened 2½c to 5c higher, at $15.82½ to $15.85; lard was unchanged at $9.05, with ribs a shade lower to a shade higher, at $8.32½ to $8.35.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The announcement from Washington that the end of the coal strike was virtually assured by the acceptance of the miners' representatives of the terms proposed caused great satisfaction in Wall street and was reflected in an active, advancing market. The news was acted upon in the London market long before our opening here, and prices were lifted, materially, for many of the internationally listed stocks. Buying was in large blocks throughout the list at the opening here and the coal stocks opened wide with average gains of a point. There were 16,000 shares of Pennsylvania traded in at from 163 to 163½. In the general list advances of a point were reported in St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Louisville, Canadian Pacific, Atchison, Union Pacific and many of the specialties.

The market overcame its hesitancy and rose aggressively again to the highest. Many important stocks sold between 2 and 3 points above yesterday, the list including Louisville, Illinois Central, Delaware & Hudson, Chicago & Northwestern, Norfolk & Western, Hocking Valley, Canada Southern, Consolidated Gas and the Colorado & Southern stocks. Lackawanna jumped 5 and United States Express 10¼. Very large purchases were made in the Pacifics and the southwesterns, but the coal stocks were less active. Now that the coal strike is less important as a market factor there was some disposition to discount the expected relief to the money market by the rumored government bond purchase by Secretary Shaw. Call loans opened at 8 per cent and were in active demand. Toward noon, the market eased off again on realizing and the activity ceased. Bonds were firm at noon.

Pennsylvania and the stocks of controlled roads became the leaders of the market, especially Norfolk & Western, which advanced over 3 points to 77¼. The market otherwise was quiet and featureless, but the best prices were well maintained generally.

Large amounts of stocks were liquidated on the rise and there was an immediate setback in prices which was, however, limited to fractions aside from Louisville, which fell 1¼. Buying by the short interest and the purchase of some considerable stocks for the long account rallied the market quickly and declines were generally made up. Louisville & Nashville, Illinois Central, Atchison, Norfolk & Western and Sugar, in fact, sold higher than at the opening. St. Paul also came up smartly, but yielded again to last night's level, while Reading was sluggish around 69¼. General Electric jumped 6 points. At 11 o'clock the market was quieter and irregular on a small range.

Prices yielded in spots on traders' selling notably in Reading, Missouri Pacific and Louisville. Their influence on the general market was largely counteracted by heavy buying of St. Paul and Sugar, which forged upward steadily. The general list in the main was feverish, but the price movement was not important.

Hard to Tell Bird's Age.

From the New York Tribune.

Ora W. Knight of Bangor, former president of the Maine Ornithological Society, says it is extremely difficult to tell the age to which birds live. It is hard to keep track of individual birds from year to year in the wild state, and those in captivity probably do not live their natural length of years. One seagull, known as Gull Dick to the keepers of the Brenton Reef lightship, was observed in that vicinity for 24 years. This bird was very tame and had certain peculiarities by which it could be positively identified. There is no telling how old the bird was when it was first observed, so nothing more than its minimum age can be stated with entire accuracy. It is quite probable that the gull was over 30 years old when it died. Crows and ravens are popularly supposed to live from 50 to 100 years, but there is no convincing evidence that this is true, and good authorities on ornithology doubt it. It is thought likely that eagles and the larger hawks live to be 50 years old, and perhaps more. Again, there is no proof that this is true. Mr. Knight thinks that the sparrows, warblers and other small birds live from 6 to 10 years, but confesses that this is nothing more than a rough estimate. He has observed some loggerhead shrikes, or butcher birds, which to his knowledge have nested in the same trees for periods varying from six to ten years, but he calls attention to the fact that he did not know how old they were when he first began to observe them. He has had some pine grosbeaks in captivity which lived from four to seven years, but their age was not known when they were captured out of doors in the winter.

Unique Hotel Rules.

Following are the rules and regulations posted in the Europan Hotel in Bloomington, Ill.:

Board, 50 cents per square foot; meals extra; breakfast at 6, supper at 7.

Guests are requested not to speak to the dumb-waiter; guests wishing to get up without being called can have self-rising flour for lunch.

Not responsible for diamonds, bicycles and other valuables kept on the counter; they should be kept under the safe.

The office is convenient to all connections; horses to hire, 25 cents a day.

Guests wishing to do a little driving will find hammer and nails in the closet.

If the room gets too warm open the window and see the fire escape.

If you are fond of athletics and like good jumping, lift the mattress and see the bed spring.

Baseballists desiring a little practice will find a pitcher on the stand.

If the lights go out, take a soda—that is light enough for any man.

Anyone troubled with nightmare will find a halter in the barn.

Don't worry about paying your bill; the house is supported by its foundation.

The watermelon is brought to market early in summer from the far South. The first to arrive in market come from Florida or from New Orleans. The best quality is said to be raised in Georgia.

Australia is, luckily perhaps for us, preparing for a coal boom. In the eastern portion of that country there are 62,000 square miles of coal-bearing land.

HARD LUCK FOR A WISCONSIN MAN

MISSED BEING OWNER OF INDEPENDENCE MINE.

HIS MAN BECAME A MANIAC

When He Recovered Stratton Had Struck the Mine the Prospector Had First Found.

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct., 16.—F. G. Babcock, a real estate dealer of this city, has a hard luck story above the average. Only the fact that an old man went insane, Babcock says, he would have been the owner of the famous Independence mine at Cripple Creek, instead of W. S. Stratton.

In 1892 Babcock was a clerk in the Oakland hotel at Denver, much patronized by miners and prospectors. Late in 1892 an old prospector came to the hotel, after a season spent in work near Cripple Creek. All he brought back with him was a flour sack filled with float. He was convinced that the float would prove valuable, but when he showed it to people they laughed at him. Out of pity for the old man, Babcock went with the miner to an assay office and presented the float for an assay. The assayer looked at the dirt and refused to make the assay, stating that it would be worthless. The old man was insistent, and finally the assayer consented to make the test. The following day Babcock returned, paid for the assay and asked for the returns. The assayer turned the matter off, and sought to find where the float had come from, but the old man refused to tell. Then the assayer showed the miners that the float had assayed $121 to the ton.

The old man when he heard the tidings became exceedingly nervous and Babcock was forced to assist him to his hotel. He was so ill that he was not able to leave the hotel that night, but he promised to take Babcock to the scene of his find on the morrow.

But when the morrow came the old man was a raving maniac and the next day it was found necessary to take him to an asylum. His secret was never imparted to Babcock, but two years after, when the old man was released from the asylum partially cured, he hurried to the Cripple Creek region only to find that Stratton had long since staked out the valuable claim. The old man went wandering away into the hills and was finally recommitted to the asylum.

Babcock with the float given him by the old man as a sample spent nearly two years searching for the mine of fabulous value, but he never found the duplicate of the float until Stratton made his great strike in 1894.

Babcock has always looked with envy on the millions of Stratton and claims that the hard luck of a man going insane when confronted with the possibility of untold wealth alone kept him and not Stratton from securing the famous Independence mine.

COLONISTS GOING TO FAR ALASKA

ONE HUNDRED FAMILIES GOING FROM NEW YORK.

FARMING AND STOCK RAISING.

Colony to Be Established Next Spring in the Tanana Valley.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 16.—Preparations are nearly completed by which 100 families from central New York will be settled in the basin of the upper Tanana river, Alaska. The colouy will leave New York in February, and will cross the trail in from Valdes in March. A tract extending 60 or 70 miles in either direction has been selected as the home of the settlers, and when the railway to the Yukon is completed it will pass through the center of the tract. The agricultural possibilities and advantages of the land have been demonstrated conclusively and farming implements and stock will accompany the intending settlers to their destination.

The idea originated with Mark E. Bray, who has spent the last eight years in exploiting the different parts of Alaska and the Northwest territory.

In the party will be at least 75 families, and before the start Mr. Bray thinks 100 will be ready to go. Their reason for leaving New York is that the farming land is worn out with long usage, and they wish to establish themselves in new homes where their efforts may be more fruitful of good results. Mr. Bray says of the country to which he will lead the settlers:

"My investigations have been sufficiently extensive to prove that vegetables of most varieties, hay and grain will grow in the upper basin of the Tanana. The climate is not excessively cold during the winter, as we have the regular chinook winds at times, and the basin is not too far from the coast to prevent it receiving the moderating effect of the Japan current. In the long days of spring and summer the great amount of sunlight makes vegetation grow remarkably fast. Potatoes and such produce mature by the middle of July or the latter part of that month. Redtop grass covers the whole country to a height of five or six feet. This is very nutritious, and is excellent feed for horses, cattle and sheep. Last year, as an experiment, I allowed three horses to find their own living during the winter, and by the time sprng came they were fat, showing planly that the climate is not severe and that feed is plentiful, even though the ground is covered with snow.

"Dissimilar from any other parts of Alaska, the basin is not a glacial region. The soil is of black loam, productive in the extreme. All kinds of stock feed upon the tall grass, as the stalks, though large, are tender and the heads containing the seeds are as nourishing as grain. It may be cut for hay and used during the dark season."

MOODY AND YATES TO SPEAK.

East St. Louis Republicans Will Have Big Meeting.

The Republicans of East St. Louis will have large doings Thursday night. Gov. Richard Yates will be there and will deliver an address, under the auspices of the Republican clubs of the city. The governor will be accompanied by Secretary of the Navy Moody, who will also speak. Mr. Moody is acting as the personal representative of President Roosevelt in the West.

There will be no parade, but it is expected that there will be a great turnout of the Republican voters.

FARMERS OR PEDDLERS?

Country Produce Men Will Seek Decision on This Point.

St. Louis Copunty farmers who sell their produce in this city have formed an organization and employed lawyers to present their side of the license controversy with License Collector Clifford.

Mr. Clifford holds that the farmers who sell their wares from house to house in the city should pay peddlers' licenses of $15 a year for one-horse vehicles and $25 for double teams.

The farmers contend that it is unfair to charge them license fees and that the city orodinnances do not authorize it.

City Counselor Bates, in an opinion upon this point, says that farmers are exempt from paying the fee so long as they do not solicit patronage from house to house.

The farmers, some of whom have been arrested and repeatedly fined, hold that the license collector is persecuting them. A meeting is bing arranged at which the city counselor will argue the matter with the farmers' attorneys.

America Glorified.

From the Cardiff (Wales) Western Mail.

"America glorified by gallant little Wales" is the title of an article by Eos Wyrg in the Anglo-American. The article is really an appreciative sketch of the American consul and vice-consul for the port of Cardiff, the Hon. and Rev. D. T. Phillips, and of his son, Mr. E. L. Phillips. Two capital photographs of these gentlemen and an extract from a speech by Lord Tredegar, containing kindly and witty references to the Welsh-American gentlemen in question, contribute to the interest of an article which many will read with pleasure.

CHILDREN'S LONG JOURNEY

After Traveling Thousands of Miles, Immigration Officers Seize Them.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—After traveling from Warsaw, Poland, to Chicago, Gisela and Bella Branovitch, aged 13 and 10 years respectively, have been arrested for violation of the United States immigration law, they being considered dependents. They came here to live with an uncle, Max Branovitch.

Through an interpreter, it was learned that the children had been taken from Warsaw to Palestine by an aunt. From Palestine they journeyed alone to Paris and then to Quebec, where they were met by another uncle who succeeded in evading the immigration officers and brought the children to Chicago. The children probably will be returned to the uncle at Quebec.

London has over 500 railway stations, exclusive of goods depots.

PREVENTED SISTER'S SUICIDE

Then, Because He Lost Political Job He Shot Himself With Revolver He Took From Her.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 16.—With a revolver that he took away from his sister, Margaret, so she would not commit suicide, Patrick J. Darcy killed himself this morning.

Just two years ago his wife shot herself in the right temple while in bed. Darcy also shot himself in the right temple.

Despondency over the loss of a political position he held for 18 years was the cause of suicide. His sister became demented because he lost his place. He took the revolver from her a few weeks ago. Mr. Darcy was about 60 years old.

If President Schwab comes back cured what a rivalry there will be among manufacturers of nerve tonic to prove that their stuff did it!—Boston Advertiser.

CHICAGO RESTAURANT TRUST

Five Million-Dollar Combine, Drawing All Big Concerns, Will Be Modeled After the St. Louis Concern.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Chicago is to have a restaurant trust, capitalized at $5,000,000, if the plans of certain promoters are carried out. All the largest restaurants of the city, it is contemplated, are to be drawn under central management, the head of each establishment, however, to retain the direction of his own place.

A large grocery house, bakeries, a central meat market and storage warehouses, from which all the cafes will draw their supplies at wholesale rates, is one feature of the combination scheme. In this way, it is held, a saving of from 5 to 10 per cent can be made direct on the $1,200,000 that seven of the leading restaurants of the city expend annually for supplies.

The active promoter of this tentative plan, modeled on the lines of the St. Louis restaurant combine, which has been in operation for five months, is William A. Conover, an attorney. Others are supposed to be interested with him.

NEW PASSENGER STATION HERE

Rock Island Road Said to Be Negotiating for Property to Erect One.

It is rumored that the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway is acquiring the property in the three large blocks bounded by Clark and Scott avenues and Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets for the purpose of using it for a site upon which to erect a passenger station fronting on Clark avenue.

It is known that there is a great demand for this property, which embraces a tract about 400 by 1500 feet, which is said to be ample space for the traffic of one or more railroads. The Rock Island trains run over the Wabash tracks and this property is readily accessible thereto.

The report has gained credence owing to the fact that the Rock Island has shown a disposition to acquire its own terminals here instead of leasing its facilities from some other company.
